5 TAXICAB UNION OFFICERS FIRED, AGAINST GIBBONS IN COUNCIL VOTE

Teamsters Confer With Walla, Then Wire Hoffa to Demand That Their Dismissal Be Halted.

Five officers of Taxicab Drivers Local 405 told the Post-Dispatch today they were fired from office in the local last Saturday because they opposed Harold J. Gibbons for president of Teamsters Joint Council 13 in the disputed election a year ago.

The deposed officers, who said they were elected in 1957, are: William Boyd, president; Lloyd Young, vice president; R. T. Smith, recording secretary, and Charles Summers and George Reinhart, trustees.

They met today with E. E. (Gene) Walla, president of the Teamsters Construction Drivers Local, who was defeated by Gibbons by a vote of 76 to 71 on the basis of seven disputed joint council votes. The group sent the following telegram to James R. Hoffa, international president, at Washington:

"As members of the executive board of 405, respectfully request you as international president order Harold Gibbons and others acting under him to cease their activities in Local 405. Please be advised in the absence of immediate action by yourself, will be obliged to resort to instant civil action."

Their Last Checks.

Smith told a reporter that when he and the other officers went to Teamsters headquarters, 1641 South Kingshighway, Saturday to collect their $30 monthly expense checks they were informed by a stenographer that the checks were the last they would receive and that they had been ordered removed as officers of Local 405 by Gibbons.

Joseph Bommarito, business agent of the local, later told the officers that he and Philip Reichardt, acting secretary-treasurer, had recommended the removal to Gibbons. The group said Bommarito described the election of the local officers in 1957, under trusteeship, as "a mockery."

The deposed officers expressed the opinion that Gibbons, who named new officers, wanted delegates who will vote for him if a new election for joint council president is ordered.

Under Study by Monitors.

The disputed election is an item of business under consideration by court-appointed monitors, who are investigating Teamster activities nationally. Walla last week requested a new election, although three members of his slate were elected over Gibbons's candidates on Jan. 15, 1958. No meeting of the council has been called by Gibbons since that date.

Boyd and his associates told the reporter that prior to the council election they were "wined and dined" for two days at a hotel in the West End by Gibbons and one of his lieutenants, Pete Saffo. "They made a strong bid for us to vote for Gibbons," a spokesman for the group declared. Each member of the group received $50 for the two days lost away from work during the election, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Gibbons's Comment.

Gibbons, reached by long-distance telephone at Teamsters International Headquarters in Washington, where he is executive assistant to Hoffa, said he removed five officers of Local 405 "due to their own inadequacies." Gibbons said the officers were appointed by him as trustee.

Asked about the future of Local 405, the last of the St. Louis Teamster locals in trusteeship, Gibbons, who is the trustee, said he would gladly restore autonomy.

"If the local becomes stabilized and the officers and members conduct themselves properly I would be happy to be free of the added burden of trusteeship," Gibbons asserted.

He said he is unable to predict when such action may take place. He also declined to enumerate the alleged inadequacies of the deposed officers, in view of their threatened legal action. Local 405 has 1000 members.

Medical Editor Cites Dangers In Sales Methods for New Drugs

Dr. Joseph Garland Says Importunities of Industry May Have Adverse Effect on Public Health.

By SAM B. ARMSTRONG
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1959, Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

BOSTON, Feb. 2 — Unless policy-making officers of some drug manufacturing firms exercise greater restraint in promotion of their products, medical progress and public health may be adversely affected, Dr. Joseph Garland, editor of the New England Journal of Medicine, told the Post-Dispatch today.

Dr. Garland, who was one of the first members of the medical profession to protest vigorously against the increasing importunities of the drug industry, said:

"The physician is in danger of surrending some of his responsibility for the enlightened care of his patients, as well as some of his prestige, in favor of becoming, to too great an extent, a purveyor of proprietary remedies about which he may sometimes lack sufficient knowledge for their consistently intelligent employment."

Rapid expansion of the pharmaceutical industry with the development of antibiotics, tranquilizers and other new drugs, has been accompanied by the adoption of "the promotional methods of big business," often in violation of good taste, Dr. Garland said, adding:

"Such methods carry with them a risk that the legitimate and erstwhile mutually respected partnership between pharmacy and medicine may turn into one in which medicine becomes a junior partner only to the big business of pharmaceutical manufacturing, with its large-scale exploitation of potent and consequently dangerous drugs.

"Agents that have a dynamic effect on physiologic functions may alter those functions adversely as well as favorably, and their availability carries with it an added responsibility for their use."

The parmaceutical industry has become hugely prosperous

TEMPERATURE HERE WILL STAY 10 DEGREES BELOW NORMAL NEXT FIVE DAYS

COLD weather will continue in the St. Louis area tomorrow through Saturday, the Weather Bureau said today in its extended forecast.

The forecast is: Partly cloudy skies for next five days, with a slow warming trend beginning tomorrow or Wednesday; little or no precipitation is expected; temperatures will average about 10 degrees below normal; normal highs are in low 40s, normal low 30 to 35.

BAIL CUTS SOUGHT FOR 20 AMERICANS IN MEXICAN RAID

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 2 —Two California congressmen, Bob Wilson (Rep.) and James B. Utt (Rep.) appealed to the State Department today to obtain reduced bail for 20 of the Americans still in jail at Tijuana as a result of the gambling raid eight days ago at Rosarito Beach, Mexico.

The congressmen, in telegrams to Washington, requested "immediate protests to responsible Mexican authorities" for reasonable bail for the United States citizens.

The setting of $1600 bail for each American on a misdemeanor gambling charge led the prisoners to protest that they are being held for "ransom" by the Mexicans. The amount of bond is four times the maximum $400 fine, the Americans said. Two of the prisoners are women, Mrs. Rita Nathaniel of Santa Monica, Calif., and Miss Olivette Gosselin, of Chula Vista, Calif.

Forty-four United States citizens and 17 Mexicans were arrested by Federal authorities in the raid. The establishment was operated by former St. Louis gambler John Mooney and partners.

AIRLINER WITH 36 ABOARD MAKES EMERGENCY LANDING

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (UPI)—An American Airlines twin-engine Convair with 36 passengers bound for St. Louis and Dallas made an emergency landing today at O'Hare airfield after its landing gear failed to retract following a takeoff. No one was hurt.

Pilot A. A. Cusanelli, Tulsa, Okla., discovered the gear would not retract minutes after the plane was airborne from Midway airport. He was directed to land on the longer runways of O'Hare. The landing was accomplished without incident.

3 PLANS STUDIED FOR IMPROVING DETECTIVE WORK

Three suggested plans for improving the work of the detective bureau are under study by the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

The plans were outlined by Sanford Shoults, professor of police administration at Michigan State University, who conferred here last week with top police officials and directors of the Governmental Research Institute. Preliminary surveys were made by Victor Brannon and Grant Buby, of the Governmental Research Institute, who briefed Shoults in their findings.

Shoults, a retired veteran of the Detroit police department, offered the following recommendations for consideration by the board:

1. All plain clothes officers, to work under the chief of detectives, eliminating district "special officers" who now are responsible to district commanders.

2. Use regular members of the detective force in the respective districts, assisting district police in solving their problems.

3. Abolish the detective bureau, which would be replaced by a criminal investigation division under which plain clothes officers would be used where most needed. Adoption of this plan would require a change in state laws setting up specific administrative personnel of the present detective bureau.

H. Sam Priest, board president, said the suggestions are in the exploratory stage and may be altered after study. The three plans will receive serious consideration in the board's effort to seek better results and Shoults is expected to return periodically for further consultation, Priest observed.

Present objectives of the board are better training of detectives, probably by visiting experts, and closer supervision, Priest added.

Reorganization of the department's uniform force is about completed, Priest pointed out. After the detective bureau is reorganized the traffic division will come under study.

The detective bureau is divided into the following divisions: homicide, narcotics, morality, intelligence unit, automobile theft, bad checks, freight theft, shoplifters, pawn shops and five "flying squads" operating out of Hampton, Page, Penrose, Lucas and Central districts. The flying squads would be eliminated under reorganization of the bureau.

Mother of 7 Replaces Husband In Jail Under Joint Sentence

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 2 (UPI)—A mother of seven children traded places with her husband in Marion county jail last night under terms of a joint sentence imposed on the couple for contempt of court.

Mrs. Catherine Robbins and her husband, Perry, were sentenced by Juvenile Court Judge Harold Fields to spend alternate weeks in jail for failing to pay the Welfare Department $21 a week for support of their 12-year-old wayward son.

The sentence was handed down last Wednesday and Robbins was jailed until last night when his wife entered a cell and he was freed for a week to resume his job. The couple is scheduled to exchange places behind bars next Sunday night when Mrs. Robbins will be freed to return to her job for a week.

Fields said the indeterminate jail sentences would continue until the Robbins pay the Welfare Department $21 a week plus $1200 they already owe, or prove they are unable to pay and continue to support themselves and their other six children.

Robbins and his wife said they felt they "can't afford to pay $21 a week for one child." However, the judge said he had information the parents had a combined income of more than $600 a month. Their income did not include some unemployment insurance they also had drawn, Fields said.

PRAVDA REPORTS ANTI-PARTY BLOC WAS READY TO SEIZE CONTROL

Had Even Picked Date, Khrushchev Associate Says — Move Quashed Four Days Before Deadline.

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP) — Pravda has given new details in the Kremlin's campaign against its so-called anti-party opponents. The Communist party newspaper charged that they planned to take over the Soviet government on June 18, 1957.

Quoting from a speech before the current twenty-first Communist party Congress by Alexei Kirichenko, a presidium member close to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, Pravda said the "anti-party" move was quashed by a quick meeting of the party's Central Committee only four days before the takeover date.

An earlier summary of Kirichenko's speech, issued Saturday by the Soviet news agency Tass, did not go into details. The agency reported he had attacked the "anti-party" group, which includes former Premier Nikolai Bulganin, former Foreign Ministers V. M. Molotov and Dmitri Shepilov, former Premier Georgi Malenkov and former economic boss Lazar Kaganovich. All have been moved to jobs in remote places.

Buildup to Downfall.

Kirichenko, a Khrushchev protege who formerly served as party chief in the Soviet Premier's native Ukraine, now is a full member of the presidium. He gave a chronology that began with the return of Khrushchev and Bulganin from a trip to Finland on June 14.

The Central Committee formally began its meeting June 22 and ended June 29. Then came the announcement by the committee of the disgrace of four of the leaders. Bulganin was not downgraded until later.

Kirichenko said "anti-party" leaders began trying to subvert the Lenin path immediately after the death of Stalin. He also charged they tried to frustrate the building up of the armed forces.

Pravda quoted Kirichenko as saying: "At almost every meeting of the presidium and Central Committee they attacked everything new. . . .

"But especially they took up arms and furiously began to attack the general line of the party. After the twentieth congress (in 1956), the "anti-party" group dropped the mask and on June 18, 1957, in an organized manner moved against the course set by the twentieth party Congress—that is at the time when their participants counted their forces in the presidium of the Central Committee, when they arrived at the conclusion they might command forces to change the policy of the party and the government."

Kirichenko added "it is known how it ended. . . . The vileness of these splintering political doublecrossers and the evil of the road they took becomes clearer. . . .

"Everybody knows how these contemptible dogmatics, sitting up to their ears in conservatism, acted. They operated with tendentiously selected quotations not suspecting how far they were from the Marx-Lenin line from life and from the people.

"It is said they picked quotations from books, had a head full of quotations, but did not know what quotations to use when they met a situation not described in the books."

U.S. Red Speaks.

An American Communist told the current party congress today that United States jails contain many political prisoners.

James Jackson, secretary of the National Committee of the United States party, told the sixth session of the congress:

"If President Eisenhower could say, as (Premier) Khrushchev did in his report, that in the United States there is not a single political prisoner, then many leaders of the Communist and workers movement of the United States would be able to be present here and to greet the delegates of the Congress."

Jackson named "many Communists who are languishing in the jails of the United States," a summary of his speech broadcast by Moscow radio said.

Jackson said the implementation of the Soviet seven-year plan will boost the U.S.S.R. to a "height unattainable in the capitalist world."

He said the Communist party in the United States will find in Khrushchev's appeal for world peace a great source of inspiration and moral support. He added that the American Communist party has "removed the ulcers of revisionism in its leadership."

Tight and Loose.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Feb. 2 (UPI) — Delegates attending a Catholic Youth Organization meeting last night voted in favor of a resolution that a dress ought to be "tight enough to show the wearer is a woman and loose enough to show she is a lady."

INTEGRATION UNDER WAY WITHOUT DISORDERS IN VIRGINIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

School Integration in Virginia

LEWIS COUSINS, lone Negro assigned to Maury High School at Norfolk, Va., is seated by himself in assembly room today after the school opened on an integrated basis.

FOUR NEGROES JOIN CLASSES IN ARLINGTON, 17 AT NORFOLK

Latter Institutions Had Been Closed Since Last Fall — Police on Guard in Both Cities.

ARLINGTON, Va., Feb. 2 (AP) — The color line in Virginia public schools was broken for the first time today as four Negro children entered a junior high in Arlington and 17 Negro pupils began entering six public schools in Norfolk.

There were no disorders.

Police were guarding the areas and in Arlington only pupils and teachers were allowed inside an area around the public schools.

The Negroes, three boys and a girl, walked quietly into the Stratford Junior High School through a side entrance. The school has more than 1000 white children.

At Norfolk the 17 Negroes, 11 girls and six boys, entered three junior and three senior high schools in which there are 7000 white children. The schools had been closed since last fall. The arrivals of the Negroes were greeted by gatherings of curious white students and specially assigned policemen at the six buildings, but there were no incidents.

Governor 'Gratified.'

In Richmond, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond said he was "most gratified" over the absence of any disorder in the two localities.

Questioned by reporters, Gov. Almond hinted that he may be prepared to move about the state on short notice if the occasion demands. The Governor's body guard, normally in plain clothes, wore his state trooper uniform today.

A reporter asked if he would remain in Richmond or go to "the front lines" and Almond replied: "My present intention is to remain here. The lines are not only in Norfolk and Arlington but are here also. Sometimes you have to make decisions quickly—some people say this one was too quick."

This was an apparent reference to his quick decision eight days ago to call the General Assembly into extra session.

("So far, so good," Lt. Gov. A. E. S. Stephens told United Press International. "The question is what will happen inside the schools. Kids can be cruel sometimes.")

At Arlington, the junior high school resembled a fortress under guard. Police stood by with riot guns and five plainclothesmen and a police woman were inside the school.

The Negro children entered the school at 8:22 a.m. for seventh grade classes beginning at 8:45. There was no sign of picketing near the school or other effort to discourage them.

Walked Up Together.

The four Negro children walked up to the school grounds together from a little used roadway to the south. There were unconfirmed reports that they had come by automobile together to this area.

The girl is Floria Thompson, whose father is a government clerk. The boys are Ronald Deskins, whose father is an Arlington fireman; Lance D. Newman, son of a bank janitor, and Michael Jones, son of a government machinst. The Newman boy is 13 years old, the others 12.

From the expressions on their faces none of the four appeared worried or frightened.

The white children streaming into the school did not appear excited. Nor was there any indication of undue absenteeism although an anti-integration organization had circulated a letter to white students urging them to boycott classes.

A school spokesman said that there was no discernible hostile reaction in the building. The four Negroes were placed by pairs in two classrooms.

Attendance appeared to be about normal. There were 73 students absent today, out of an enrollment of 1076.

One Girl Departs.

One girl who gave her name as Joann Potts, 13, arrived at the school, learned the Negroes were there, and promptly walked out.

"I'm not going back until they get those niggers out," she told reporters.

(However, United Press International said her mother phoned the principal and told him her daughter was "going

CIVIL AIR PATROL INVESTIGATOR IS NAMED IN FRAUD

Officer Said to Have Spent $34,350 That He Recovered From Another Man.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Senators charged today that a Civil Air Patrol investigator caught a fellow officer misappropriating funds, then spent $34,350 of the money for himself.

The patrol is a civilian auxiliary to the Air Force. It is widely known for its mercy flights.

The Senate Permanent subcommittee on investigations detailed the story in a report to the Senate. It named the men involved as Lt. Col. Hugh M. Pierce Jr. and Lt. Col. Alfred W. Sutter of CAP's New York wing. Both are civilians whose work in the patrol carried the military title.

The subcommittee headed by Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, said New York county district attorney Frank Hogan is investigating further.

The report said the patrol has been reimbursed for the entire sum involved, and that Pierce and Sutter have been dismissed.

Cash from Yacht Sale.

The money involved was described in the report as realized from the sale of yachts given to the patrol by wealthy donors. It added that the Internal Revenue Service is checking on evidence that some of the donors claimed excessive income tax deductions for the gifts. None of the donors' names was mentioned.

The subcommittee said Pierce in 1956 developed the idea of inducing the owners to give CAP the yachts, then sold the vessels and used most of the proceeds for himself. "A small amount of the proceeds was actually given to and used by the New York wing," the report said.

Sutter finally was assigned

EISENHOWER MAY ADD MUSIC TO HIS BACON AND EGGS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI) —President Eisenhower has been giving a series of breakfasts for ranking Republicans in Congress and as the fight intensifies over the Administration's legislative program, there may be more of these early morning pow-wows at the White House.

In fact, the President has discussed adding music to his bacon-and-eggs meetings. It may be denied, as they say in the now-it-can-be-told columns, but a fellow swears on his copy of the Social Directory that the President talked to him the other night about having glee club-type entertainment at some of his breakfasts.

Not necessarily as a regular thing, the President was represented as saying, but on a trial basis. As the Senators are forking their finnan haddie, a small glee club could be swinging away on "There's a Great Day Coming."

G.O.P. IS GIVEN WARNING IT MAY DIE OF OLD AGE

© New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—The Republican party's agonizing self-appraisal included, recently, an outspoken talk at the White House by Dr. Francis Robinson, a Gallup poll official and a Republican.

Dr. Robinson told President Eisenhower and a small group what he thought was wrong with the G.O.P., using charts to emphasize his points. One chart, showing how younger voters have shied from the party, brought this comment from Dr. Robinson:

PREDICTED SNOW DOESN'T SHOW, BUT LOW IS LOW

Heavy snow forecast by the Weather Bureau for yesterday morning failed to materialize, but its predicted low was all too accurate. The low temperature this morning was 9 degrees at 3 o'clock.

"It seemed a fair bet that a few inches of snow would fall on St. Louis judging from the 8 to 10 inches that covered south central Kansas Saturday," Meteorologist Walter Parker explained. "But, as the snow zone moved eastward, it simply faded," he reported.

Meanwhile, with the sun shining, any groundhog that ventured into the outdoors today in the St. Louis area was sure to see its shadow, the traditional signal for six more weeks of harsh weather.

SIMCOE TO PRESS FOR INQUIRY INTO HOSPITAL POWER

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2—State Representative Bernard Simcoe (Dem.), Callaway county, said today he would go ahead with plans to seek a House investigation of a controversial power contract for Fulton State Hospital despite Gov. James T. Blair's cancellation of the contract last Saturday.

Simcoe said he would modify the wording of a resolution he will introduce today, but that it would call for an inquiry into all aspects of the electric power problem at the hospital and circumstances surrounding award of the contract last September to the Missouri Power & Light Co.

He said he had had difficulty obtaining facts about the contract after the dispute became known several weeks ago.

When he asked C. Rouss Gallop, director of public health and welfare, why the contract "went to the highest bidder" instead of to the Callaway Electric Co-Operative, Gallop told him to "ask the man on the second floor," Simcoe said. He added that he understood this to mean Gov. Blair.

Blair's Explanation.

The Governor said Saturday he approved the award to the privately owned utility on the basis of information that it offered "the lowest and best proposal on the basis of service and price."

In canceling the contract Blair said he wanted "to give everyone a chance to bid." His action followed by a few hours a special meeting of the Fulton City Council, which adopted a resolution demanding the cancellation and refusing to agree to a halt in the proposed legislative investigation.

The meeting was called after Fulton Councilman W. C. Whitlow reported receiving a telephone call from the Governor offering to cancel the contract if Simcoe would hold up his resolution for the investigation.

Gov. Blair denied making an effort to stop the investigation and said he merely told Simcoe that if the City of Fulton, which owns a power plant, wanted to bid, he would reopen the matter.

There has been sharp disagreement over whether the

Caught Short With Longer Walk, Pupils Stay Home From School

PONTREMOLI, Italy, Feb. 2 (AP)—San Rocco di Gravagna is the dreamland of children who don't like to go to school.

The village of 400 inhabitants is a quarter of a mile from San Bartolomeo, a town of 4000. Last year a provincial public education inspector reported the schools of both villages were below standard, so it was decided to build a new school halfway between them.

When the new school was ready, San Rocco officials measured the distance between the school entrance and their village and found it was 75 yards farther than the distance between the entrance and San Bartolomeo. They objected strongly.

The engineer who built the school explained it was impossible to build it at the exact halfway mark because the ground in the center was soggy and might cave in.

"Why then," demanded the folk of San Rocco, "did you not build the school 75 yards closer to San Rocco?"

The school was opened last October. The San Rocco children did not attend. In spite of the pleading of provincial authorities, no pupil from San Rocco has gone to school yet this year.

GLENNAN SAYS U.S. MUST 'ROLL UP SLEEVES' IN SPACE RACE

Warns Americans to Prepare for Long Haul or Else 'Buy Telescopes to Watch Russians Pioneer.'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI) —Dr. T. Keith Glennan, director of the National Space Administration, warned today that Americans must "roll up our sleeves . . . for years to come" to catch up with Russia in the race for space.

He told the House Space Committee that time, money and effort must be poured into a sustained program if this country is to overcome Russia's lead.

"If our space programs are to be run on an off-again, on-again basis, zigging and zagging with the turn of every new year," he said, "then we'd better spend our money buying telescopes to watch the Russians pioneer in space."

What U. S. Plans.

Glennan gave this resume of United States space plans for the immediate future:

Hurl a 10-ton space craft into orbit around the earth by 1962.

Fire a two-ton space craft "into deep space—far beyond the moon" by the same year.

Orbit a 75-ton space craft around the earth by 1965.

Conceding that Russia has rockets more powerful than anything in the United States space arsenal, Glennan said:

"We are behind the Russians on the time scale because they have bigger boosters. We shall have to spend large sums of money and work harder to attain our space goals as soon as we want."

He said the United States has the resources, the intelligence, the technical skills and "certainly the necessary wealth." What it needs, he said, is "determination — the willingness to roll up our sleeves and get the jobs done."

Estimates Russian Lead.

Glennan told the committee that Russia is 18 months to two years ahead of the United States in developing powerful rockets.

He said pouring more millions of dollars into the United States program would not appreciably speed it up, but only give greater guarantees of success.

"I have no hesitancy in predicting we will close the gap," Glennan said.

When Representative John McCormack (Dem.), Massachusetts, asked him if he expected the Russians to put a man in space this year, Glennan replied:

"I wouldn't put it past them."

His assistant director, Hugh Dryden, testified the United States would need 10 to 15 years to put a man on the moon—some five years more than estimated by some experts.

Representative James G. Fulton (Rep.), Pennsylvania, snapped that if the first American does not reach the moon before then "there'll be a man there saying 'nyet' when he arrives."

By The Associated Press.

President Eisenhower, in his first annual report to Congress on space progress, said the goal of this nation is peaceful interplanetary flight.

Looking beyond the United States project to place a man in orbit within two years, the Chief Executive said that new programs are aimed at "exploring our solar system—first by unmanned, then by manned deep-space vehicles."

"As man-made devices, one after another have reconnoitered the frontiers of space," he said, "there is a realization that the human race has begun its greatest, most daring adventure."

"The benefits that will come as man's peaceful conquest of space proceeds should be shared with the world."

The President's comments were contained in a 53-page document, summing up space achievements of 1958. The annual report is required by the National Aeronautics and Space Act.

Mr. Eisenhower said, "A beginning has been made of which we may well be proud." But he cautioned that "we are, however, only just over the threshold."

The detailed review said:

Several navigation satellites to provide all-weather direction for ships, planes and submarines will be launched from the West Coast during the first six months of this year. The first will have a 150-pound payload and is expected to stay aloft about three months but later versions will be larger and longer-lived.

So-called "fixed" communications satellites will be sent up to an altitude of 22,000 miles, where they will revolve once every 24 hours and thus appear to be stationary because of the rotation of the earth at the same rate. They are planned for 1960 or 1961."

Previous landing problems are "insignificant compared to the complications involved in successful recovery or landing of space craft," but there are several methods for solving the difficulties.

Housing Bias Now Underground In New York, Rights Unit Is Told

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP) —The Federal Civil Rights Commission heard testimony today that open discrimination in housing has gone underground in New York City because of anti-bias laws and policies.

The testimony came at the opening session of a two-day exploratory hearing—the commission's first on housing discrimination.

New York City has chosen as the site, the commission said, because it is the largest city and because, among American cities, it has the most far-reaching laws on housing discrimination through state and local legislation.

The commission, created in 1957 as a watchdog of constitutional guarantees, has previously concentrated on the denial of voting rights to Negroes in the South.

Dr. Alfred J. Marrow, chairman of the city's Commission On Intergroup Relations, told the federal agency that "outright discrimination has gone underground in New York City because the body of law and the positive assertions of our governmental policy have made it very clear that i has no proper place in our normal course of affairs."

Marrow's agency administers the city's fair housing practices law, which makes illegal the refusal to rent or sell private housing on the basis of race, color or creed. The law, first of its kind in the United States, became effective last April.

A state law outlaws discrimination in public housing and publicly-assisted private housing.

Dr. Frank S. Horne, executive director of the city agency, said public anti-discrimination policy has been responsible for the spreading of minority families outside the so-called ghetto areas of the city.

Horne said that despite encouraging signs that more unrestricted housing opportunities will spur minority dispersion, above 80 per cent of the city's 950,000 Negroes must live in four areas of concentration in the city mainly under conditions that threaten the welfare and well-being of all the city's residents.

"Discrimination does exist in New York City's housing supply," Horne said, "and this discrimination runs the gamut of types and costs of housing . . . from $15-a-room tenement apartments to a $75,000 downpayment luxury co-operative."

He said that the city agency had received 226 complaints of housing discrimination last year.

BONN ADVOCATES 4-POWER TALKS ON GERMANY IN MAY

BONN, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Adenauer Government called today for a four-power Foreign Ministers conference to discuss the German problem in the second half of May.

A government spokesman told a press conference that Bonn proposes the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany hold a special conference of their own in the tenth anniversary meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Washington April 2-4.

He said the West's reply to the Soviet peace treaty proposal of Jan. 10 should be completed at this time and submitted to the full Atlantic treaty body for ratification. The Foreign Ministers meeting with the Soviet Union should follow late in May, he added.

U.S. PRIEST PRAYS IN MOSCOW FOR RED CONVERSION

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP)—An American Roman Catholic priest prayed in Moscow yesterday for the conversion of Russia.

The Rev. Louis F. Dion of Worcester, Mass., said low mass in a temporary chapel set up in the library of the French embassy. He also held services in the United States empassy apartment of a staff member.

Father Dion, who arrived here last week, held the first Roman Catholic religious services for foreigners on a regular basis since the Rev. Joseph Bissonette left the Soviet Union in March 1955. As has been his custom for the last 10 years, Father Dion led off the post-mass prayers with a prayer for the conversion of Russia.

U.S. IS WARNED AGAINST A-TEST PACT WITH REDS

Military Leaders Say Anything Less Than Precise Controls Would Be Perilous.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Three of the nation's top military leaders have advised that the United States use extreme caution in making agreements with Russia for the suspension of nuclear tests.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, said a bar on nuclear weapons tests will not in itself "reduce tensions or eliminate the danger of war or surprise attack."

A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee today made public a censored version of his closed door testimony plus that of Thomas D. White, Air Force Chief of Staff, and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, Chief of Naval Operations.

White told the subcommittee that agreements "must be capable of positive and precise control and enforcement."

"Should anything less occur," he said, "this nation's security and that of the free world would be unacceptably compromised."

Burke was quoted as saying that in the face of the Russian record of violating agreements any disarmament agreement with them "must include an inspection system which will reveal immediately any violation."

RUSSIANS DEMAND VETO ON CONTROLS

GENEVA, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Soviet Union today demanded a veto over all operations of the inspection and control machinery designed to police any bar on nuclear weapons tests.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin spoke for almost two hours, at a three-power conference, in support of this Russian position.

The United States and British delegations informed him his sweeping demands nullified any idea of true inspection and control.

The Soviet proposal dealt with voting procedures in the proposed seven-nation control commission which would be set up under the treaty being negotiated here. The three atomic powers — the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union—would have permanent seats on that commission.

Tsarapkin maintained that these three powers should have the right even to veto personnel appointments and dismissals in the control organization. He said that the three powers each should have the right to veto sites for the proposed 180 control posts, and even the routes used by aircraft taking samples of the atmosphere to determine if there has been a nuclear explosion.

Thus, a country charged with sneaking a nuclear weapons test could veto the personnel of the inspection team chosen to investigate the charge and then veto the finding of the commission iteself.

Tsarapkin asserted, at this forty-sixth session of the conference, that the only way a treaty can work was for the three atomic powers to strive for unanimous decisions. The two Western powers answered that the Russian conception of control was completely contrary to their views on the subject.

The United States and Britain agree that appointment of an administrator for the control system and decisions on budgetary matters should be taken unanimously. But the Western powers refuse to allow every inspection activity to be subjected to political haggling.

RADIO SIGNALS HEARD IN AREA OF SHIP SINKING

Faint Hope for Survivors Revived but Code Is Believed to Have Come From Plane.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 2 (AP) —Weak radio signals stirred faint hope today that some of the 95 persons aboard the missing Danish ship Hans Hedtoft might yet be found amid the iceberg-dotted seas off Greenland.

Hans G. Christiansen, director of Denmark's Greenland Department, said in Copenhagen there was little doubt the signals, picked up by a rescue ship and two Greenland shore stations, came from a survivor of the Hedtoft, which collided with an iceberg Friday.

But Royal Canadian Air Force search and rescue headquarters here said the irregular dot-dash messages came on a frequency normally used by aircraft sending "homing" signals. Headquarters said it was convinced the signals did not come from a lifeboat of the Hans Hedtoft.

United States Coast Guard headquarters in New York said its cutter Campbell, which has been engaged in a fruitless search for survivors since Saturday, had not heard any signals on the frequencies normally used by lifeboats.

The Campbell was en route to where something, perhaps an overturned lifeboat, was sighted yesterday. The spot is about 100 miles southwest of Cape Farewell, the southeast tip of Greenland.

The 2785-ton Hedtoft had three aluminum lifeboats, each capable of holding 35 persons. Each lifeboat had a hand-cranked radio.

The ship also had a motor boat for 11 persons and four rubber rafts, which carried automatic radio beacon equipment. There also were portable radio transmitters available on the Hedtoft's bridge.

Five planes, including two United States Air Force craft, and four ships resumed the search for possible survivors at daybreak today. The freezing 60-mile winds of yesterday had dropped to 45 miles, and waves were 30 feet high today compared to 40 yesterday. Visibility was about seven miles in light snow.

JOHN L. LEWIS IS BETTER, APPARENTLY HAS PNEUMONIA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Labor leader John L. Lewis is much improved today, his doctor said. The 78-year-old president of the United Mine Workers union entered Georgetown University Hospital Friday and suffered an attack yesterday.

Dr. John B. Minor called the illness serious last night. Today he said, "Mr. Lewis is much improved and seems to have responded to treatment—we believe it is not an embolism but pneumonia." An embolism is a clotting or blocking of the blood. Pneumonia is much more susceptible to treatment with drugs.

Castro Flies to Oriente Province To Begin Land Reform Program

Cuban Government Sets Up New Tribunals to Speed Up 'War Crimes' Trials.

HAVANA, Feb. 2 (AP) — Fidel Castro, his political revolution won, launched an agrarian reform program today. He flew to his home province of Oriente to implement the program promised the tenant farmers and squatters who helped him overthrow Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship in Cuba.

Meanwhile, the "war crimes" trials of Batista supporters were expected to resume at full pace. Capt. Pedro Morejon, first to die in the Havana trials, fell before a firing squad late Saturday, revolutionary sources said. To speed up the trials the government planned to set up six new tribunals in Havana, 10 in Santiago, and others elsewhere.

Vast Program.

In his stay in Oriente, birthplace of the revolution, Castro planned to set in motion a vast program aimed at distributing thousands of acres of undeveloped privately owned land to landless peasants. The government says fewer than 100 sugar producers and cattle ranchers control 50 per cent of the land in the eastern province, most of it undeveloped.

Some government lands also are supposed to be distributed. The Public Works Ministry has ordered the removal of all business houses established illegally on state property.

The revolutionary leader also is expected to launch a large-scale program for the building of homes, schools and medical centers in the rugged Sierra Maestra. Castro and his brother Raul have been stressing that agrarian reform is an integral part of the revolution and that the farmer has been Cuba's forgotten man.

Even before he emerged victorious, Castro had an agrarian law drawn up. He is now trying to apply this.

Morejon, a veteran of Batista's army, was executed secretly at midnight. The government made no announcement of the execution—264th by unofficial count since the revolutionary victory Jan. 1—and no newspapermen were allowed to witness it.

The only witness, other than the firing squad, was Franciscan Father Javier Arzuaga. Prison sources reported that an hour before he was led out, Morejon tried to hang himself with his belt.

In Pinar del Rio province, the military commander, Capt. Herminio Escalona, disclosed that 10 persons arrested last week at San Cristobal and accused of plotting against the government had been released on Castro's personal order.

Maj. Morejon was shot by the light of the moon and the headlamps of two jeeps. Among his six executioners was a 15-year-old boy who had fought in the Sierra Maestra with Castro.

Maj. Morejon died on a patch of scrub grass and trees in a 20-foot deep dry moat surrounding the Cabana fortress. A mile away, old Havana was celegrating a gay Saturday night.

"My hour has come, then," said Morejon when the priest visited him in his cell.

The priest nodded and together they recited the Act of Contrition, the "Our Father" and the "Hail Mary."

At 11:10 p.m. Morejon, flanked by guards, emerged from behind the iron gates. Handcuffed, he strode quickly to a waiting jeep. The guards piled in and the jeep sped off.

At the gate over the moat, rebel soldiers stopped reporters. There was silence. Then came the volley, followed by a single pistol shot.

The epidemic began in the village of Cheong Chau, some distance north of here, and is spreading rapidly to other villages in the Chungshan country, the travelers said.

3 OF 28 ABOARD ICE-LADEN PLANE KILLED IN CRASH

Survivors Manage to Escape Flaming Wreckage in Texas Hill Country.

KERRVILLE, Tex., Feb. 2 (AP)—A commercial DC-3 carrying a crew of three and 25 Air National Guardsmen from Idaho crashed and burned in the central Texas hill country late last night.

Three men were killed and 25 survived, three of them relatively uninjured.

The survivors, some of them seriously hurt, managed to escape the flaming wreckage after the ice-laden transport struck a hill 17 miles southeast of Kerrville.

Three bodies were taken to a Comfort (Tex.) undertaker. Thirteen men were taken to a veterans' hospital in Kerrville and 12 to the Peterson Hospital.

Two of the dead were civilian crew members. They were W. O. (Woody) Epps, Portland, Ore., chief pilot, and Harvey Hitt, Oswego, Ore., second pilot. Wilbur Whittliff of Eugene, Ore., third pilot, was among the survivors.

The third dead man was an Air National Guardsman. Robert C. Griffith, Ola., Ida.

Whittliff said icing conditions had plagued the plane for several hours before the crash. After two unsuccessful passes at the Kerrville airport, the plane was attempting a third approach when one engine failed.

The plane, chartered from General Airways of Portland, Ore., had left Boise, Idaho, earlier in the day to take the guardsmen to an Air Force training school at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio.

The CAA control tower at International Airport in San Antonio said the plane reported that its landing gear was locked. The tower lost radio contact with the plane about 20 minutes before the crash.

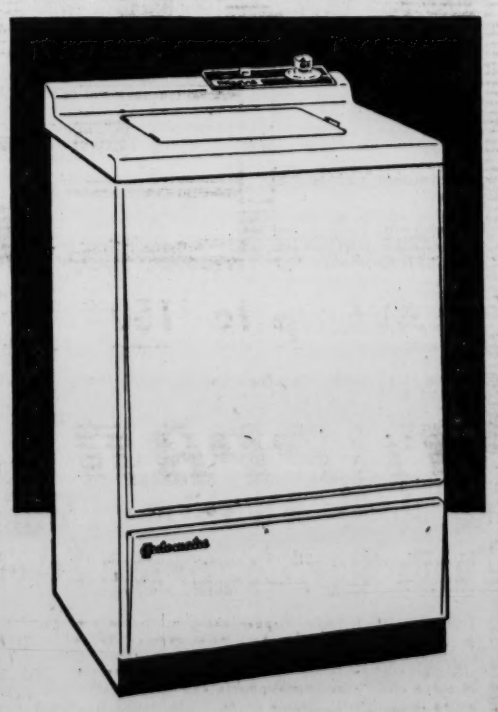

The temperature was 29 degrees at the time of the crash and a freezing rain had coated this area with ice.

ACTION URGED NOW TO ASSURE WATER SUPPLY FOR THE FUTURE

Army Engineer Chief Calls for New Concept of Conservation —Offers 'Good Management' Program.

America must take steps now to assure adequate water resources 20 years from now, Maj. Gen. E. C. Itschner, chief of Army Engineers, told the Mississippi Valley Association today at its opening session at the Chase Hotel.

Requirements for water have increased on an unprecedented scale, Itschner said. As a result, "we must overhaul our entire concept of water resource programs and the way we go about carrying them out."

'Good Management' Steps.

Itschner's solution to the problem is "good management." He listed four steps that the nation ought to take in the name of good management:

First, planning of water resources development and use so as to assure the optimum utilization. Every project built from now on should fit into an orderly plan.

Second, effective action must be taken without delay to protect sites where we know reservoirs must be built for water storage.

Third, an order of priority must be established for projects most urgently needed.

Fourth, a policy of effective co-ordination must be established among federal, state and local agencies concerned with water in every area of the country so that conflict can be reduced.

'Floating Production Lines.'

"Our navigation systems have become floating mass production lines," he said. "Barge traffic has more than doubled in the past decade and will continue to grow. Our harbors are becoming increasingly important. Industries and communities are springing up along the improved rivers, in search of dependable water supply and attracted by low-cost water transportation."

In addition, public uses of water are increasing with more leisure time and higher earnings, Itschner said. And these trends wil continue at an accelerated rate as the population increases. Itschner quoted one population expert that this country will number nearly 250,000,000 persons in 16 years, "which is a short time compared with how long it takes to plan and build the major water resources projects essential to the support of this population."

River Plans Modernized.

Itschner said the Army Engineers have started a program of modernizing the master river plans for each major river basin. The belief is that the nation must know now what its requirements will be in the foreseeable future in each basin.

Construction of reservoirs will have to be emphasized, Itschner indicated, because they are the key to the future adequacy of the water supply for all purposes. However, good locations for reservoirs are being lost "at an alarming rate" as developers take over such sites for other purposes.

Another problem Itschner mentioned is low flow regulation, which he said is of particular importance to the Mississippi river. There, he said, "low flows present a major problem to navigation."

Need by 1980.

Referring to studies by the engineers on the subject, Itschner said:

"Our studies indicate that by 1980 we shall need almost double the storage now available or under construction for the Mississippi and its tributaries for flood control, low flow regulation and water supply. This storage requirement would call for construction of hundreds of new dams, large and small."

He said the 1960 budget includes $90,000,000 for general construction for the main Mississippi basin, which is about $13,000,000 more than in the current year's budget. The new budget contains no new starts, he said.

Preview of Nuclear Shipping.

Another speaker, Ed Kemper Sullivan, deputy chief of the nuclear projects office of the United States Maritime Administration, gave the association a preview of the coming age of nuclear shipping.

Sullivan said it is just a matter of time before the advantage of nuclear ships is utilized. He did not predict how soon the revolution will occur, but said:

"The change from sail to steam took 50 years to reach the competitive state. We believe that twentieth century techniques will substantially reduce the comparable time required to achieve competitive nuclear power."

The advantage of nuclear power for merchant ships, Sullivan said, is that the weight and space formerly occupied by fuel oil in a steamship can be used profitably for cargo.

Sullivan gave some details about the Savannah, now under construction in Camden, N.J., and heralded as the world's first nuclear powered merchant ship. She is a 20.25 knot single screw, cargo-passenger type ship, 595 feet long, capable of displacing 21,800 tons. The cargo capacity is 9400 tons, and the ship has accommodations for 60 passengers. The Savannah will be launched at midyear and is scheduled for operation in 1960.

Radiation Protection.

Sullivan said a cylindrical steel containment vessel 50.5 feet long and 35 feet in diameter provides for protection against rupture of the ship's reactor. He said the vessel will prevent radioactive matter from reaching other parts of the ship no matter what kind of internal accident occurs.

Charles Irving Danforth of Yankton, N.D., president of the association, urged the group to "throw all our resources behind adequate appropriations for the next fiscal year to assure the continuance of a broad and sound investment program in water resources."

Among projects he mentioned as deserving stress are duplicate locks for the Illinois Waterway, completion of the lock modernizing program on the Ohio, development of the multiple-purpose program in the Arkansas basin, enlargement and modernization of at least part of the Gulf Intracoastal Canal, a new recreation bill and money to maintain construction schedules on all projects now under way in the valley.

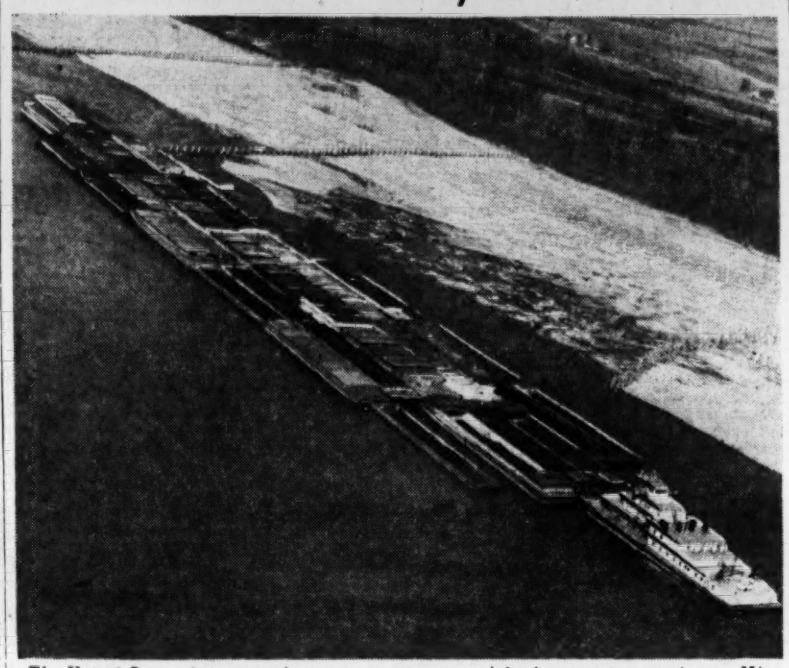

Danforth also recommended that the organization adopt an official policy toward the Tennessee Valley Authority and all other valley authorities. The policy would hold that there is no need for creation of new authorities anywhere in America, and that the TVA should be limited to its present area of operation and should be prohibited from making any capital expenditures without the consent of Congress.

COUNTY OFFICIALS RIDE HELICOPTER IN DEMONSTRATION

Three St. Louis county officials were given demonstration rides today in a helicopter being considered for multiple purpose use in civil defense, for traffic control observation and as an ambulance.

The flights were from the front lawn of the St. Louis County Hospital. Take ups were Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, hospintal commossioner; Raymond W. Hensley, superintendent of police, and George R. Klaine, civil defense director.

Councilman Maurice Abramson (Dem.), Third District, backer of a proposal to use helicopters, also was present.

The three officials agreed the helicopter could be useful. They also agreed there is serious question whether the county can afford one. The helicopters cost $59,900 each.

Louis S. Paul, 6040 West Cabanne place, and Nathaniel A. Sweets, 4557A Garfield avenue, today filed as candidates for Democratic nomination for aldermen in the Twenty-eighth and Fourth wards, respectively.

Paul teaches history and government at Bayless High School and was vice chairman of the West End Community Conference for two years. Sweets is editor of the St. Louis American.

CITY PARKING GARAGE OK'D BY COMMISSION

Building Near Kiel Auditorium Would Have Pedestrian Connection.

The City Plan Commission today approved plans for a municipally operated parking garage near Kiel Auditorium.

The proposed garage would be located in the block bounded by Clark avenue, Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Walnut streets. It would provide space for 1000 automobiles initially and 3000 later.

In approving the "extent and character of the facility," the plan commission recommended that "a pedestrian connection be made to permit the free flow of the public from the garage to Kiel Auditorium."

Plans for the structure were prepared at the request of Mayor Raymond R. Tucker. He and other city officials were concerned with the growing shortage of off-street parking spaces and felt the condition would be aggravated when the new federal office building is erected between Market and Walnut streets, just west of the auditorium.

The parking structure would be an open building without walls. It would be five stories high at the southern end but because of sloping topography only three stories at the northern side.

The Post Office Department has plans to lease a building occupying half of the garage site for a mail distribution center to supplement facilities of the Main Post Office.

Mayor Tucker met with postal officials in Washington, D.C., last month in an effort to persuade them to seek another location for the postal facility, but no settlement was reached. It was agreed that a team of postal officials should visit St. Louis to investigate the matter.

TWO GET 30 DAYS EACH FOR DRIVING WHEN DRUNK

Amon H. Davis of the 100 block of Kayser avenue, Lemay, was sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse on a drunk driving charge today when found guilty by Police Judge Rodney Weiss. He was arrested Saturday night near the 8100 block of Van Buren street, after he had driven his automobile 100 feet down a railroad track and down an embankment. He was not injured.

Lesser Brandon, 1200 block of North Spring avenue, was given a 30-day sentence today by Judge Morris Rosenthal, who found him guilty of drunk driving. Police reported that he drove his car against the rear of a taxicab Jan. 16 at Grand boulevard and Cass avenue, as the taxicab was waiting for a traffic light to change.

TWO HELD IN OHIO BELIEVED TO BE COUNTY HOLDUP MEN

Two men being held by Cincinnati police for a supermarket robbery are believed to be the same men who robbed a Rapp's store in St. Louis county of $200 last Wednesday, county police said today.

Detective Lt. H. C. Birmes said robbery warrants will be sought against Arthur Fry of North Platte, Nebr., and Norbert Morgan of Memphis, Tenn.

When arrested at Cincinnati, Fry and Morgan were in possession of an automobile bearing the same license number as the car used in the robbery of the Rapp's store at 8450 Watson road, Birmes said. They also had a receipt for automobile repair work done by a St. Louis county shop.

LARGEST TOW ON INLAND WATERS ARRIVES HERE

Forty-two barges, said to be the largest tow ever to travel on inland waterways, arrived in St. Louis late yesterday pushed by the towboat United States, the largest and most powerful towboat of its kind in the world.

A general cargo of 30,661 tons was loaded on the barges. The combined length of the United States and the barges exceeded by more than 300 feet the length of the ocean liner, Queen Elizabeth.

The towboat, operated by Federal Barge Lines, weighs 1240 tons and is powered by four diesel engines which develop 8500 horsepower.

The boat was built at a cost of $1,750,000 by St. Louis Shipbuilding & Steel Co. It is 180 feet long and 58 feet wide. The tow was assembled Friday at Cairo and Chester, Ill.

GRAND JURY NOTES FAILURE TO CORRECT JAIL CONDITIONS

The December term circuit court grand jury, in its final report to Judge John K. Regan today, noted that jail conditions complained of by the previous grand jury had not been corrected.

These included electric wiring conditions on the sixth floor, roof leaks in the women's department, cracks in the laundry's steam line, and deteriorating shower stalls.

The grand jury complimented Judge David McMullan for the work he and his associates have been doing in juvenile court despite inadequate staff and salaries and lack of office facilities—all with a "tremendous" case load.

CRIPPLED MAN IS BURNED IN FIRE, RESCUED BY SON

Walter Howard, 73 years old, suffered serious burns today in a fire in the building where he lives, at 9 North Garrison avenue.

Howard is crippled. He was pulled to safety by his son, Joseph, 42, and was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital with burns on the head, face and hands. Firemen said the fire was caused by an overheated furnace. Damage was estimated at $1500.

LARRY CALLANAN AND 3 OTHERS SETTLE U.S. TAX

Convicted St. Louis Labor Racketeers Agree They Owe Total of $70,271.

Four imprisoned St. Louis labor leaders agreed they owe $70,271 in income taxes and penalties, in stipulations filed today in the United States Tax court.

The Federal Government alleged the income tax deficiencies arose from pay-offs to the men by contractors in various years between 1950 and 1955.

The stipulations on the amounts owed were made by Lawrence L. Callanan, Richard M. Secor, William Poster and Lawrence A. Thompson, all serving long prison terms for labor racketeering.

The Government originally set the total deficiencies sought from the four men and an associate at $247,455. However, Ray Garrison, counsel for the Internal Revenue Service, said the amount involved duplications because the Government was unable, in some instances, to determine how certain pay-offs were divided among the labor leaders.

Owes $29,631.

Callanan agreed in his stipulation that he owes a total of $29,631, of which $19,791 is a tax deficiency and the remainder the accrued penalties.

The total amount the others agreed they owe are: Poster, $11,599, of which $7443 represents taxes; Secor, $4049, of which $2420 is taxes, and Thompson, $25,001, of which $15,131 is overdue taxes.

Records show that the Government has collected about $7000 of the sum owed by Poster, and $1600 from Secor.

A fifth imprisoned labor leader, Carl J. (Dutch) Bianchi, died in prison in 1956. Records show that the Government executed liens against his estate to recover $11,128 of the sum it claimed he owed in unpaid income taxes.

Convicted In 1954.

The men were found guilty in 1954 of conspiring to violate the federal anti-racketeering law. Bianchi was sentenced to serve 10 years in prison and other four were given 12-year sentences. Bianchi, Poster and Thompson also had been found guilty in an earlier racketeering case, in which they were given 10-year sentences. Sentences imposed in the second conviction are to begin after the first terms are completed.

Callanan had been business manager of Steamfitters' Union local 562 since 1944.

Bianchi was outstate representative of Hoisting Engineers' Union Local513 ; Poster, business agent of Building Laborers Local 110; Secor, business agent of a Farmington (Mo.) local of the Building Laborers, and Thompson was a former business agent of a Cape Girardeau (Mo.) Teamsters local.

COUNTY FAMILY ROUTED BY FIRE; $3500 DAMAGE

Roger G. Larson, Wife and Three Children Take Refuge in Caretaker's Home.

Fire early today routed Roger G. Larson and his family from their 112-year-old home in St. Louis county and caused damage estimated at $3500.

Larson operates the City and Village Tax Office, a Clayton firm that collects taxes for about 60 small communities of the county.

He and his wife and their children, Steven, 3 years old, Mark, 2, and Dana, a girl, 1, went out in 10-degree weather and took shelter in the home of a caretaker about 100 yards away. The home is on the old Reis estate, on Reis road two miles south of Manchester road.

Larson was awakened shortly before 2 a.m. when he smelled smoke, and found a fire just inside the front door. He opened the door and the fire flared up. He then went back upstairs and brought the family down and out the back door through heavy smoke.

The Ballwin and Manchester volunteer departments answered the alarm and put out the fire.

Larson was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for county collector last August. He has a picnic each year at his place for officials of the municipalities for which he works, and their families.

Damage estimated at $30,000 was caused by a fire early yesterday at Eddie's Bowling Lane, 3209 Brown road, St. John. Six alleys were scorched, and boiler and storage rooms were burned.

The bowling estabilshment is in a basement. A tavern, beauty shop, real estate office and dancing school on the ground floor were damaged by smoke and water, and three families had to leave their aaprtments on the second floor. The fire was discovered shortly before 7 a.m.

Four firemen of the Community Fire Protection District were overcome by smoke and taken to St. Louis County Hospital, treated and then returned to duty. They are Deputy Chief John Zaiz, James Kohlschreiber, William Dunavant and Forrest Rende. The last two also suffered burns on their ears.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Marchant, 1040 Westglen drive, Crestwood, were aroused by Patrolman Kenneth Theiling early yesterday when he noticed smoke coming from the roof of the house. They left the house with their two children, a boy of 2 and a girl of five months. Theiling called the Crestwood Fire Department on his police radio, and the firemen confined the loss to about $600.

Two families had to get out of their homes in a two-story frame building at 720 North Sixth street, East St. Louis, shortly after 11 o'clock last night. The occupants were the owner, Alvin Palmer, and Arthur Auvenshine. Firemen fought the fire nearly two hours, and kept it from spreading to other rooming houses on both sides. Damage was estimated at about $3000.

TAX DEDUCTION FOR ELM LOSS IS UNRESOLVED

The question of whether loss of trees through Dutch elm disease can be deducted from income taxes remained unanswered today when the Internal Revenue Service signed stipulations with the three taxpayers.

"The stipulations filed in the three cases here cannot be interpreted as a capitulation by the Government," Ray Garrison, Internal Revenue Service counsel, said, after the agreements were filed in the United States tax court.

However, the Government reduced by $1518 the amount it claimed was owed by two of the taxpayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor W. Riemeier, 9 Windsor lane, Kirkwood, whose claim of $1667, chiefly because of loss of trees had been disallowed, agreed by stipulation they owed $357.

Harold J. Brod, 30 Country Club drive, West Wood Village, entered into a $500 stipulation, as compared with a $708 deficiency charged. Tree losses were not allowed, but value of old clothes he contributed to a charitable agency was, along with other claimed deductions. No "casualty" was shown in the third case, the stipulation said.

Later, two other girls—both ninth-graders—left, saying their parents would not let them go to integrated classes. Alice Erving and Pat Wall, each, 14, said their parents probably would send them to private schools.

A man, identifying himself as Andrew Kirk Sr., showed up at one entrance and told reporters he was keeping his daughter out of the school. Kirk said he believed the Communists were behind the integration movement.

Four white boys, shuffling along and joshing each other, stopped outside the east entrance when reporters asked them how they felt about the Negroes entering the schools. The boys replied they did not like it.

A policeman walked quickly over to the scene, and asked the boys if they attended Stratford. The boys said they did.

"Then you'd better get on into the school," said the officer sternly.

Sign of Apprehension.

Despite the calm with which integration began in Arlington, some apprehension was indicated in an announcement that all after-school use of the junior high building was being suspended temporarily. This security measure means that the building will not be available for night meetings by adult groups, such as civic associations, which have made use of it. It means also that students will be required to leave the building promptly after classes are dismissed. Ordinarily, various student groups such as the glee club and the journalism club would be holding meetings after classes.

In Norfolk, seven Negroes have been assigned to Norview High—the largest number for any of the six schools. Five have been assigned to Norview Junior High, two to Blair Junior High, and one each to Maury and Granby High Schools and to Northside Junior High.

Just before the school closings at 12:30 p.m., the principals of the six integrated schools reported there had been no incidents inside the buildings and things were going smoothly.

Three white boys left Norview High during the morning and told a reporter they planned to ask for a transfer to another school rather than attend with Negroes.

At Maury, which had 1803 pupils enrolled, Lewis Cousins, the only Negro pupil, and several hundred white students assembled to hear Robert Steckforth, assistant principal, extend first-day greetings as the closed schools reopened. Steckforth made no reference to integration.

Cousins sat alone in the second row from the front of the auditorium. Several empty rows separated him from the nearest white students. Cousins appeared to listen closely to the principal and did not turn his head during the brief assembly.

Met by White Student.

The students were then assigned to their classes. As Cousins drew his room number he walked to the rear of the auditorium and was met by a white student, who escorted him to his classroom.

Principal A. R. Tonnelson commented: "Everything went as smoothly as anyone could hope."

Cousins's mother, who escorted him into the building, was asked on her way out how things had gone.

"Just fine," she replied. "The principal and teachers were just fine. No one said anything out of the way."

Phil Thomas, a 15-year-old Norfolk white student, said: "Boy, did I get a lecture from my dad last night. He said, 'You just stand there. Don't do anything.'."

At Granby, Betty Jean Reed, another of the 17 Negro children, arrived unaccompanied to register for classes. There was no disturbance and there was no gathering outside the building.

Just before 9 a.m. four Negro students, arriving in pairs, appeared to register at the big Norview High School. They were Delores Johnson, Carol Wellington, Johnnie Rouse and Patricia Godbolt.

There were no demonstrations. Students milled around waiting for the doors to open, remaining quiet and watching the Negro arrivals with curiosity.

Police Clear a Path.

One white girl was heard to remark: "Here they are. . . . I hope they're satisfied."

Jane Andrews, 15, a freshman, said: "I'm glad to get back to school. I don't think there will be any trouble. If they let us alone we let them (the Negroes) alone."

She added: "I don't believe they will be the ones to cause any trouble."

At Blair, white children entered the school slowly in groups and there was no congregation of spectators and no police in evidence.

The six Norfolk schools, closed since September under Virginia's now dead massive resistance program, were holding no classes today—only enrolling pupils and assigning them to classes.

There was a full day of classes scheduled in Arlington.

7000 Students Expected.

The six Norfolk schools—all the white senior and junior highs in the city—once had upward of 10,000 pupils. Most of them entered other public or private schools or special classes under tutors. School authorities expected perhaps 7000 to return.

In both Norfolk and Arlington, police, community and school authorities and student leaders had predicted and said they hoped there would be no violence to mark the beginning of the historic change in the pattern of Virginia education.

The only ominous note sounded in advance, from the ranks of Arlington segregationists, failed to develop.

Jack Rathbone, president of the Arlington chapter of Defenders of State Sovereignty and Indivilual Liberties, said members would picket Stratford junior high. He said they also would trail school busses and try to persuade the thousand-odd white students to stay away from school.

But under desperation measures jammed through a special session of the Legislature Saturday, no Virginia child can be forced to attend an integrated school if his parents disapprove.

At Gov. Almond's behest, the Legislature repealed the 40-year-old compulsory school attendance law and offered tuition grants of up to $250 a year for attendance at segregated private schools.

Almond's Present Plans.

In his battle to prevent any amount of integration in any Virginia schools, Almond had been compelled to hoist the white flag. But he still is planning to call together a special commission of legislators to work out some new method of combatting integration.

Segregationists in the Legislature were unhappy with the package of bills put through Saturday. They talked of making a last stand for tougher laws at the openings of the General Assembly today.

But there was nothing they could do to head off the advent of small portions of integration today — four years, eight and a half months after the U.S. Supreme Court decreed segregated public schools to be unconstitutional.

Chief Justice Warren refused late Saturday to let Arlington delay any longer the enrollment of four Negroes at Stratford school.

Neither Arlington nor Norfolk can be regarded as a typical Virginia city. Arlington, just across the Potomac, is practically a suburb of Washington and contains many federal employes who have moved there from all parts of the country. Norfolk has a large naval center and the Navy had announced that it would take steps to provide schooling for government personnel if the situation were not remedied locally soon.

In central Virginia, Charlottesville's Lane high school and Venable elementary school, closed since September, will reopen Wednesday on an all-white basis. Lane has a student body of 1000; Venable 700. Two Negroes were ordered admitted to Lane, 10 to Venable. Charlottesville has a population of about 30,000.

Warren county high school at Front Royal in northern Virginia — the other school closed by the state—remained closed for the present. Twenty-two Negroes were assigned to the 1000-pupil school by a federal court. Since closure virtually all of the displaced pupils have been given private class work in churches and other community buildings. Warren's population is 15,000.

Charges of 'De Facto' Segregation in New York Schools.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—A unit of the American Jewish Congress charges that tens of thousands of Negro and Puerto Rican children are receiving inferior education in public schools in New York City.

The New York Metropolitan Council of the congress says there is "de facto" (in fact rather than in law) segregation in the city schools."

The council sent a letter yesterday to the Board of Education calling for immediate action.

The group challenged a recent statement by Superintendent of Schools John J. Theobald denying that there was discrimination in the schools. It said the statement "was contradicted by five separate reports of the board of education's own commission on integration."

Although there is no legal or planned segregation in the schools in New York, neighborhood racial patterns cause some schools to have almost solid white or solid Negro and Puerto Rican enrollments. School redistricting in some areas has been under way for months in an effort to achieve greater integration.

The letter from the council said that the board of education has failed to act on many of the recommendations made by its own integration commission, which was disbanded last fall.

Hospital Power

Missouri Power & Light bid was lower than that of the co-operative. Fulton did not submit a bid, but contends it has the right to furnish power to that part of the hospital within the city limits, rather than an outside firm.

The co-operative, which serves the area outside Fulton, did bid on the power contract, but its officers have said the co-operative learned of the matter too late to obtain facts necessary to submit the lowest possible bid.

Most of the power needs of the hospital are supplied by the hospital's own power plant, but it is too small to furnish electricity for new buildings under construction.

Simcoe said the investigation should go into whether the hospital power plant should be expanded or whether the state should buy power from outside sources. Present lines of Missouri Power & Light are 12 miles from Fulton.

HEADS PARKING ASSOCIATION

Election of Justin Browne as president of the St. Louis Parking Association, to succeed Jerome Stedelin Sr., was announced today. Stedelin was elected an honorary life member of the board of directors.

Other officers, chosen Friday night, are Wayne Stedelin and Jerome Klein, vice presidents, and I. Irwin Mendel, secretary-treasurer.

New Drugs

as a result of its phenomenal growth, Dr. Garland pointed out, and the accompanying influence directly affects the medical profession and progress of the science.

"On the positive side," he continued, "it has been directed into a variety of useful channels, especially along the lines of post graduate education, scientific research and financial aid to many worthy projects, including the establishment and support of independently operated scientific and philanthropic foundations.

Likely Undesirable Effect.

"On the other hand, there are indications that this growing influence, if exerted indiscriminately, may have an increasingly undesirable effect on medical progress and practice.

"This will certainly happen unless some restraint more adequate than now exists is placed on it by those who direct its policies, working with a more intelligent understanding of the needs of the medical profession and, indeed, of humanity at large."

Dr. Garland took exception to advertised recommendations of drugs in cases where their use was not indicated, the encouragement of unnecessary or undesirable combinations of agents and their exploitation beyond the limits of their usefulness.

Referring to the steady and rapid stream of new medical products in the keen rivalry that marks the trade, Dr. Garland said:

"Such competition is responsible for both the advertising offensive and the offensive advertising. Yet it could be turned to good account in the reformation of the business if the doctor insisted that his good will was dependent on ethical marketing practices and that the ultimate welfare of the patient is the only objective."

Four years ago the New England Journal of Medicine revised its advertising standards upward. Since then, advertising copy has been accepted on the basis of its apparent quality and usefulness of the product, and the manner of its presentation.

It requires that proprietary names of pharmaceutical products be accompanied by their chemical, generic or official names, and that the quantity of all active substances and recommended dosage be stated. The copy must be factual, conservative and in good taste.

Adherence to these standards, Dr. Garland said, had created no economic problem for the self-supporting weekly journal.

Addressing the third congress of the Union Internationale de la Presse Medicale in London in 1957, Dr. Garland said:

"We, as physicians, recognize and appreciate our ancient partnership and our friendly relations with our dynamic friends, the manufacturing apothecaries. We admire their scientific foundations and their genuine philanthropies, but we stand a little in awe of the sinews they have acquired.

"As editors, we delight in the revenue from their advertures in competitive advertising, even as we seek to put restraints on its ultra-persuasiveness and keep it within the bounds that medical propriety and a sense of service to humanity have set.

"Our own first duty is to the public, plainly enough, and so is theirs, for whereas much of modern advertising in general is designed to create a desire where there is no need, that of the drug business should still be patterned on the principle of responsibility to humankind."

The highly respected New England Journal of Medicine is the official organ of the Massachusetts Medical Society and dates from 1812. It is said to be the oldest medical journal of continuous publication in the world.

When Dr. Garland left his long established practice in pediatrics 11 years ago to become editor, circulation was about 22,000. It has risen to 56,000, substantially greater than the membership of the Massachusetts Medical Society, a fact attributable to its wide distribution throughout most of the world.

Because of its high standards, it has become a forum for medical men who became critical of the high-pressure tactics of the drug makers.

Among them has been Dr. Ernest Jawetz, professor in microbiology and lecturer in medicine and pediatrics at the University of California Medical Center.

He differed with some who contended that physicians were too sophisticated to be taken in by unsubstantiated claims or advertising agencies and departments.

"The physician's use and choice of antibiotics," he wrote last April 18, "are greatly influenced by the spoken and written word. Friendly educators sent by pharmaceutical houses visit him frequently. This siren song of the purveyor of pills helps to lull the harried and hurried physician into a tranquilized state. He confidently prescribes the drug that he remembers by name and is satisfied that he has done his very best for the patient."

Sometimes, he said, the patient demands that his doctor prescribe a certain antibiotic of which he may have heard, although it might be undesirable for the particular case.

"When faced with complex or vague symptoms or signs," Dr. Jawetz said, "the physician may gladly resort to antibiotics in the belief that they cannot harm and may help."

FIRE RAZES 4 HOMES IN EAGLE PARK ACRES

Twenty persons were left homeless today when fire destroyed four houses in Eagle Park Acres, an unincorporated area in Madison county between Brooklyn and National City, Ill.

A fifth home sustained extensive roof damage but firemen were able to prevent fire from spreading to about 25 other homes in the immediate area. The area, a Negro housing development, has about 300 homes.

Firemen were hampered in fighting the blaze because there is no water supply. Trucks from the Granite City Army Engineers' Depot delivered water to the scene in relays to the Venice Volunteer Fire Department.

The fire was believed to have started in the home of Freeman Jordan, Harrison street, but cause of the blaze has not been determined.

The 20 persons living in the four frame homes managed to flee without injury. The Red Cross was reported ready to provide food and shelter for the four families.

Besides Jordan, his wife and three children, the houses were occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Latham and their five children; Mrs. Anna Bishop; Mrs. Della Thomas and her grandchild, and Mrs. Thomas's daughter, Mrs. Helen Moody, and her four children. Mrs. Moody is blind.

ARMED MAN ROBS HOTEL NIGHT CLERK OF $177

Miss Annie Gadley, night clerk at the Hermitage Hotel, 4458 Washington boulevard, was robbed of $177 last night by an armed man.

Miss Gadley told police the man, a Negro, entered the lobby at 9 o'clock, pointed a revolver at her and demanded the contents of the cash register. After grabbing the cash he escaped out a side door.

ELECTION FOR HOUSE VACANCY MARCH 3

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Gov. James T. Blair Jr. today set March 3 for the election of a new United States representative from Missouri's Fourth Congressional District.

The Governor said he was calling the election on the same date that Kansas City will hold its primary to avoid "duplication of expenses" and to permit the Democrats and Republicans time to select their nominees.

Blair said it was his understanding that J. L. Hambright, Harrisonville, would call a meeting of his party's Fourth Congressional District committee, next Thursday in Harrisonville to select a candidate.

Robert W. Crawford, Nevada, executive secretary to the Governor, was reported to be the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination, which is almost tantamount to election in the fourth district. Another candidate is Randall Jesse, executive director of the Kansas City Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

Crawford, who previously was a candidate for the office withdrew from the race prior to the last primary election. He said today he was optimistic over his candidacy and "believed that he could win the committee's nomination."

The new Congressman will succeed the late Representative George H. Christopher, who died last month in Washington of a heart attack.

Republicans in the Fourth Congressional District indicated earlier they would await the Governor's election call before deciding on a candidate. James A. Rahm, Warrensburg, was the G.O.P. candidate against Christopher in last November's general election.

Town of Widows.

MANSFIELD, O. (UPI) — Widowville, on a country road east of here, received its name because so many women widowed by the Civil War settled there.

YOUNG G.O.P. CLUB SPEAKER

Albert E. Schoenbeck, an attorney, will be principal speaker at a meeting of the St. Louis County Young Republican Club at 8 p.m. Wednesday at 1414 Brentwood boulevard, Clayton. His subject will be "The Public's Image of the G.O.P."

STEVENSON BACKS DRAFT EXTENSION, URGES REVIEW

DENVER, Feb. 2 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said here yesterday the United States should thoroughly review its military personnel policies.

The twice-beaten Democratic presidential candidate said on arrival from San Francisco to visit friends that he approves of a bill introduced in Congress last week extending the military draft for only two years.

"We should have a thorough review . . ." Stevenson said in an interview. "It may be we are counting on masses of men who are untrained in the techniques of modern warfare.".

Stevenson agreed with Representative Leonard G. Wolf (Dem.), Iowa, in saying that our draft system gives us quantity with the illusion of protection, rather than quality with the reality of security." Wolf introduced the draft extension bill in Congress.

FRANCO DEFIED; NEW POLITICAL PARTY FORMED

MADRID, Feb. 2 (AP)—Leading liberals and rightists have defied Generalissimo Franco's bar on opposition political movements and formed a new party.

So far there has been no retaliation from the government. Failure to take action would be interpreted as a sign of weakness. All political parties except the government Falange are barred in Spain.

Nearly 100 army officers, bankers, lawyers, university professors and others formed the new party, called Spanish Union (Union Espanola) at a banquet Thursday in a Madrid hotel.

Speakers included Joaquin Satrustegui Fernandez, a liberal monarchist and member of a wealthy family of Basque industrialists, and Enrique Tierno Galvan, professor of political law at Salamanca University and head of a group of liberal republicans.

Satrustegui said Franco had seized power illegally and kept his regime in office by force. He also criticized the government's economic policy, saying it was "without present or future."

A manifesto circulated by the party declared:

"Spain has just awakened to her tremendous reality, and fiction begins to fall with all the weight of its coarse and grotesque framework. We believe that what has been said through Satrustegui is not an opinion but the full conscience of a nation clamoring painfully."

The Spanish Union includes elements opposed to the regime ranging from the extreme right to the left. Four non-Communist groups so far are not participating: The Socialists, anarchists, left-wing Christian Democrats headed by Manuel Gimenez Fernandez and Dionisio Ridruejo's Social Democrats.

Sources close to the new party said they believe a compromise doctrine will be worked out to permit enlistment of the Social and Christian Democrats and possibly the anarchists. The Socialists' last congress in August, dominated by exiled leaders of the republican government Franco overthrew, ordered the faction's leaders in Spain not to enter any alliance with other political groups.

Ridruejo was convicted today of insulting the chief of state and of making illegal propaganda and was sentenced to 20 months in prison. But he went free under a general amnesty in honor of the election of Pope John XXIII decreeing freedom from all sentenced to less than two years.

POLAND ORDERS ATHEISTS BURIED IN CHURCH PLOTS

WARSAW, Feb. 2 (UPI) — The Polish Sejm (parliament) passed a law Saturday requiring Catholic cemeteries to permit burial of non-believers where no municipal or non-denominational graveyards were available.

A Catholic proposal that plots of unconsecrated ground be reserved in Catholic cemeteries for non-believers was rejected by the Communist members of the Sejm as "discrimination."

The new law contains provision for the state to take over Catholic cemeteries if they refuse space for Communists. A fine and three months' imprisonment is provided for any person who violates the law.

The law resulted from an incident last February at Zuromin in Warsaw province. The parish priest, the Rev. Josef Czarnecki, refused to permit burial of Communist Stanislaw Nikiel, chairman of the presidium of the Municipal People's Council, in the church cemetery.

Father Czarnecki and eight parishioners were arrested and received suspended sentences ranging from eight to 18 months. Nikiel's friends buried him in the cemetery.

FTC CHARGES TWO FIXTURES FIRMS WITH DISCRIMINATIION

WASHINGTON Feb. 2 (AP) —The Federal Trade Commission today brought price discrimination charges against two major manufacturers of bathroom fixtures.

The FTC accused AllianceWare of Alliance, O., with giving illegal price advantages to the Crane Co., Chicago, one of its 850 wholesale customers. Crane was charged with soliciting and accepting unlawful discounts. AllianceWare manufactures bathtubs, lavatories and sinks. Crane is one of the largest manufacturers and wholesalers of plumbing supplies.

The FTC complaint was also directed at American Metal Products Co., Detroit, AllianceWare's parent company. The commission charged that Crane was given illegal discounts "with the knowledge, approval and at the behest of" American Metal Products.

SENATE GROUP APPROVES SLUM CLEARANCE BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee today approved a six-year $2,100,000,000 slum clearance program.

This was considerably more than the six-year, $1,350,000,000 program in this field proposed by President Eisenhower. At the same time, it was less than several Democrats on the committee wanted. The formula the committee adopted was in an omnibus housing bill by Senator John Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama.

The Eisenhower slum clearance, or urban renewal, program was defeated in the committee only by an 8-7 vote, some of the members reported.

Senator Joseph S. Clark (Dem.), Pennsylvania, offered a stepped-up urban renewal plan but it was beaten 9-6. It called for a $1,800,000,000 program but this could have been spent in three years at a $600,000,000 annual rate as compared with $350,000,000 in the compromise.

The committee did not finish with the bill but hoped to do so this afternoon. This morning's votes made it likely that the Sparkman bill would emerge from the committee pretty much as he wrote it.

On the House side of the Capitol today the home building industry called for an increase in the allowable interest on G.I. home loans. It said the alternative is a billion dollars of government money to bolster the mortgage market.

Nursing Home Loan Bill.

The American Medical Association announced its support of a housing bill provision for federal aid to privately-operated nursing homes for new construction and remodeling.

A Democratic bill now before the House Banking subcommittee on housing would set up a new program under the Federal Housing Administration to insure loans obtained by privately run homes.

Such loans would be limited to $1,000,000 or no more than 75 per cent of the property value, with an interest rate not to exceed 5 per cent. Before the Government could insure such loans, approval would be required by state health agencies with regulatory authority over charges vested in FHA.

Labor Reform Hearings.

A Senate Labor subcommittee opened its final week of hearings on the labor reform bill sponsored by Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts.

The American Retail Federation attacked the bill, implying it would be worse than no legislation at all.

Harry L. Browne, Kansas City (Mo.) attorney speaking for the federation, assailed the anti-racketeering sections of the measure as well as the changes Kennedy seeks to make in the Taft-Hartley law.

"The greatest danger we now face is that a bill will become law which only scratches the surface of a deep-rooted problem," Browne said.

"Passage of such a bill will lull the public into complacency and, at the same time, act as a license for some unscrupulous labor leaders to increase use of the very weapons they used to gain their position of dictatorial powers — namely, organizational picketing and secondary boycotts."

The Associated General Contractors of America also criticized the Taft-Hartley features of Kennedy's bill but supported the general principles of the measure designed to deal with labor corruption.

Medical Research Bill.

Fifty-six Senators are sponsoring a bill calling for a world-wide attack on disease and disability through international medical research.

"The bill will provide the means for American medical science to sound a world call for a common attack and a common advance against the cripplers and killers of mankind," said Senator Lister Hill (Dem.), Alabama, who will introduce the measure today.

The measure calls for an annual appropriation of $50,000,000. It would create a national institute for international medical research as part of the national institutes of health and would establish a national advisory council.

Direct financial grants and loans of equipment would be provided to encourage research projects or experiments in hospitals, laboratories and research institutions abroad.

Workers' transportation expenses would be deductable from their income tax returns under a bill introduced by Representative Charles E. Chamberlain (Rep.), Michigan.

His measure would permit them to deduct up to 25 per cent of their gasoline, oil, insurance, parking charges and car depreciation expenses incurred in driving to work.

The House Insular Affairs Committee amended the Hawaii statehood bill to require a plebiscite in Hawaii on the question whether its voters want statehood.

An affirmative vote would be required before Hawaii could become a state.

By United Press International.

Federal Budget Director Maurice H. Stans said yesterday that Democrats were playing politics with the new budget.

He appeared on a filmed television broadcast with Representative Harold Ostertag (Rep.), New York.

Many Democrats have said the President pegged his spending estimates at unrealistically low levels and estimated Government revenues wishfully high in an effort to embarrass the Democrats politically.

But Stans said 1959 was expected to be a period of "the highest prosperity in the history of this country," and "if we can't live within our means in a time like that, then I think it's doubtful whether the Government ever can. And I think this is the year of test of that principle," he said.

U.S. Placed in Peril.

The Democratic Digest, the party's official monthly magazine, said Mr. Eisenhower had placed the country in the "greatest peril it has ever known" by putting economy before defense.

Senator Paul H. Douglas said the President did not ask enough for health, education and welfare.

WILLIAM C. MARTIN

W. C. MARTIN NAMED U.S. ATTORNEY'S AID

William C. Martin, 4822A Ashland avenue, was appointed an assistant United States attorney today. He is the first Negro to be appointed to that post here.

Martin, 47 years old, obtained his law degree from the University of Illinois in 1935. He then went into general practice in Chicago until 1944, when he moved here to join the faculty of the old Lincoln University School of Law.

He remained with the law school until it closed in 1955 and then resumed general practice. He is married and the father of four children. Mrs. Martin is a teacher of mathematics at Sumner High School.

At the same time he announced Martin's appointment, United States Attorney Harry Richards also announced the promotion of Wayne H. Bigler Jr. to the post of first assistant United States attorney.

Bigler has been a member of Richard's staff for five years, handling all types of prosecution. He succeeds Murry Randall, who resigned last Friday.

AREF CONVICTION CONFIRMED; HIS FATE IS IN DOUBT

BAGHDAD, Feb. 2 (UPI)—A military prosecutor has demanded the death penalty for Col. Abdel Salem Aref, co-leader of last summer's successful revolution, for plotting to assassinate Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, it was disclosed yesterday.

The Baghdad radio and TV broadcasts spread a report on the trial and conviction of Aref, who with Kassem overthrew and killed king Faisal July 14. Records and films of the secret trial were distributed for the first time.

Military prosecutor Col. Majid Mohammed Amin, who revealed Jan. 24 that Aref had been tried and convicted, demanded a sentence of death.

Amin said Aref headed a group of dissident army officers who planned a coup d'etat in November to force Iraq into a union with the United Arab Republic.

There was no indication as yet what punishment had been meted out to Aref, who had been a deputy premier under Kassem.

(The Cairo newspaper Akhbar Elyom reported yesterday that Aref had been sentenced to death. The paper said it learned of the death penalty through a secret tape recording of the trial.)

NEW MUSICIANS' CONTRACT ENDS STRIKE AT NETWORKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP) — Members of the American Federation of Musicians went to work today at three major radio-television networks with a new five-year contract. The settlement ended a strike by the musicians, who were ordered to stop work at midnight Saturday.

The new contract gives staff musicians a pension plan, plus payment for shows that are re-run. The networks were allowed to reduce their staffs in some cities including St. Louis, under the terms.

Staff musicians will not get a pay increase until Feb. 1, 1961, when their salaries go up 10 per cent. The minimum pay for network staff musicians working on commercial radio and television shows in New York is $220 a week. The amount varies in other cities.

PLANES COLLIDE NEAR LOS ANGELES, PILOTS KILLED

BUENA PARK, Calif., Feb. 2 (AP)—Two light planes collided at 500 feet over this Los Angeles suburb yesterday, exploded and plunged in flames into a residential district.

The pilots were killed. They were Eugene Willshon and Donald D. Everson, both of Buena Park.

The planes, locked together, hit the back yard of the Lawrence Clarke residence, where no one was home. Flaming debris landed less than 30 feet from where Mrs. Robinson, a next-door neighbor, was clipping back-yard shrubbery. She was unhurt. Hot bits of wreckage burned the arms of her husband, working on the lawn at the front of the house.

ROBBERS STEAL $710 AT BELLEVILLE BAR

The Bell-Villa Tavern, 1111 East Main street, Belleville was robbed of $710 early yesterday by two men who bound and gagged a woman employe.

Mrs. Mary Hammel, a widow, 204 North Illinois avenue, Belleville, told police she was cleaning the tavern shortly after 6 a.m. when one of the men knocked at the door and said he wanted to buy beer.

She admitted him and went to a safe to get change for a $5 bill. The second man then entered, she said, and she was struck on the head from behind and bound and gagged with tape.

Mrs. Hammel freed herself and called police. She was treated for bruises at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Belleville.

LIBERALS WIN 5 MORE SEATS IN LUXEMBOURG PARLIAMENT

LUXEMBOURG, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The Social Christian party, though still the biggest in Luxembourg's one-house parliament, lost five seats to the Liberals in yesterday's election, unofficial returns showed today.

The Christian bloc dropped off from 26 seats to 21, while Liberal strength rose from six to 11. The Socialists, with 17 seats, and the Communists, with three, hold the totals they had in the last parliament.

It appeared likely that the new government will be a Christian-Socialist coalition like the one whose overthrow made the election necessary.

SMALL BUSINESS BOOKLET

Advice for persons about to go into business for themselves is contained in a booklet just issued by the Small Business Administration, Mrs. Ruby H. Koelling, branch manager here, said today.

The booklet is titled "Starting and Managing a Small Business of Your Own," and is the first in a new series. Copies can be obtained from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., at 40 cents each.

Timid Man Robs Own Home.

YOKOSUKA, Japan, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Isamu Sugita told police yesterday he was too timid to rob anybody's home but his own. He was caught after tying up his grandmother and making off with $41.67.

CRASH-LANDS PLANE IN RIVER

VANCOUVER, Wash., Feb. 2 (AP)—A pilot crash-landed his single engine plane yesterday in the Columbia river here, then he and his teenage nephew swam safely to shore through the chill water.

Patrick Michael Barker of Portland said he could not make an airfield near the river because he was too low when his motor quit. Barker and his nephew, Robert Vanderwall, were exhausted by the 150-foot swim against strong currents.

DIES OF INJURIES SUFFERED WHEN TRAIN HIT AUTO

John Martin, 4133 McRee avenue, died at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered when his automobile was struck by the Wabash Cannonball, St. Louis-Detroit passenger train, at the Boyle avenue grade crossing on Jan. 16.

Martin, 57 years old, an electrician, was driving south in Boyle avenue when his car was struck by the inbound train. The automobile was carried down the tracks about 60 feet. Martin was unconscious from a head injury when removed from the wrecked car.

A witness reported that the crossing gates did not drop and light and bell signals did not function. Railroad unions have protested against automatic controls of crossing signals along the Wabash tracks in the city, due to heavy traffic on streets crossing the right-of-way.

Killed in California.

James G. Eirten, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Eirten, 6309 Alamo avenue, Clayton, was killed Saturday in an automobile collision 10 miles east of Holtville, Calif., in U.S. Highway 80. Eirten, a Navy fireman, first class, serving aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington, was en route to Phoenix, Ariz., with some shipmates when the accident occurred.

He was a former Clayton High School athlete, and joined the Navy after his graduation in June 1957. Surviving besides his parents are two brothers, Frank O. Eirten and John D. Eirten.

The Navy was attempting today to obtain waiver of a California law in order to comply with the parents' request that the youth be buried at sea. The law requires all persons dying in the state to be buried in authorized cemeteries.

Nun Hurt in Accident.

Mother Superior Mary Evangela, former provincial of the mother house of the School Sisters of Notre Dame, 320 East Ripa avenue, Lemay, was injured seriously in an automobile accident Saturday on a highway in an Indian reservation 12 miles south of Chandler, Ariz.

Three other nuns were among the injured: Sister Mary Cyril (Busson), 28, whose home was in Belleville; Sister Therese Mary, 29, who taught in a parochial school at Breese, Ill., before her transfer last September to a school at Coolidge, Ariz., and Mother Hilaria, 72, Milwaukee, mother commissary general of the School Sisters of Notre Dame of America.

Mother Superior Mary Evangela, 60, was community supervisor of schools in St. Louis staffed by Notre Dame sisters from 1932 to 1945, and taught at Rosati-Kain High School from 1945 to 1947. She then served as provincial at the mother house until 1953. She was transferred to the school at Coolidge last fall.

3 BOYS FIND $10,000 IN BAG ON VACANT LOT

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 2 (AP)—What every body dreams of—finding hidden treasure—has come true for three youngsters who found $10,000 in cash in a vacant lot.

Now all they have to do is wait and see if anyone claims it. Under state law the police can hold the money 30 days.

However, the police in suburban Cheektowaga, where the boys found the money, say they might keep it 90 days to be on the safe side.

The boys were hunting rabbits Saturday when 11-year-old Jimmy Weiglein stumbled on a large paper bag. He called over the other two, Otis Montgomery, 13, and Roy Anderson, 14. All live in Cheektowaga.

The cash was in bills from $1 to $100, plus $87.75 in coins. Police counted $9514.75 and estimated that other torn bills might be worth another $500. The bag also contained three wristwatches, three rings and two small keys.

Police speculated that the money had been stolen, but they said they have no clues as to where it came from.

NEHRU'S DAUGHTER HEADS RULING CONGRESS PARTY

NEW DELHI, Feb. 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, was unanimously elected president of the governing Congress party today.

The party announced that of three names proposed, one nomination was found invalid and another withdrew, leaving Mrs. Gandhi the sole nominee. She will take over from U.N. Dheber next Sunday. He had served two terms and asked for permission to retire.

Mrs. Gandhi is the wife of Feroz Gandhi, who is no relation to the late Mohandas Gandhi.

'COPTER TO SWANS' RESCUE

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., Feb. 2 (AP)—The Coast Guard was called to the rescue when Humane Society officers noticed that some of a flock of 100 swans were trapped in the ice when the bay froze over this weekend. They feared that if the rest of the flock remained hanging about it would freeze in also.

A Coast Guard helicopter circled low over the birds yesterday. The powerful gusts from its whirling rotor blasted the swans loose and sent the entire flock scurrying for open water.

U.S. IS PREPARED FOR ANY THREAT, M'ELROY INSISTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy insisted today that the nation is prepared to meet any military threat it now faces.

In the wake of Democratic complaints that the Defense budget is inadequate McElroy assured the House Armed Services Committee that the nation's defenses are strong and getting stronger all the time.

He was the lead-off witness as the committee began a study of the defense program.

After McElroy read a prepared statement, Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem.), Georgia, cleared the room so the committee could hear testimony in secret from Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In his statement, McElroy drew no comparison between Soviet and United States military power.

But he said that "we are improving our forces. We are moving ahead faster than we had expected in many important areas . . ."

He said this included intercontinental ballistic missiles and the Navy's missile-launching Polaris submarine.

Rapid Atlas Progress.

(The Associated Press reported McElroy stated that the Atlas intercontinental missile "is moving ahead even faster than originally expected." Some operational Atlases are expected to be in place and attended by trained personnel this summer, he told the Congressmen.)

McElroy said the first complete Polaris missile will be fired this summer and the first fully operational Polaris submarine will be "at sea ready to fire" in late 1960.

McElroy summarized the defense picture as follows:

Retaliatory power in event of a general war—"We have today a deterrent capability of impressive magnitude and will have for as far ahead as we can see."

Limited wars—He expressed "confidence that we will be able to meet the kinds of limited war situations which are apt to face us."

Surprise attack—"We cannot expect to counter an all-out attack so completely that no hostile weapons will penetrate, but our defenses are formidable."

By the Associated Press.

Replies To Vinson.

McElroy also dealt directly with a statement last week by Vinson, who said Mr. Eisenhower is asking congress to surrender its control over the relative strengths of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps.

The secretary said a new system in the budget request of identifying funds by categories cutting across the services has "no intent or likelihood" of changing the actual method of appropriating to the separate service. Nor, he said, would it give the secretary of defense any important new authority to switch funds around.

The only purpose of the change, McElroy said, is to make the money needs of the military clearer to Congress and to the public.

He conceded that each service hcief had some reservations about the amount of funds provided for his service.

ASSERTS UNEMPLOYMENT WILL CONTINUE THROUGH '59

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, predicted yesterday that unemployment will not drop back to its prerecession level until the end of this year.

Addressing the convention of the Potato Chip Institute, the commissioner said, "Employment will continue to gain as business recovery proceeds but . . . unemployment will not be reduced to prosperity levels until the end of the year."

Double-Deck Bus Tryout.

BERLIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—Double-deck busses are going to get a tryout in Moscow traffic.

The East German news agency ADN reported a 14-foot-high East Berlin doubledecker left Saturday by road for a test in the Soviet capital.

ROOMING HOUSE FIRE KILLS 3

MANCHESTER, N.H., Feb. 2 (AP)—Three persons were killed and seven were injured Saturday night when a general alarm fire swept a four-story rooming house in the downtown section. Twenty persons escaped the blaze.

Police identified the dead as John Upton, 83 years old; John Salmon, 73, and Anthony Giamoozis, 66. Fire Chief Edward J. Grady, who estimated damage at $200,000, said the explosion of a compressor in the cellar was responsible for the fire.

SWISS MISSES MISS OUT IN MOVE TO GET VOTE

BERN, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Swiss men told their women through the ballot box yesterday to stay at home and keep out of politics.

By a vote of 654,924 to 323,306 the men defeated a proposed constitutional amendment to permit women to vote and run for federal office. The government proposal won majorities in only three of 15 cantons (states) and half-cantons—Geneva, Neuchatel and Vaud.

The results of the balloting, conducted Saturday and yesterday, left Switzerland and the tiny Alpine principality of Liechtenstein as the last two European countries without women's suffrage.

Rejection of the proposal was no surprise although it had the backing of both houses of the Swiss National Assembly. The concept of politics as an exclusive male reservation is so ingrained in Swiss tradition that many Swiss women were against any change.

LOCAL CHAIRMEN POLLED ON IDEAS TC BUILD UP G.O.P.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Republican National Committee is polling 6300 county and city party chairmen and vice chairmen on their ideas for strengthening the party organization for the 1960 campaign.

Committee officials said last night that about 200 replies already have been received, but will not be made public at this time.

One question put to the local leaders is whether the people in their areas believe the charge that the G.O.P. is the party of big business or the rich. Another question asks the chairmen what they are doing to develop strong candidates for the next election.

Patrol Fraud

to investigate after some Miami patrol officers became suspicious, the report said, but he mistakenly believed the sum missing was $34,350.

Sutter demanded and got that amount from Pierce in June 1957, the report continued, and "placed it in his personal bank account and dissipated it in the ensuing 90 days" by paying off some debts.

Sutter later discovered Pierce still was short $23,175, collected it from him, and handed it over to the New York wing as the total amount recovered, the subcommittee said.

The subcommittee expressed concern because the name and facilities of the Air Force were used by an organization over which the Air Force could exercise no real authority.

It reported the Air Force, with the patrol's consent, will try to solve this by taking over auditing control of the CAP.

The patrol is a private corporation, operating under a charter granted by Congress. It works in close collaboration with the Air Force for flight training and other purposes.

Another part of the subcommittee report called for a federal law to check a flourishing confidence racket.

The subcommittee said the victims are mostly small business men, but include farmers and home owners.

The report pictured a mushrooming confidence scheme by 70 or more companies which it said collect fat fees in advance for advertising businesses or real estate for sale. It said the advertising often proves worthless or of little value. The racketeers, it added, frequently manage to avoid actual violation of the law.

M'NARY SUGGESTS COUNTY OFFICIALS EXCHANGE IDEAS

Periodic discussions by St. Louis county officials of their problems was proposed yesterday by new St. Louis County Supervisor James H. J. McNary in an interview on Television Station KTVI.

Interviewed by newspaper reporters who cover the county and by representatives of the League of Women Voters, McNary said he expects to call monthly meetings of county officials "to exchange ideas and opinions and discuss problems."

Asked about the attempt to form a "social club" and collect "dues" from employes of Recorder of Deeds John L. Koob, the supervisor repeated a previous statement that he is opposed to any type of assessment of county employes. On the question of economy, McNary observed that county residents must vote funds if they want costly improvements, such as new roads.

DEFINITION OF SPACE: THAT IN WHICH EVERYTHING IS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Dr. James A. Van Allen of the State University of Iowa, for whom the newly discovered Van Allen radiation belt encircling the earth is named, offers this definition of space:

"Space is that in which everything else is."

Or, he suggested this:

"Space is the whole that we are in."

ARMED MAN ROBS BANK IN LOUISVILLE OF $6000

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 2 (UPI)—An armed man robbed a suburban branch of the Citizens Fidelity Bank and Trust Co. of about $6000 today.

The Dixie Manor shopping center branch bank is the same one from which robbers took $110,000 in cash and checks in a holdup Dec. 9, 1957.

BRIDE'S NUMBER IS UP

ACQUI, Italy, Feb. 2 (UPI) —Domenico Resti said yesterday he intended to separate from his bride of three months because she neglected to play a set of lottery numbers which won.

Resti said he gave his wife, Angela, 1000 lire ($1.60) to play on the numbers 16-57-5-61. Then he left for Milan on business. In Milan, he read with joy that the numbers had come out and that he stood to win $32,000. On returning home he discovered that his wife had spent the 1000 lire on household expenses.

HENNINGS AGAIN HITS WITHHOLDING OF INFORMATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Senator Thomas C. Hennings (Dem.), Missouri, challenged anew yesterday the right of the President and other executive officials to withhold information from Congress and the public.

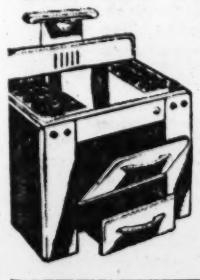

Hennings said that as chairman of the Senate constitutional rights subcommittee he has received a 142-page memorandum from the Justice Department supplementing a memorandum submitted by Attorney General William P. Rogers two years ago.

"Boiled down to its essentials," Hennings said, "the Attorney General's executive privilege doctrine is merely a claim that the Constitution gives executive department officials unlimited powers to withhold information from both Congress and the public."

Calling this "poor law and poor policy," Hennings said in his statement that "nowhere in the Constitution is the President or any of his subordinates given such broad and dangerous power."

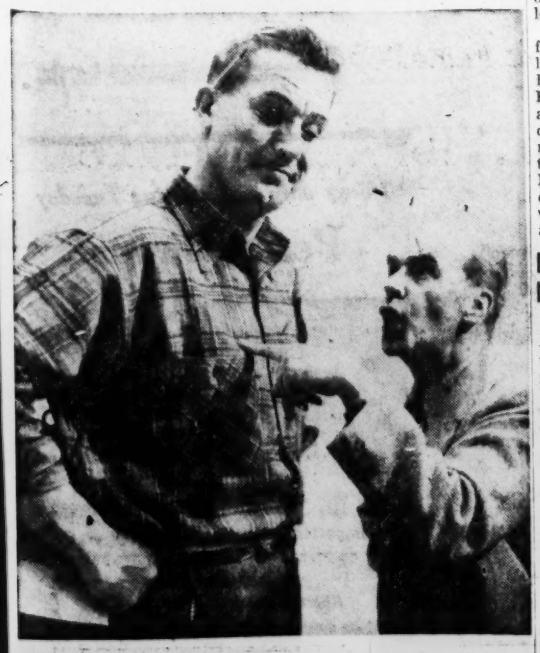

Hennings said, "It seems as though the Attorney General is attempting to amend the Constitution by writing memorandums."

FOOD INDUSTRY UNDER SWEEPING INQUIRY BY FTC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —The Federal Trade Commission is taking the first step in a sweeping examination of the nation's biggest business — the food industry.

Questionnaires are going out to more than 1000 major food retailers. They will be required to supply information about concentration of power in the industry, the commission said yesterday.

The forms must be filled out by March 31. The FTC threatens court action against those failing to answer.

The food chains, retail cooperatives and grocery wholesalers receiving the questionnaires account for most of the annual 47 billion dollar retail sales in the industry.

The FTC announced in October it was planning the inquiry. The commission said then it had received many complaints of collusive price action, unfair competitive methods and concentration of economic power within the industry.

At present, the FTC is focusing its study on concentration of power. It may look later into other aspects of food retailing, depending, perhaps, on what its current inquiry turns up. Investigations of this sort normally continue for months, even years.

In addition to seeking information pertinent to the entire country, the FTC is asking more detailed data on industry competition in 15 metropolitan centers. These are: Altoona, Pa.; Atlanta, Ga.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Denver, Colo.; Des Moines, Ia.; Fort Smith, Ark.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Lubbock, Tex.; Manchester, N. H.; Peoria, Ill.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Roanoke, Va.; Spokane, Wash.; Stockton, Calif., and Utica, N.Y.

It was understood the areas were selected because food chains are dominant in some while co-operatives and wholesale groups are the major industry factors in others.

SHORT ON CASH, DEMOCRATIC WOMEN STOP NEWS LETTER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —The Democratic digest, official monthly publication of the Democratic National Committee, included a two-page section "For and About Women" in the issue released yesterday. This was added because the Democrats' office of women's activities found it financially impossible to get out a free monthly news letter which it has been distributing to 30,000 Democratic women.

Katie Louchheim, Democratic vice chairman and director of women's activities, explained the plight of the women's news letter in the Digest. She said that from this issue on the Digest will include a new version of the women's news letter.

Heretofore the Digest has devoted itself generally to party problems. A brief editorial, captioned "Welcome Ladies," also noted the change and said the decision to add the women's news letter means "more women will receive this helpful material and more men will know about the varied and successful activities of our Democratic women."

MITCHELL SAYS KENNEDY'S LABOR BILL IS TOO WEAK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said yesterday that he cannot agree that a labor-management bill by Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts is strong enough to drive James R. Hoffa out of business, as Kennedy predicts it would.

Indicating he believes President Eisenhower's proposals are much stronger in that direction, Mitchell said Kennedy's bill does not get at "secondary boycotts and blackmail picketing." These, the Secretary said, are necessary "in curbing racketeering."

Mitchell, in a filmed CBS-TV radio interview on "Face the Nation" criticized Kennedy's bill on one other major point. He said it fails to get at "what we call the no man's land, that is the question of where the Federal Government has jurisdiction and where the states have jurisdiction."

CRYSTAL CITY GLASS FIRM WORKERS OK ARBITRATION

Glass workers on strike at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.'s plant at Crystal City voted conditional approval yesterday of a proposal to arbitrate unresolved issues. Strikers at six other plants of the company also were scheduled to vote on the question yesterday. The strike began 17 weeks ago.

Approximately 2000 members of the AFL-CIO United Glass and Ceramic Workers Local 63 attended the meeting at Crystal City High School auditorium.

Joseph Grohs, union local president, said arbitration of certain issues was approved, contingent on the management and union negotiators' agreeing on submission of the questions. In dispute are incentive rates, seniority rights and the right to reduce manpower on certain jobs sought by management. Negotiations are to be resumed Wednesday in Philadelphia.

Mickey Cohen Hit By Auto.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (AP) —Mickey Cohen, ex-gambler, was struck by a neighbor's car when the brakes failed and the car rolled into the driveway of Cohen's home. Cohen was sitting in a wicker chair in the driveway with his back to the street. The car shoved Cohen and his chair 20 feet into a fence. He was unhurt.

BILL BY SENATOR KEATING WOULD PROTECT REPORTERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Senator Kenneth Keating (Rep.), New York, plans to introduce a bill protecting reporters who don't want to reveal the source of their stories. One limitation: That the silence does not hurt the nation's security.

Keating's bill, covering reporters in federal courts and before congressional committees, stems from the case of Marie Torre. The New York columnist spent 10 days in jail for refusing to tell a court the name of her source in a story about Judy Garland.

Plan an Easy Weekend Late Breakfast Party

Menu Substantial But Not Complicated

The ideal menu for a late breakfast should be substantial but simple. Pictured above is just such a meal. Tall glasses of chilled orange juice, fluffy scrambled eggs with a new twist, grilled sausages, toasted English muffins and orange date bread with citrus marmalade are served with cups of steaming coffee. Recipes are given in the accompanying story for the scrambled eggs with cream cheese, orange date bread, and marmalade.

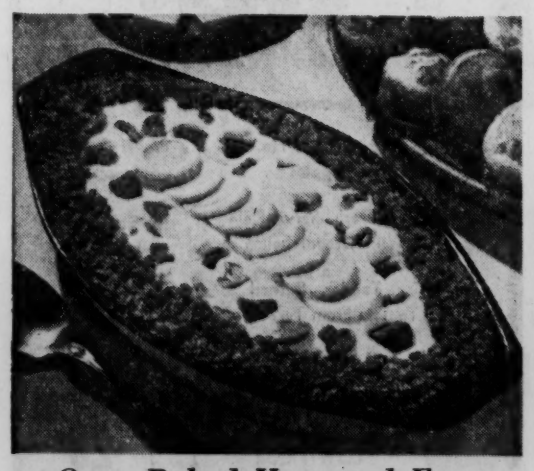

Timesaving Breakfast Menu

This streamlined menu was planned around convenience foods. Canned tomato juice, deftly seasoned, and canned corned beef baked with eggs accompany refrigerator biscuits baked with a delicious covering of wheat germ, chopped pecans, brown sugar and cinnamon.

Meal That Is Easy to Serve

A late breakfast is an informal and relaxed way to entertain a group. Here is a menu that is easy to serve: fruit juice, French toasted shredded wheat topped with Spicy Pineapple Sauce, Canadian bacon, piping hot corn muffins and coffee.

Oven Baked Ham and Eggs

A fresh fruit cup, Oven Baked Ham and Eggs, with corn muffins added for their crunchy texture, provide an attractive and satisfying meal.

By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor

THE PATTERN of entertaining changes with the times, just as surely as do styles in clothing, home furnishings and automobiles. Suburban living, women's many interests outside the home, the virtual disappearance of household servants all contribute to a more relaxed way of life.

The very large, formal (and often dull) parties of yesteryear have been largely replaced by smaller, casual gatherings. Most Americans now find their fun at barbecues in the summer, at open houses and rathskeller parties in the winter.

Another form of party which has been gaining steadily in popularity is the late breakfast on a Saturday or Sunday morning. This is a particularly happy solution for the woman who enjoys entertaining frequently, but who works five days a week.

She can repay her social obligations with a minimum of effort and have a maximum amount of time in which to make preparations. The table can be set and advance preparations made the evening before; menus for this type of a party are best when they are hearty but simple. And it is part of the fun to plug in small electrical appliances and cook some of the food right at the table.

Serve tall, cool glasses of orange juice in the living room, to be followed by fluffy scrambled eggs (done with cream cheese for a change, and subtly but well seasoned with tabasco); grilled sausage; toasted English muffins, orange date bread with marmalade and generous cups of steaming coffee.

Scrambled Eggs With Cream Cheese.

Two three-ounce packages cream cheese.
One-half cup milk.
One dozen eggs.
One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon tabasco.
Four tablespoons butter or margarine.

Put cream cheese and milk in large mixing bowl; blend until smooth. Add eggs, salt and tabasco; beat until foamy. Melt butter in chafing dish or large skillet; pour in egg mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring bottom and sides as eggs become firm. Continue until eggs are thick and creamy.

Yield: Six servings.

Grilled Sausage.

Place pork sausage links in cold skillet. Cook over low heat 12 to 15 minutes, turning often, until browned. Pour off fat as it accumulates.

Orange Date Bread.

One-half cup boiling water.
Two tablespoons butter or margarine.
Two tablespoons grated orange rind.
One-third cup orange juice.
One-half cup finely cut dates.
One cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon almond flavoring.
One egg, slightly beaten.
One-half cup coarsely chopped Brazil nuts.
Two cups sifted all-purpose flour.
One-fourth teaspoon soda.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Pour boiling water over butter in mixing bowl; stir until melted. Add orange rind, orange juice, dates, sugar, almond flavoring, egg and Brazil nuts.

Sift in flour, soda, baking powder and salt. Mix well. Turn batter into greased loaf pan eight and one-half by four and one-half by two and one-half inches. Bake in a moderate oven, (350 degrees) one hour or until done. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack.

Florida Marmalade.

One grapefruit
Two oranges
Two cups water
One-eighth teaspoon soda
Sugar (about six cups)

Remove peel in quarters from fruit. Remove half the inner white part from grapefruit peel with paring knife; discard. Cut remaining peel into fine slivers. If desired, cut part of peel in fancy shapes with small cutters.

Add water and soda. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Dice pulp, removing core and seeds. Add pulp and juice to undrained rind. Cover; simmer 10 minutes. Measure; add one cup sugar for each cup mixture.

Bring to boiling point, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Cook mixture rapidly, stirring frequently, to prevent scorching, until thick and clear (about 30 minutes) or until sirup runs off side of spoon in two drops which "sheet" together. Pour into hot sterilized jars or glasses; paraffin at once.

Yield: six eight-ounce glasses.

Here is another suggested menu: Chilled fruit juice; French toasted shredded wheat topped with a Spicy Pineapple Sauce; Canadian Bacon, hot corn muffins and coffee.

French Toasted Shredded Wheat

Two eggs.
One-half cup milk.
Two teaspoons salt.
Four shredded wheat biscuits.

Combine eggs, milk and salt and beat well. Dip shredded wheat biscuits in mixture long enough to coat both sides generously. Fry in small amount of shortening until golden brown on both sides. Serve with:

Spicy Pineapple Sauce. Combine one can (one pound four ounces) pineapple tidbits and sirup with one-eight teaspoon cloves, one-eighth teaspoon cinnamon and one tablespoon cornstarch. Cook over moderate heat, stirring, until sauce is thickened. Serve warm.

Southern Cheese Spoon Bread

Scrambled eggs, browned rounds of Canadian bacon, grilled apricot halves filled with currant jelly comprise the supporting cast for Cheese Spoon Bread, which is the star of the show in this menu.

Oven baked ham and eggs can be arranged in a buttered casserole or baking dish early in the morning. Then place in the oven while preparing the rest of the meal; the casserole will take on a nice brown color and will be ready to put on the table, bubbling and filling the air with an appetizing aroma, in a very short time.

Oven Baked Ham and Eggs

Four tablespoons butter or margarine.
Four tablespoons flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two cups milk.
One cup dry bread crumbs.
One-fourth cup melted butter or margarine.
Six hard-cooked eggs, sliced.
One cup cooked ham, cut in pieces.
One small can mushrooms (stems and pieces) drained.
Paprika.

Melt butter, blend in flour and salt; add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Continue to cook until sauce is smooth and thickened.

Blend crumbs with the one-fourth cup of melted butter.

In a buttered casserole alternate layers of crumbs, eggs, ham, mushrooms and sauce, topping with crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes. Serve from the casserole at the table.

Yield: Six servings.

If made in advance and casserole is cold, allow 45 minutes to brown and heat through.

The meal might start with a fresh fruit cup, followed by Oven Baked Ham and Eggs; add corn muffins for their crunchy texture and, of course, a hot beverage.

Spoon bread is a favorite Southern hot bread; for a late breakfast give it a new twist by the addition of cheese. Spoon it onto warm plates and serve with plenty of butter and a choice of warmed honey or maple sirup.

Add scrambled eggs, browned rounds of Canadian bacon, apricot halves filled with currant jelly and placed under the broiler for a few minutes, and a hot beverage.

A word of warning: Cheese Spoon Bread is a sort of souffle, temperamental only if directions are not followed implicitly and if it can't be eaten the second it comes from the oven. Allowed to linger, it collapses with each passing minute.

Cheese Spoon Bread.

Two cups milk.
One cup corn meal.
One teaspoon salt.
Four tablespoons butter or margarine.
Four egg yolks.
Four egg whites.

Jamaican Fruit Pie

Convenient canned fruit cocktail, with its variety of fruits, sparkles throughout this delectable pie; orange-flavored gelatin and vanilla ice cream make an easy chiffon-type filling; rum flavoring and macaroon crumbs are the final touches.

This distinctive, delicately flavored pie will bring a bit of the color and romance of Jamaica to midwinter, Midwest tables. It is a dessert worthy of your best china and silver.

Jamaican Fruit Pie.

One package orange-flavored gelatin.
One cup hot water.
One teaspoon grated orange rind.
One-third cup orange juice.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One pint vanilla ice cream.
Two teaspoons rum flavoring.
One cup finely crumbled macaroons.
One and one-half cups drained canned fruit cocktail.
One baked nine-inch pastry shell.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add orange rind, juice, salt and ice cream, stirring occasionally until ice cream is completely melted. Stir in rum flavoring and macaroon crumbs.

Chill a few minutes, until slightly thickened. Fold in well-drained friut cocktail and turn into baked, cooled pie shell. Chill until firm.

the corn meal (white or yellow, it doesn't matter for results, but the Spoon Bread is more colorful if the yellow meal is used). Stir constantly until the mixture is thickened and smooth.

Remove from over the hot water. Add salt, butter, cheese and beaten egg yolks and quickly mix well. (No, there isn't any flour in this bread). The use of a good nippy Cheddar cheese adds flavor.

Beat the egg whites (room temperature) until they will hold a peak. Carefully fold into the corn meal mixture. Pour mixture into a well buttered two-quart casserole and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes.

Serve immediately, spooning a serving onto each plate (a berry spoon is fine for this). Serve with plenty of butter and honey or maybe sirup, or try Warm Honey Butter: Heat together over hot water one-third butter or margarine and two-thirds honey. When butter is melted, mix well. Use to serve over spoon bread, pancakes, waffles or French toast.

The aroma of a hot bread in the oven is almost a guarantee of the success of a party. And hot bread can be ready with practically no trouble at all if packaged refrigerator biscuits are used. Each biscuit is shaped into a ball and dipped in melted butter or margarine, then into a mixture of wheat germ, chopped pecans, brown sugar and cinnamon.

Wheat Rolled Biscuits.

One-fourth cup chopped pecans.
One-fourth cup wheat germ.
Two tablespoons brown sugar.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
One can refrigerator biscuits.
Three tablespoons melted butter or margarine.
Two tablespoons honey.
Two teaspoons sugar.
One teaspoon butter or margarine.

Combine pecans, wheat germ, brown sugar and cinnamon; spread out on waxed paper. Hold each biscuit in fingers and turn edges under to form a smooth, round ball.

Dip each ball first into melted butter, then into the wheat germ mixture. Place coated biscuits on a baking sheet about an inch apart.

In a small saucepan blend together honey, sugar and butter. Bring to boil, then drizzle over biscuits. Bake in a preheated oven (475 degrees) eight to 10 minutes.

This menu might start with canned tomato juice. Chill it overnight, add a dash of worcestershire and tabasco to the juice and garnish with watercress or parsley and lemon slices. If desired, a little basil or dill may be added in lieu of the worcestershire and tabasco.

Main course might be creamed chipped beef served on toast triangles, or corned beef hash heated in a skillet and topped with poached eggs. Or the eggs can be baked right in the hash in a casserole. Spread the hash evenly in a baking dish, make a slight indentation with the back of a spoon for each egg, drop in the eggs and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) for 15 minutes or until the eggs have reached the desired doneness.

One pound bacon.
Two cups cooked rice (two-thirds cup uncooked).
Four eggs.
One-fourth cup milk.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One-fourth cup minced green pepper.
One tablespoon minced pimiento.

Fry bacon until crisp; dain on absorbent paper. Leave one-fourth cup of drippings in skillet. Add rice and brown lightly.

Crumble one half of the bacon. Beat eggs, milk, and seasonings; add crumbled bacon. Add to rice and mix well; cook over low heat until eggs thicken.

Remove to platter and garnish with remaining bacon.

Yield: Four servings.

To fry crisp bacon, place the bacon in a cold skillet and cook over low heat. Separate the slices as they begin to cook so that each piece is flat in the pan. Turn the slices often. When browned evenly, drain on absorbent paper.

Pineapple Duckling

Domestic duckling is a pleasant change for menus; there are many interesting ways to serve this plump bird.

Pineapple complements the richness of duckling in this recipe. The cut-up pieces are first marinated in a mixture of ginger, soy sauce, paprika and pineapple sirup drained from the chunks which are heated and served with the duckling.

In cut-up form, plan to serve a quarter of duckling to each person.

Pineapple Duckling.

One duckling (four and one-half to five pounds) quartered.
Salt and pepper.
One can (No. 2) of pineapple chunks.
One teaspoon powdered ginger.
One teaspoon paprika.
Three tablespoons soy sauce.
Pineapple sirup, drained from chunks.

Drain the pineapple chunks well. Reserve the chunks. Combine ginger, paprika and soy sauce with drained sirup. Mix well. Marinate duckling in this mixture for about three hours.

Place the cut-up duckling in a shallow pan. Bake at 350 degrees for tbout two hours. Turn the duck once during baking and baste once or twice with marinade mixture.

Ten minutes before serving, pour off all fat from pan and add the pineapple chunks. Heat in pan for about five minutes, or until heated through.

Remove duck and pineapple to serving platter. Pour remaining marinade mixture in pan and stir well while heating. Pour over duck on platter.

Yield: four servings.

Note: Squab is also delicious served this way.

Corn Meal Mush With Honey Butter or Sauce

It is an old, old favorite—corn meal mush, fried or baked, and served with honey. Team it with tiny pork sausage links for a late breakfast.

To make Corn Meal Mush, follow the recipe on the box of corn meal. When done, pour the cooked corn meal into a loaf pan. Let stand until cold. Cut into one-half inch slices and pan fry slowly on a lightly greased griddle.

Serve with Spiced Honey Sauce or Honey Butter.

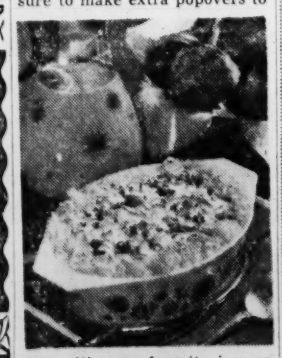

Spiced Honey Sauce: Heat one-fourth cup butter or margarine, one cup honey and one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon in a double boiler or in a sacuepan over low heat. Serve warm. Pour over mush.

Honey Butter: Cream one-half cup butter or margarine; gradually add one-half to one cup honey; beat throughly.

De Luxe Chipped Beef a Fine Brunch Dish

This de luxe version of creamed chipped beef, richly flavored with dairy sour cream, mushrooms and cheese, is an excellent choice for a buffet brunch. It is easy to keep hot in a heat-proof casserole, and requires no last-minute cooking.

Serve the creamed dish in crisp, hot popovers, and do be sure to make extra popovers to pass with your favorite jam or jelly. A compote of fresh fruit and a hot beverage are all that are needed to complete the menu.

De Luxe Creamed Chipped Beef.

One-fourth pound chipped beef.
One-fourth cup butter or margarine.
Two tablespoons finely minced onion.
Three tablespoons flour.
One cup milk.
One cup dairy sour cream.
One cup shredded cheese.
One four-ounce can mushroom pieces.
Two tablespoons finely minced parsley.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Popovers, crisp buttered toast triangles toasted English muffins or rice.

Cut beef into Julienne strips. Melt butter in a skillet or heavy saucepan, add beef and onion and cook until onion is transparent. Blend in flour. Add milk, stirring constantly. Cook until sauce is smooth and thickened.

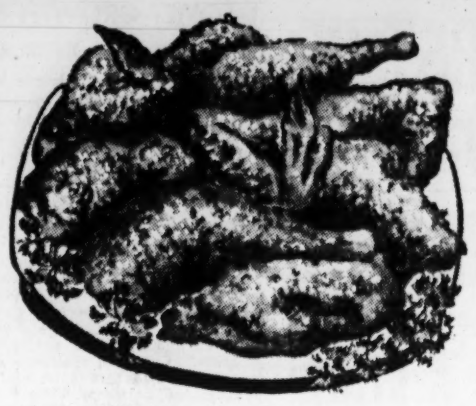

Add sour cream, mushroom pieces, cheese and parsley and blend. Season to taste with salt and pepper and heat to serving temperature.

Serve in popovers or over buttered toast triangles, English muffins or rice.

Business Outlook

SOVIET GROWTH BECOMES U.S. PHOBIA

By J. A. Livingston

America is in danger of idolizing growth for growth's sake. Congressmen, economists, commentators and writers have become fascinated by Soviet expansion. America, once the industrial hare, has become the economic tortoise. Russia, formerly the tortoise, has become the purposeful hare.

During the last ten years, indexes of Soviet production indicate an annual rate of growth of 14 per cent. In contrast, America has plodded along at the traditional 2.5 per cent. Hence the phobia: The Soviet Union is rapidly overtaking us. Khrushchev will make good his boast and bury us, not with arms but with an avalanche of output. The bare data, uninterpreted, are scary:

Annual Per Cent Increase in Production

Year	USSR	U.S.
1949	22%	— 8%
1950	25	17
1951	16	7
1952	11	3
1953	12	8
1954	13	— 7
1955	12	12
1956	11	3
1958	10	— 7

But wait! The statistics are stacked in Russia's favor. The Soviet data include primarily electric power, crude oil, steel, cement, and similar "command" resources. These are the products the Soviet Union needs to grow on. They are the components of military power. They are produced according to plan.

While visiting an automobile factory in Detroit, Deputy Premier Anastas I Mikoyan pointed to a fin on a car and asked, "What's that for?" He was told, "Styling to sell cars." He put his hands to his head, smiled. That wouldn't do in the USSR. Too frivolous.

In the United States, consumption is the end of production. In the Soviet Union, growth is the object of production. Consumer goods are "fuel" to stoke workers.

Growth is muted statistically in the United States. Some of the most rapidly growing new industries—electronics, for instance—are not fully registered in the index. Coal shows a decline in trend, also soap. We use oil and gas instead of coal, detergents instead of soap. Such declines here are indications of technological change, but they embellish the pro-Soviet comparisons.

Long-Term Perspective.

A study by Prof. G. Warren Nutter, of the University of Virginia, for the National Bureau of Economic Research, indicates that the long-run industrial growth rate in Russia has been about the same as that of the United States. From 1860 to 1913, the annual growth rate of Czarist Russia was 5.3 per cent as compared with 5.2 per cent for the United States. From 1913 to 1955, the growth rate in Russia ranged from 3.3 per cent to 4.7 per cent a year; in the United States, 3.8 per cent.

Only in postwar years has there been a decisive difference—about 14 per cent versus 2.5 per cent. This is explained partly by the difference in statistics, partly by the Soviet emphasis on "industrial industries"—steel, electric power, petroleum, cement—partly by the accelerated recovery in Soviet production from the wartime low, and partly by the greater breadth of the United States economy.

U. S. Still Production Champ!

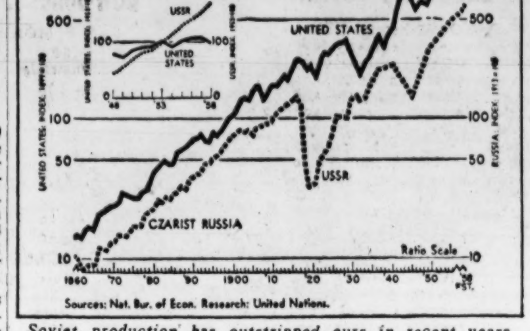

Last year, the United States, with a population of 170,000,000, produced three times as much petroleum, electric energy, and meat as the Soviet Union with a population of more than 200,000,000. We produced 40% more cement; 30% more steel. And it was a recession year.

What is disturbing about Soviet production is not the growth but the use to which the production is put—the intent of it. If the Soviet Union made more automobiles, the steel, cast iron, copper, and motors going into these extra autos would be diverted from producers' goods, from growth. The gasoline needed to fuel those cars would be taken away from producers' goods.

If ever Khrushchev set his mind to improving the standards of living as he is now improving the methods of waging war, if ever the Soviet Union began making pliofilm to wrap food, autos to carry passengers, refrigerators and washing machines to improve living, the rate fo growth would flatten out, and our rate of equanimity would improve. In absolute amount of output, Soviet Russia is still far behind, and will be for years to come.

Our danger is not that Khrushchev will bury us under an avalanche of output, but that we'll lose ourselves on a false, idolatrous quest of growth for growth's sake. Our problem is to produce what we need to survive and Progress—not to engage in a battle of percentage comparisons.

Perspective---U.S. vs. Russia

Sources: Nat. Bur. of Econ. Research; United Nations.

Soviet production has outstripped ours in recent years but the long-term growth rate is about the same.

INTERNATIONAL SHOE REPORT FOR 1958

International Shoe Co. reported net income for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 of $7,540,549, equivalent to $2.25 a common share, compared with $9,577,281 or $2.86 a share for the preceding fiscal year.

Net sales for the year were $244,313,888, against $266,073,480. The 1958 sales included no military business which the previous year amounted to $5,179,742. Civilian sales of $244,313,888 compared with $260,893,738 a year ago, a decrease of 6 per cent. Sales in the second half of the year showed an increase over sales in the first half. Sales in the second half of 1957 were slightly below the first half.

During 1958, 46,298,643 pairs of civilian shoes were produced, against $50,144,402, a decrease of 8 per cent. Part of the decrease was the result of a planned further reduction in finished shoe inventory, the company stated.

Retail shoe sales nationally were somewhat higher in 1958 than in 1957. This points to a reduction in the inventory of shoes in the hands of distributors. The booking of new orders for shipment in 1959 confirms the fact that retailers are more in urgent need of shoes than they have been for some time in the past, the company said.

STOCK PRICES TURN IRREGULARLY LOWER

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Stocks turned irregularly lower today after a feeble attempt to advance early in the session.

For a time the steels and coppers moved higher and some of the chemicals improved. Then prices slipped off from their best levels. Some leading issues in the industrial group were hard hit, notably Goodyear, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, and U.S. Steel. These lost 1 to 3 points.

Oil issues met selling and fell fractions to more than a point. International Paper was down a point in its section. Automobile issues slipped lower.

Douglas softened late in the day in the aircrafts. Zenith lost 5 in the televisions. Electronics issues generally tended lower.

U.S. BONDS GENERALLY FIRM IN SLOW TRADE

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Corporate bonds improved a shade in quiet trading late today after a mixed opening.

United States Government bonds were generally firm in slow transactions. Over-the-counter dealers quoted both intermediate and long-range Treasury issues unchanged for the most part. The range extended from minus 2-32 to plus 2-32 in a few instances.

SOYBEAN PARITY CUT DROPS BOARD PRICE

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (AP)—The eight-cent parity cut in 1959 crop soybeans brought out liberal liquidation of September and November contracts for that commodity today on the Board of Trade. Prices of those deliveries slipped as much as two cents a bushel.

The grains generally were weak although corn showed some steadiness at times.

SYMINGTON RATED AS AN 'ADMIRABLE COMPROMISE' MAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) —Senator Paul M. Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, said yesterday that Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, would be "an admirable compromise candidate" for the presidency.

"But we have many other fine ones, too," Douglas said on ABC-TV's "College News Conference." "The Republicans have only two but we have a plethora of candidates . . . an embarrassment of riches." He did not further identify any candidates.

The Senator also said, "I think it's going to be extremely hard to pass a meaningful civil rights bill. But even though you can't get it by, it's important to try. And I believe we can if the Administration will help us."

Douglas, recently named chairman of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, advocated cutting down on farm subsidies in favor of more spending on education and urban development. He said that the Government should make loans to get production going in areas of great unemployment.

LAST-MINUTE AGREEMENT BY ILLINOIS BELL AND CWA

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (UPI)—A last-minute contract settlement yesterday gave $1 to $3 weekly wage increases and expanded vacation and pension programs to about 7300 Illinois Bell Telephone operators and clerks.

An end to the three-week talks between the company and the AFL-CIO Communication Workers of America came shortly before the union's contract was due to expire at midnight Saturday night. The proposed contract must be ratified by union members before a Feb. 10 voting deadline.

A company spokesman said terms of the contract apply to 7300 operators and clerical employees in Illinois Bell-served towns outside Chicago and two Indiana counties.

Besides increases up to $3 weekly, the agreement includes four-week paid vacations for employes with 30 years' service or more and a pension rise from $100 to $115 for werkers retiring at 65.

EX-NAVY PILOT ACCUSED IN PLOT TO KILL CASTRO

HAVANA, Feb. 2 (AP) — A former United States Navy pilot is being held here on the suspicion that he attempted to infiltrate rebel forces for the purposes of killing revolutionary chieftain Fidel Castro, a police lieutenant said today.

Lt. Manuel Carbonelli told newspapermen that Alan Robert Nye of Coral Gables, Fla., had been jailed since Dec. 26 pending an investigation. Nye told reporters he had proof he came to Cuba to aid the rebels and to bomb planes of the Batista government. He denied he planned to get into the rebel forces and to try to kill Castro for a $10,000 fee.

Police said Nye was arrested when walking along a road near Santa Rita in the Bayamo sector of Oriente province. Nye said he was unarmed when he was seized, but police said they believed he hid a rifle with telescopic sights and a pistol after landing in a plane.

Cold Weather Will Continue

—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Cold weather in the St. Louis area will continue for the next several days, although a slow warming trend is expected to begin tomorrow or Wednesday, the Weather Bureau said. Temperatures here tomorrow should range from a low of 10 to 15 to a high in the low 30s.

The mid-winter cold wave gripped large areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic coast today, and little general relief appeared in sight. Arctic air, which caused temperatures to drop to 40 degrees below zero in Minnesota over the weekend, spread eastward and headed slowly into the South.

Coldest weather in the nation today was reported in the northern tier of states from Montana eastward through northern New England. It was below zero as far south as northern Missouri.

A few snow flurries were reported early today from Minnesota to New York, with freezing rain and snow in parts of Texas and Oklahoma. In the West, snow fell in the Rockies in the 24 hours ended this morning.

Precipitation tomorrow will include snow in the upper Great Lakes region, central and southern Plains states and central and southern Rockies, and rain in South Carolina, Georgia, eastern Gulf coast and southern California, as indicated by the above map.

Degree-days in the St. Louis area yesterday, 48; the month, 48; the season, 3049.

Young Tribesmen Are Determined to Change to More Modern Ways — They Passionately Seek Dignity, Justice and Education.

Fifteenth of a series of articles by Donald Grant of the Post-Dispatch staff on political and economic conditions in Africa and on the status of the peoples struggling toward self-determination.

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 2.

HERE ON THE ROOF OF AFRICA—the altitude of Addis Ababa is something over 8000 feet—we can in a sense look down on the whole vast continent. It is by all odds the most rapidly changing area in the world today.

To a great extent Ethiopia, a remote mountainous country, is cut off from those changes, but Ethiopia, too, is developing. It has been an independent state for most of its long history except for the period of Italian occupation before and during World War II.

Ethiopia is a reminder that independence, so fervently desired by the colonial areas to the south, does not itself solve all of the complex and burdensome problems which beset the people of Africa. Ethiopia, despite independence, is one of the most backward areas of the continent — economically, politically and socially.

Ethiopia is a reminder also that Africa is an infinitely varied continent. There is little similarity between the people here and the Africans south of the Equator or, for that matter, any people of Africa.

Appeal of Independence.

We see in the first place a whole continent being stirred by the irresistible appeal of independence, whether or not independence is to solve all of the African problems.

After World War II, Egypt, Sundan and Libya slipped into the ranks of independent nations almost unnoticed. In 1957 Ghana became independent and that, with the emergence to nationhood of Tunisia and Morocco above the Sahara, started what has now become a rout of old fashioned colonialism in Africa, its last stronghold.

French Guinea became independent last year and within the next two years the list of independent nations will be much lengthened. It will include the United Nations trust territories of French Togo, Italian Somalia, British and French Cameroons. It will include Nigeria on the West coast which, in population, will be the largest nation on the continent.

Both French Equatorial Africa and French West Africa seem to be moving rapidly in the same direction, as does the British territory of Sierra Leone.

Since the riots a month ago the Belgian Congo has taken a great leap forward.

South of the Equator there is still a tendency by the colonial powers to hold on and the Union of South Africa is in some ways a special case. But the winds of democracy and independence blowing from the north are sweeping the entire continent to the Cape itself.

What sort of continent in fact is this?

Four Times Size of U.S.

The whole continent—nearly four times the size of the United States — straddles the Equator. Neither the land nor the people in it much resemble popular conceptions born of fiction and romance.

Beginning at the north there is a rim of green on the Mediterranean followed by the Atlas mountains—geologically a part of the European Alps — and then sloping off into the vast Sahara. South of the desert is tropical and equatorial Africa and finally a small temperate zone at the southern tip.

Except for the far north, the whole of Africa can be described as a great plateau which slopes abruptly downward at its edges to the oceans which surround it. From south to north this plateau mounts rapidly to the summit in Ethiopia, especially along the eastern side of the continent.

The heights of Africa tend to moderate its equatorial position considerably. One of the surprises of this continent is the existence of relatively large areas which are cool and comfortable the year around. The Africa of heat and jungle does exist, but tropical rain forest occupies only a small strip on the Equator and that mostly in the west.

Many Types of People.

Even more surprising perhaps is the variety of the people of Africa. They range from the Arabs and Berbers, some of the latter quite blond, in the north to the mixed peoples just south of the Saraha and such others called the Negroes, Pygmies, Bantu, Hottentots and Bushmen.

Such names mean very little however when you see the people of Africa. Some who call themselves Arabs, for instance, are in fact much darker than some who call themselves Negroes. "Black Africa" includes many shades from golden bronze to jet black and the features and physical proportions of the African people show great variety.

Like other human beings, the Africans are individual men, women and children first — handsome and ugly, stupid and intelligent, good and bad in about the same proportions as Europeans, Asians or Americans.

A great deal of romantic nonsense has been written about the cultural patterns of "primitive Africa." The African people are joining the main stream of western civilization at a pace impossible to exaggerate. Literacy figures are all out of date, but within a very few years the vast majority of Africans will be able to read in one language or another. The eagerness of the African for education approaches fanatical proportions.

Tribalism Is Dying.

It is the white man here chiefly who values the old tribal ways now swiftly passing. In the Union of South Africa there is of course a deliberate attempt on the part of the Dutch origin people, who are the dominant minority, to force the African back into tribalism, an experiment with a very doubtful outlook.

In Kenya, British amateur anthropologists will travel miles over remote country in an attempt to find an ethnic pocket of "unspoiled natives," much as some Americans curiously seek out villages in the mountains of Tennessee.

This is not to say that tribalism is not still a force among the African people, especially the older generation. Young Africans almost invariably seek to break with it, however, and in any event the impact of western civilization is great and all-pervading. The impact is strongest in the cities and the cities of Africa tend to be swollen with Africans who come there without a job simply to feel the atmosphere of modernity.

Even Back Country Changes.

Even in the remote back country change is swift. The Masai tribe of Kenya and Tanganyika is a good example.

Europeans for years have romanticized the Masai, partly perhaps because they are handsome in a European way, having thin straight noses and thin lips. Their tribal customs also lend themselves to romance.

It is a spartan society in which young men are not allowed to marry but are formed into disciplined bands of warriors to engage in cattle raiding and in close combat with lions, leopards and other wild animals which prey on the Masai herds. A Masai warrior, armed only with a spear and knife, will go into cave after a leopard that has killed his cattle.

This is all very well for the white man to admire as an example of courage, but in fact it is the leopard or lion which emerges from this cave about as often as it is the Masai warrior.

More seriously the spartan bands of Masai warriors are allowed an extraordinary degree of sexual freedom and the religion of the Masai is in a large measure a sex cult. The result is a tragic prevalence of syphilis.

Young Men Seek Changes.

On a trip I made to the remoter parts of Kenya, I talked to some young Masai warriors who are resolutely determined to change these tribal patterns. They plan when they reach the status of junior elders within the next year or two to institute a concerted campaign for mass inoculations of penicillin and wholesale settlement of the Masai in agricultural areas. Although admitting it will be difficult, they also expressed confidence they could substitute family life for the promiscuous sex habits of the tribe.

These Masai warriors were literate and fully aware of world events. They also were healthy specimens; their diet of milk and raw blood which they extract from the jugular veins of their cattle without seriously injuring them, seems a wholesome one.

On the same trip I talked to some farmers from the Kikuyu, the tribe from which the Mau Mau terrorists in Kenya were recruited. Much has been written about the "savage and primitive" Kikuyu, especially in the rural areas.

One farmer I talked to, however, showed me the books he keeps on the crop plantings, cost of seed and fertilizers and sales of farm produce. He lives in a compound with his two wives, nine children and two farm hands. Every night he keeps a bonfire burning in the compound to ward off the lions.

Wild Animals Protected.

It is the persistent complaint of the rural Kikuyu and Masai that the colonial government of Kenya insists on protecting wild game for the sport of white hunters and Europeans and American tourists who go there for luxurious safaris. These protected lions and leopards, say the Kikuyu and Masai, prey not only the herds of the African but not infrequently eat an African child.

There are in all Africa about 220,000,000 people of whom

It Deepened Gulf With Senators and Now He Faces Day of Reckoning.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1959, Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.

JUST three years ago when the Communist party was holding its twentieth world congress in Moscow, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, spoke these words:

"I think they made very little progress in the last few years and the proof of it is that at this very moment in Moscow they are having to revise their whole program. If we had to go through such a revision and change of our whole program as they are undergoing, it would be advertised all over the world that we had failed.

"The fact is they have failed and they have got to devise new policies."

Dulles was being questioned on the situation in the Middle East by Senator J. William Fulbright, who now is the new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Pressed as to whether the speeches of Nikita Khrushchev and others at that twentieth congress indicated an admission of failure in foreign policy, Dulles replied "absolutely," and then went on to say:

"The result is they have got to review their whole creed from A to Z. It is a tremendous process for them because they have got to undo the teaching of many years and get onto a new basis."

What Has Developed.

The testimony of the Secretary at that time is significant for several reasons. First, events in the intervening years have not borne out his optimistic assessment. Large areas in the Middle East have either come under Soviet domination or reverted to neutralism. The complacency Dulles expressed seems hardly to have been justified.

But his almost overbearing insistence that all was well in the West had an immediate consequence. It deepened the gulf between certain Senators and the Secretary. One of them was Senator Fulbright, who as chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee will exercise a far more searching scrutiny of foreign policy than his predecessor, Senator Theodore Francis Green.

It is under this scrutiny that Dulles now begins, if not a revision, then certainly a searching re-examination of Western policy on Germany and European security. What he confronts illustrates the great difficulty of co-ordinating policy in a free alliance. In his trip to Europe this week he will find the situation as follows:

London—With difficulties at home, including rising unemployment, the Conservatives must in the next 18 months decide when to hold an election. Pressure for negotiation of a truce in the cold war is heavy. A great deal turns on Prime Minister Macmillan's personal popularity and political skill.

Paris—Despite a far stronger regime under Gen. Charles de Gaulle, France is still preoccupied with internal problems with special emphasis on the continuing war in Algeria and its drain in men and money. Opposition to any foreign ministers' meeting before the Berlin deadline of May 27, for transfer of Soviet powers to the East Germans, is strong.

Bonn—At one level in the West German government they are, in theory, rethinking the whole problem of German reunification. But whether any change from the fixed position of the past will be sanctioned by Chancellor Adenauer is questionable. The Chancellor seems determined to stand on the old formula.

Then one comes to this capital, where negotiation is also likely to be difficult and prolonged if any new approach is agreed upon. For the divisions in the Washington government are not unlike those that exist among the allies.

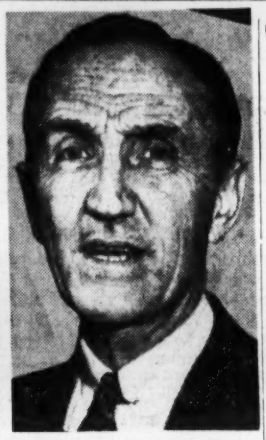

Powerful figures in the Pentagon and elsewhere believe that any agreement with the Soviet Union, however limited or hedged around with safeguards, must be to America's disadvantage. They will do everything they can to block agreement.

It is a painful dilemma and one which the Foreign Relations Committee must view with compassion. Perhaps, if the Soviet line hardens and there is a seeming inflexibility on Berlin and the deadline of May 27, Secretary Dulles may be rescued.

It will be at best a perilous sort of rescue, putting new strains on the West. In the meantime, the speeches out of the twenty-first party congress in Moscow have shown none of the weakness Dulles saw three years ago.

Critics Call for New Ideas as He Begins Fence-Mending in Europe.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)

SECRETARY OF STATE JOHN FOSTER DULLES, heading for talks with European allies this week, has been told he had better come up with some fresh ideas if he wants support from Senate Democrats.

The call for a new approch in dealing with the Russians came from Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, assistant Democratic Senate leader and a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Mansfield said today the forthcoming elevation of Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, to the chairmanship of the Foreign Relations group serves notice on State Department officials "they had better get on their toes."

Dulles arranged for a meeting with Fulbright for this evening to try for a closer relationship with the new chairman. Fulbright has been a sharp critic of Eisenhower Administration foreign policy. Tentatively the talk was scheduled for Dulles's home.

Dulles is tentatively slated to fly to London late tomorrow, with his first round of talks there Wednesday. He will talk with French leaders in Paris and West German leaders in Bonn before returning here about Feb. 11.

Objectives of Mission.

Dulles said his European mission will deal with: (1) the problem of Berlin and the Western reaction to possible Soviet moves; (2) the possibility of having talks about Germany with the Soviet representatives

He indicated he will talk with Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain, President De Gaulle of France and Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany to try to get Allied agreement on these points:

1. What the Allies can offer Russia, and world public opinion, in the way of new ideas for reuniting Germany and thereby resolving the problem of divided Berlin.

2. What line the Western powers should take in making specific proposals to Moscow for East-West talks on Ger-

MOROCCO SENTENCES REBELS

RABAT, Feb. 2 (AP)—In a grim warning to Morocco's rebellious tribesmen, the Moroccan high court imposed death sentences Saturday night on former Gov. Addi ou Bihi and three other leaders of a 1957 revolt.

Four others were sentenced to death in absentia. Thirty-one followers of Ou Bihi received sentences from life to a year in prison. Forty-one defendants were acquitted after the month-long trial. Tribesmen in the region of Fez and Taza now are in revolt.

Dulles's Most Articulate Critic Is New Foreign Relations Chief

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.

THE CHAIRMANSHIP of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee passed today to Senator James William Fulbright—a 53-year-old introspective internationalist from Arkansas.

He has a highly developed critical sense and perhaps the most thorough and scholarly grasp of foreign affairs of any man in the Senate.

The critical faculty tends to cast him into moods of despair, which may take the form of brooding upon the futility of trying to accomplish anything or of acidulous attack upon the subject of his displeasure.

Most often, these past few years, the subject of his displeasure has been John Foster Dulles, whose Middle East policy and hard-to-get treatment of Russians have provoked some of Fulbright's most cutting criticism of this Administration.

Marked An 'Intellectual'.

In a body not much given to introspection, Senator Fulbright's polished professional manner, Oxford education and constitutional inability to be a blunt-handed clubby fellow have marked him — unfortunately perhaps — an "intellectual."

Fulbright is not unaware that his style is an impediment in an institution where important things get done over cigars, bourbon-and-branch-water and pullman-car jokes. Sometimes he broods about this, too.

In foreign policy he has become the Democrats' most articulate critic of what he calls Dulles's refusal "to get off dead center" and stimulate new ideas for thawing the cold war. The burden of his discontent with the Republican State Department is that it suffers from an inertia which keeps it wedded to a doomed status quo disguised behind new slogans.

Scorned by Some Liberals.

In politics, he is a man of the Adlai Stevenson mold. But since Arkansas has become a center of the integration crisis, he has suffered the scorn of many of his former "liberal" admirers who felt betrayed by his failure to speak out against the extremist attitude of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

In England during the first trouble in Little Rock, he refused all requests for comment. Last year, when Little Rock was before the Supreme Court, he filed a brief indorsing the school board's plea for delay.

Today, he said, "I still think the Supreme Court did a great disservice to the country in its eagerness to anticipate a problem that was being developed in a proper way" before the court ordered integration in the South.

Those who have been in Little Rock recently report that Gov. Faubus's followers are waiting to ambush Fulbright when he stands for re-election in 1962. While there are doubts among them that he is rabid about segregation, their greater complaint is that he is an "intellectual."

Courage Questioned.

The standard "liberal" objection, on the other hand, is that he did not speak out against Faubus, though no one can see how this might have altered events in Arkansas. Their implication is that he was short on courage.

Yet, he was one of the handful in the Senate who had the courage in the early days of the late Senator Joseph McCarthy to denounce the Wisconsin Republican and his work while the White House and the Senate elders were still silent and before it became fashionable and easy.

McCarthy, in his way, responded by labeling Fulbright as "Senator Half-bright."

Fulbright was born April 9, 1905, in Sumner, Mo., the son of a farmer who became a successful business man.

Young Fulbright played football at the University of Arkansas and won a Rhodes scholarship to Oxford where he took honors in history and political science. He was awarded his degree in 1934 by the George Washington University law school and became an attorney

Letters from the People

Letter From Havana

Permit me to say a word in favor of the Provisional Government of Cuba. It has been formed by young men (I am old), with greater honesty and intelligence, than we have ever seen before in Cuba. But besides that, they have a surprising capacity for work.

To find a man, the head of a government department, who did not have an hour's sleep in the last 72 hours, is nothing exceptional these days. And these men will greet you with a smile and answer as many questions as you care to ask.

We were very much surprised when the Rebel army entered Havana. They were so modest and polite that it was difficult to believe these were the men who had fought with so much tenacity against an enemy 10 times their number and with much better armament, tanks, planes. But the previous army had no morale or reason to fight.

Now a word about Fidel Castro. Some papers outside of Cuba have referred to Dr. Castro as the "new strong man of Cuba." The strong man in Cuba, as you know, was Batista, and it seems that they are greatly confused when they compare our leader to the head of the previous Government.

Dr. Castro could have anything he wanted in Cuba, after what he has done for us. But he wants nothing. We think so much of him that he is often compared to our Apostle Jose Marti.

With reference to the executions, it is estimated that during the Bastista regime (about seven years) more than 10,000 persons were taken from their homes at night, tortured to get information from them, killed and buried anywhere, in large groups. In a town near Havana 90 were killed in one night.

A few days ago eight policemen and soldiers were executed after a fair trial. They were responsible for the death of 53 persons. The code used in these trials was the one approved by the Rebel army while in the mountains, which in its turn is a part of the much larger one used by the Cuban army in our wars of independence.

Fifty-nine army officers, from colonel to lieutenant, were released the same day. It is believed that they were guilty of something, but it could not be proved to the satisfaction of the tribunal, and the motto is: Better free an assassin than kill an innocent man.

A week after the shooting was over, there were no policemen on the streets and traffic was directed by our Boy Scouts with no trouble at all.

We are enjoying peace and liberty as we have not known in Cuba in the last 25 years.

The Nation's Health

Until this nation has enacted a health insurance program as part of the Social Security program, our people will be victimized and exploited by the so-called hospital plans, doctor-payment plans and other gimmicks promoted by the insurance companies and the American Medical Association.

Many nations have federal medical programs each adapted to the individual country. These people learned long ago what we in the U.S. still have to learn, and that is that the health and medical care of citizens is a federal concern and can only be handled in the cheapest way on a national scope.

How long would our present Social Security program last unless all citizens participated in it? There can be no cheap privatte plans. Dave Botto

Behind the P.-T. A.

As a P.-T.A. member and staunch supporter of McMorrow School I was very appreciative of the article in the Jan. 25 Parade. However, I feel that Parade missed the boat when it failed to mention the role our principal, Carl Schmitthausler, plays in the P.-T.A. Without his excellent guidance, active participation and constant inspiration, our organization could not have received the national plaudits Parade has given it. Mrs. Joy Melman

Ignored in the Country

"Wage Earner" was so right about people who avoid filing tax returns. The other day I was with a neighbor who deposited nearly $12,000 in checks from the sale of livestock. Yet they don't file a state income tax return. Maybe they wouldn't have to pay anything. But shouldn't they file?

I suppose I could report the cases I know of like this, but if I had that much courage I might have enough to avoid paying taxes like some others do. I'd be happy to settle for the same percentage Charlie Chaplin did.

The School 'Emergency'

The St. Louis School Board has begun beating the drums in behalf of a spring election to add about 8 cents to the record high $1.51 school tax rate. Only last year the people approved a 21-cent increase that was supposed to provide more than enough cash to run the system this year and next. What is the sudden emergency?

Tax receipts have fallen about $1,300,000 short of what had been anticipated when the school budget was prepared before last year's election. In part this deficit can be attributed to the business recession that school officials evidently ignored when making their calculations. In large measure it is the result of a justified reduction by the city in the assessment ratio on the merchants and manufacturers tax.

Granted then that the school system will have less money to work with than it had anticipated, the crucial question is: Does it need more? Is a tax increase justified? Judging by figures made public by board members themselves, it seems clear that the schools can squeeze by for the remainder of this academic year. The burden of proof that more money is needed next year rests with the board. As yet it has not made a convincing case.

School spending has jumped some 30 per cent since the 1955-56 fiscal year when the board came under the thumb of a majority which owed its election to the ward politicians. In that same period, the Instruction department's budget has risen only about 25 per cent, but the patronage-ridden Building department's allotment ballooned by 35 per cent. Would a tax increase be necessary if the fat were boiled out of the Building department?

United States Office of Education statistics indicate that in the United States as a whole expenditures for operation and maintenance of the nation's school plant represent about 13 per cent of total school expenditures; in St. Louis, the Building department eats up about 20 per cent of the total. In the nation as a whole expenditures for instruction run about 5.13 times the combined expenditures for operation and maintenance of plant; in St. Louis, only about 3.69 times as much is spent on instruction as on buildings.

These figures strongly suggest that St. Louisans are putting far too much money into maintenance and far too little into classroom instruction. Board Member Daniel L. Schlafly has charged that upwards of $100,000 in unnecessary overtime to custodians might be saved by introducing a split shift system; and that thousands of dollars additionally could be banked by getting rid of unneeded Building department employes.

That there are unnecessary payrollers in the Building department was made unmistakably clear in the recent ouster trial of former Building Commissioner Fletcher who put workers on the job not because he needed them but because of political pressure. Also the fact that the board can suddenly abandon some $425,000 in budgeted Building department projects to squeeze through this year is highly illuminating.

The 1954 report by A. T. Kearney & Co. of Chicago, for which the Board paid $50,000 and which it then ignored, said the schools were spending $1,487,000 a year more than they should to get the same service. Of this total, $50,000 was chargeable to excessive engineering and architectural costs; $373,000 to plant operation; $740,000 to maintenance; $127,000 to landscaping, and $44,000 to transportation. Most of these operations are within the Building department's jurisdiction.

St. Louisans have demonstrated time after time that they will support a first-class school system. But they have a right to insist that wasteful expenditures in the Building department be eliminated. The Board had better give convincing proof of moving in this direction before it goes to the voters for another tax increase.

Fulbright for Green

Senator Green's chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been a matter of concern from the time when he succeeded the late Senator George of Georgia two years ago. The fear was not that he would mislead this most important committee or misuse his position in some arbitrary way. It was that the Rhode Island Senator's advanced age might make it difficult for him to direct the committee in its urgent deliberations.

Now Senator Green, at the age of 91—the greatest age ever attained by a Senator in service—has resigned his chairmanship because of impaired hearing and sight.

Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, the new chairman, is one of the most effective and well informed critics of Administration foreign policy. Under his leadership the committee promises to be much more of a check on Secretary Dulles than it used to be. We think this most desirable.

The White House owes a debt of gratitude to Senator Green as it owed one to Senator George before him. Their differences with the Eisenhower Administration on foreign policy were usually slight. Indeed they often provided better Democratic support than was afforded by many anti-Administration Republican Senators. With Senator Fulbright in the chair a more critical, vigilant committee is in prospect. We suspect that Secretary of State Dulles will become aware of the change.

Political Weakness in Italy

With the resignation of Amintore Fanfani not only as Italy's premier but also as head of the Christian Democratic party, Italian politics has taken another turn toward increasing factionalism.

Under De Gasperi and Fanfani, the Christian Democrats have governed since 1946, sometimes alone and sometimes in coalition. No other party was able to form a government.

Yet the Christian Democrats in recent years have been less strong than they seemed to be. There now are at least two parties within the party: a progressive group represented by Fanfani and backed by modern, industrial North Italy, and a more conservative and traditional wing with most of its strength in Southern Italy.

The Socialists long ago split into the groups headed by Saragat and the more lefitst Nenni who once worked closely with the Communists but who parted from them after the Hungarian revolution. Saragat has co-operated with the Christian Democrats on occasion; buit it was news when Nennin showed signs of doing so. This maneuver, however, was not executed, and the government fell. The lesser parties hardly count.

Ordinarily, Fanfani would have been asked to try to form another government, but his resignation as party chief suggests that a new man will be invited to do so. The prospects are that a caretaker regime will be formed to carry on routine business. New policies probably will have to wait on elections and a new government based on them. The question is whether the splits in the parties will keep a new government from being as strong as it ought to be.

Calling for Investigation

Cancellation of the Fulton power contract by Gov. Blair under fire makes it even more evident than before that a legislative investigation is called for.

Why have charges which the Governor first dismissed as "silly" become, only a few days later, important enough to him to warrant cancellation?

Why does the Governor reopen the contract for the expressed purpose "to give everyone a chance to bid" when he maintained, and continues to maintain, that everyone was given a chance to bid before the contract was let?

Why does Missouri Power & Light Co., which received the award, agree without a murmur to cancellation "without litigation" of a contract it evidently considered an asset to its stockholders?

What are the facts about Fulton Councilman W. C. Whitlow's charge, and Gov. Blair's denial, that the Governor offered to cancel the contract in return for calling off the legislative investigation proposed by Representative Bernard Simcoe of Callaway county?

These are new and important unanswered questions on top of all the old unanswered questions about the Fulton power deal.

This is not an argument over who should get the power contract at Fulton state hospital. The basic question involved is the letting of state contracts by fair, objective standards and with prospective bidders and the public fully informed.

Surely the Legislature will not want to treat that question with indifference. Nor should it be eager to share the responsibility for a contract from which its own makers have retreated once the facts about it began to be pried out.

Legislative oversight will be required to prevent questionable methods of contract-letting by the state from now on, and may be required even to insure a completely defensible re-letting of the Fulton contract.

Gov. Blair and his director of health and welfare, C. Rouss Gallop, bear the first responsibility in this matter. But the ultimate responsibility, together with whatever blame may or may not attach to it, will rest upon the Legislature unless it acts promptly and above partisanship.

Quiet but Historic Day

In the long effort to liberate the American public school system from racial discrimination, Feb. 2, 1959, will be recorded as a historic day.

Children whose skins happen to be dark entered previously white schools for the first time in both Arlington and Norfolk in Virginia. They did so with the support of state and lower federal court orders implementing the United States Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954.

There was not the slightest sign of disorder in either community. Virginia had gone in for "massive resistance," but now it could see that the time for the break had come. Gov. Almond, who did all he could to oppose desegregation, deserves credit along with local officials for having used the forces of law and order to see that there were no violent demonstrations.

Arlington and Norfolk are the answer to Little Rock.

Underdogs in the Underground

Probably there is no more efficient, or exasperating subway system in the world than the London Underground. Its trains run quickly and often, and are exceptionally clean, but they are also jammed during rush hours, and sometimes stop short of where they are going, and go another way. This situation has led to a passive revolt by Londoners whose patience was exhausted.

The other day some 300 of Her Majesty's subjects sat fast by their principles when an Underground train stopped short of its destination. The train crew held the train in the station until backed-up traffic forced it to move on. This sort of thing has been happening often of late. It began when an anonymous gentleman refused to budge when told to get off an Underground train that had stopped. "It says on the front that it is going to Dagenham East," he said to his fellow passengers. "That is where we are all going, aren't we?" The passengers sat; in time the train crew was obliged to go to Dagenham East.

Much has been made of the point that the Underground revolt shows the other side of British passiveness, for Britons are said to deplore a "fuss." We think there is another point here. The point is that this is the way in which men will eventually demand justice. Some ancient Briton once looked at his fellow barons and said, "King John can't do this to us, can he?" And so the Magna Carta was born. And all the liberties won in the Anglo-Saxon world since, or nearly anywhere else, have been born of patience grown thin.

So on, we say, on. Wave your umbrellas, gentlemen, and set your derbys and caps, and on to High Barnet. On to Cockfosters. On to Hounslow West. Especially, on to Dagenham East!

So the People May Know

A bill to bar secret meetings of state and local government bodies, except under certain conditions and for well-defined reasons, has been introduced in the Wisconsin Legislature. Exceptions would include such meetings as those for the discussion of probation, paroles, crime detection and prevention, considerations of personnel matters unless the person affected asked for an open meeting and deliberations concerning public business involving bidding which for competitive reasons should be closed.

Without passing on the Wisconsin freedom of information bill in its entirety, we can certainly say that it looks in the right direction. Here is something that Missouri legislators ought to look into. With the University of Missouri already launching a Freedom of Information Center a careful, well-drawn state statute guaranteeing open meetings as a general public policy would be doubly appropriate in this state.

"I STILL SAY THERE'S THE MAKINGS OF A GREAT TEAM HERE..."

Philadelphia Boosts Rail Commuter Service

Cheaper Fares, More Trains, Less Auto Traffic Result from Experiment

Fred J. Cook
in The Nation

The Missouri Pacific last year slashed fares, offered cut-rate sleeping accommodations, improved service and served low cost meals to coach passengers on its streamliner, the Colorado Eagle. The Wall Street Journal, reporting on this experiment at the end of July, noted: "Mopac is pulling passengers from competing railroads, busses and even airlines in this mid-America area."

A similar experiment is now being attempted on commuter lines serving Philadelphia — so far with a similar result. Philadelphia appropriated $160,000 on the promise of the Pennsylvania and the Reading to step up commuter and off-hour service to the northern residential suburbs.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

The Philadelphia city fathers explained that they did not regard the $160,000 as an actual subsidy, but merely as an underwriting of increased operational costs to see if improved rail service would take some of the clutter of cars off city highways. If this could be done, the pressure for ever larger highways, ever more bridges and tunnels, ever increasing parking facilities would be eased, and a subsidy, even from the taxpayers' standpoint, would justify itself. The New York Herald Tribune reported last month on the Philadelphia experiment at the end of the first month of a six-month test period. The Pennsylvania had increased the number of trains on its Chestnut Hill run by 33 per cent to thirty-six daily; service was stepped up to every fifteen minutes in rush hours, every half-hour in off-hours.

The Reading boosted the number of its trains from thirty-three to thirty-six daily, Saturday service on both lines was almost doubled, and cheaper fares were tied in with bus-line transfers.

The result: In the fourth week of operation, the Pennsylvania carried 4133 more passengers than it had in the test week of Oct. 6, before the plan went into effect, a gain of 14.8 per cent; and the Reading picked up 2422 passengers in the same week, an improvement of 7.6 per cent over its test week in May. For the entire four weeks, the Pennsylvania gained 11,128 additional riders; the Reading 7099. The effect on city traffic already was observable; 600 fewer automobiles a day were coming into the city from the suburbs.

Philadelphia hopefully assessed the advantages of the plan this way: Cheaper fares mean a saving, for the individual commuter, of 90 cents a day over automobile operation (including parking fees, insurance and fuel costs), or a total of $100 in the six months of the test period.

This saving to the individual driver is projected into a much greater saving to the city. It means, Philadelphia estimates, that about $1,000,000 annually can be saved on the cost of maintaining existing roads and providing police protection. And this is apart from the merry-go-round cost of building ever more and wider highways.

The Mopac and Philadelphia plans, if they continue to grow and fulfill their promise, offer this hopeful ray of light in an otherwise grim picture: the railroads could recoup their losses, regain lost business; they could receive the tax relief to which they are entitled (and this could be given without cost, perhaps even at an ultimate saving, to the tax payer); and lastly, the commuter and the shopper could be given some of the twentieth-century creature comforts and service to which they are entitled.

But all of this can happen only if railroad management exhibits the kind of vision that will bring rail travel in line with the realities of the twentieth century. Subsidies are not justified and should not be given merely to allow a bad situation to continue to deteriorate.

How to Use Surpluses

From The Des Moines Register

John H. Davis, former U.S. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture and now a professor at Harvard University, has recommended that the program for distributing American farm surpluses overseas be placed on a long-range basis.

Davis made a study for the Eisenhower Administration of the operations of Public Law 480. This is the law which permits the sale of farm surpluses for foreign currency, as well as barter trades for strategic minerals.

Davis believes the program has been working fairly well, but he argues that both the United States and recipient countries could make it work better if it were set up on a five-year plan.

Davis believes the sales for foreign currency could be gradually cut back if the program were on a five-year schedule, instead of year-to-year operation. He thinks countries using the surplus farm products could prepare for a tapering off of these low-cost imports. At the same time, he believes the United States could make needed adjustments in farm production.

It makes sense to establish the farm export programs on a long-range basis. But we doubt very much that it will be possible to taper off in five years. The lack of success in this country in the past suggests that Mr. Davis is unduly optimistic about the future.

It is more probable that the United States will have still larger surpluses of farm products in the years ahead. At any rate, a long-range plan for use of these products in foreign economic development programs would be a good thing to have on hand.

The United States cannot operate in this field most effectively on its own. It should attempt to bring Canada, Australia, Argentina and other surplus-producing countries into a joint program for using food surpluses to aid economic development in the poor countries. Controls need to be set up to prevent these donations or cut-price sales from interfering with normal commercial trade. International co-operation is needed to avoid charges of "dumping" or unfair usurpation of markets.

The Davis report deserves serious consideration by the Administration and Congress. It would be a start toward a more sensible policy for utilization of farm surpluses.

Between Book Ends

Single Handed Saga

THE VOYAGES OF JOSHUA SLOCUM, Collected and Introduced by Walter Magnes Teller. (Rutgers University Press, 401 pgs., $6.)

Straining for a pun, one might say that Mr. Teller has made a fast go of Captain Slocum. Having read the redoubtable captain's "Sailing Alone Around the World" sometime before 1952, he was immensely set up when told, on a visit to Martha's Vineyard in that year, that the captain had once had there his only dwelling ashore.

Capt. Slocum

Mr. Teller investigated; saw the quondam home; met and talked with Slocum's widow. He then listened to the memories of many other old men and women; and eventually assembled more data than he dreamed existed, considering that when Captain Slocum set sail for the Orinoco in 1909, 11 years after completing his three-year solo circumnavigation of the world in the 37-foot, nine-ton "Spray," he was never seen again, and no clue to his fate or his boat (the same "Spray"), books, logs, and papers was ever found.

These data and other materials, turned up by other writings of Mr. Teller, in due course found their way into a biography, "The Search for Captain Slocum" (1956). That book brought forth other new material, duly published in "American Neptune" for July, 1958. And in preparing the introductory pieces for the present volume Mr. Teller was able to make use of still further new material.

The main purpose of this collected volume is to make available Captain Slocum's complete writings: "Voyage of the Liberdade" (out of print in America since 1894); "Voyage of the 'Destroyer' from New York to Brazil" (which "narrowly missed oblivion"); "Rescue of Some Gilbert Islanders" (appended to the first edition of "Voyage of the Liberdade" but deleted when that book was reissued in 1894); and that "nautical equivalent to Walden, "Sailing Alone Around the World," surely one of literature's finest narratives of personal realization.

Since the years of Captain Slocum's stellar accomplishment in a "rather vehement form of self-expression," the South Pacific has been crossed on a balsa-log raft and the North Atlantic in a canvas canoe, and Mr. Hemingway has epitomized sundry absolutes in "The Old Man and the Sea." But Captain Slocum's adventure in far-ranging loneliness and self-reliance—46,000 miles in a trifle of a boat that "sat on the water like a swan"—seems certain to survive, sapient and serene, among the timeless sagas of single-handed daring, endurance, and delight. For a good deal of the spirit with which Captain Slocum began his great voyage, "spry as a kitten and nimble as a monkey," charges his individualistic narrative with clearly communicated gusto.

Mr. Teller's well-done collection of these writings, complete with the helpful Introduction previously mentioned, and with photographs, checklist, and bibliography, deserves praise both for its services to scholarship and for its helping to "speed the fame of this extraordinary skipper."

Mr. Teller summarizes Slocum as an "American nonconformist who had led, not a comfortable life, perhaps, but one from which he demanded meaning." Alvin R. Rolfs

Farm Mess Put Up to Congress

WASHINGTON.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER HAS TOSSED the farm program mess into the lap of Congress. In his agriculture message, the President did little more than state the problem and suggest solutions which would in effect deny the responsibility of the Federal Government in this area.

Few members of Congress in either party will fee they can accept the political risks of such action. Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, starting his seventh year as administrator of the farm program, all but admitted that responsibility was being shifted by design to the Democratic majorities of the House and Senate. It's where responsibility ought to be, he said.

Benson

Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson had anticipated some such move and has tried to prepare for it. In a richly ironic coupling of brilliant political talents, he has assigned Senator Hubert Humphrey, the Minnesota liberal, to work with Senator Herman Talmadge, the Georgia segregationist, on a practical and less costly measure than now exists.

Farmer's Social Security.

"You're two of the best politicians I know and you both need the farmers," Johnson said. "I'm mating you and we'll see what kind of a mule we get."

The unlikely pair started with one conviction in common. It is that some form of price supports or compensatory payments are due the nation's farmers as a piece of social insurance comparable to the Social Security of the wage earner in other walks of life.

They have set up a task force and pulled into their deliberations Senators William Proxmire, Phillip Hart, Stuart Symington, Olin Johnston and others.

To each one has been assigned the job of making recommendations about the special farming interests of his area. Liberal economist Leon Keyserling has accepted the task of reworking the parity concept.

Problem Getting Worse.

The general target is defined as legislation having more direct impact on individual farmers at less cost than the present program. Pitfalls is a mild word for the problems the group will encounter.

They have something more than the full backing of the Senate Democratic leadership important as that is. It is the general recognition that the farm problem is steadily getting worse instead of better and that all the politicians are running out of places to hide.

Secretary Benson has lowered price supports, but the cost of the programs and the surpluses have gone up. Reputable farm publications accuse him of trying to make the programs look bad by the way he administers them.

More Than Abuse Wanted.

Politically, Republicans have lost much power in the Farm Belt and again at Des Moines were crying for Benson's head.

On the Democratic side, all the new office-holders outside the East bring the message that Congress is expected to act.

The farmers, they warn, want an alternative instead of more abuse of Benson, bitter as they are about him.

FR. REINERT HITS OUT AT LIMITS ON STUDY

He Deplores Idea That Teaching Must Be Confined to Secular Knowledge.

American schools have found themselves in an increasingly awkward position as the idea has grown that teaching must be confined to secular knowledge, the Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert S.J. told graduates of St. Louis University in ceremonies yesterday.

The university president gave the welcoming address to recipients of various degrees from the university at midterm. The exercises were held in the university gymnasium, 3672 West Pine boulevard.

Father Reinert said that as far as curriculum is concerned, there are vast fields of knowledge which should be the heritage of every human being—religion, for example — which must be omitted.

"In the interest of liberty," Father Reinert declared, "it would seem that the schools have had to confine and restrict rather than broaden and expand educational opportunities."

Praises Accomplishments.

He praised the "magnificent accomplishments of our American schools and colleges," but added the thought that as this nation completes its second century of growth "we are coming to a deeper, more mature understanding of the implications of liberty and freedom."

Elaborating on his mention of mature understanding, Father Reinert said:

"It is becoming increasingly clear that our historic dedication to education for all really means not a common, uniform education, but equality of educational opportunity.

"Educational flexibility based on the fact that all men are created equal in origin, rights and destiny, but amazingly different in abilities, skills, motivations, desires and interest is not undemocratic in spirit but the logical conclusion of a maturing concept of American freedom and education."

It is also becoming increasingly evident that true liberty will not be served by attempts to determine one kind or type of school as the school which American boys and girls must be required by law to attend, Father Reinert said.

Unfortunate Chapter.

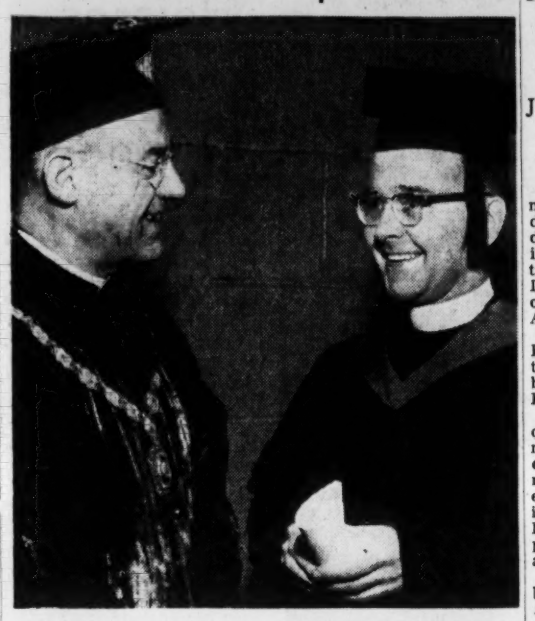

Two such attempts constitute unfortunate chapters in our national history — the efforts to require all children to attend tax-supported schools in Oregon in 1925, and the establishment of "separate but equal" schools for Negroes, he said.

"As this nation matures in its understanding of true liberty, the concept of the desirability of monolithic, exclusive, discriminatory types of education is certain to disappear," Father Reinert declared.

A degree summa cum laude was awarded to Miss Joan Margaret Barker of Collinsville, the only graduate to receive the high honor. She received a bachelor of science degree.

The Rev. Walter J. Ong S.J., associate professor of English at the university, addressed the graduates on the subject "The Pursuit of Knowledge in an Evolving Universe."

BIG LAND PROGRAM IS URGED FOR ISRAEL

Jewish National Fund President Tells of New Needs.

A "stupendous" land reclamation program must be undertaken in Israel to accommodate more than 100,000 Jewish immigrants from Rumania in the next year, Dr. Harris J. Levine of New York, president of the Jewish National Fund of America, said here last night.

He spoke at a dinner at Heman Park Community Center, University City, sponsored by the St. Louis Council of the Fund.

Pointing out that a recent order of the Rumanian government "encouraging" Jewish emigration would mean that more than 250,000 settlers "are expected to descend on Israel in the coming three years," Dr. Levine said the major problem of Israel would be to absorb the immigrants.

"Where can this absorption best be carried through?" he asked. "Certainly not in the cities that are already overcrowded and offer but scanty opportunity for employment."

The newcomers must be settled on the land, and a major project envisaged by the Jewish National Fund is a reclamation and soil development program involving about 250,000 acres over a 10-year period, the speaker said.

In addition to soil reclamation, plans call also for planting of 100,000,000 trees in all parts of Israel in the 10 years, he went on.

"Trees in Israel are more than a means of beautifying the landscape," he said.

Gene Permanently Changed by Combining It With Particular Partner Gene in Study Using Corn.

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—One of the basic axioms of modern genetics—the "individuality" of the gene—has been challenged in research sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

For the first time in 50 years of genetics research, a case has been discovered where the gene did not follow the rule of "individuality" in passing on its characteristics to succeeding generations.

The foundation described the results of the research into the "individuality of genes" in its latest annual report. The research was performed by Prof. R. Alexander Brink at the University of Wisconsin under grants from the foundation.

Findings Summed Up.

The Foundation summed up the significance of Brink's research in this way:

"Should this phenomenon be found to occur generally, an entirely new mechanism will have to be taken into account in explaining the origin of genetic variability, which itself underlies all evolutionary change. This discovery may well turn out to be among the most significant basic discoveries in genetics. In any event, the 'individuality of genes' will never be the same again."

The concept of the individuality of the gene, which dates back to Mendel's work in genetics nearly 100 years ago, has been a basic tenet of genetic theory.

By individuality is meant that the basic nature of a gene will remain unchanged, with its hereditary characteristics transmitted from generation to generation until it is modified or changed by such forces as X-rays or it undergoes a random "spontaneous mutations" for reasons which are not clearly understood. Whether the mutations are spontaneous or induced, the new mutant form of the gene again will persist from generation to generation until it again suffers a chance mutation.

First Violation Discovered.

The first case on record in which this basic axiom was violated was discovered by Brink in his research on the genetics of corn.

Brink found that the gene in corn which produces color in the kernel could be modified simply by bringing it into combination with a particular one of its partner genes.

When the color gene was later removed from the influence of its partner gene, it was found to be no longer capable of producing normal seed pigment. This loss of potency on the part of the gene was found to be permanent. In other words, the individuality of the color gene had been upset and it had been mutationally changed.

Foundation scientists reported that recent research performed on fruit flies by Dr. James F. Crow at the University of Wisconsin tends to support the belief that this phenomenon on the non-individuality of the gene is not unique in corn.

$103,980 PLEDGED TO DIMES DRIVE IN LONG TELECAST

Pledges to the March of Dimes amounting to $103,980 were received during yesterday's 14-hour telecast on Station KMOX-TV, Bernard F. Dickmann, chairman of the annual drive, reported today.

Entertainment was provided by actor Eddie Bracken and television performer Virginia Graham, as well as by television and night club stars from the St. Louis area. Sports figures and civic leaders also appeared.

SIGNAL HILL SINGER WINS SHARE OF $1000 PRIZE

Hawks, 17 Ahead, Turn From Soft West to Rugged East

Pettit (40) & Co. Roll By Pistons

By Harold Flachsbart

Ed Macauley's power-packed Hawks are making basketball look easy these days, especially in their overwhelming victories over Western Division rivals in the National Basketball Association. They've won three straight by lop-sided scores, six out of their last seven and and they're 17 games ahead in the Western race.

But several days of reckoning lie ahead, for the next four contests will be against rugged Eastern Division opponents, including two with the pace-setting and classy Boston Celtics.

All four will be on Eastern courts, starting with a Tuesday night meeting with Boston at New York, then a game Wednesday at Syracuse, one at Philadelphia Thursday with the Warriors and then a big one with the Celtics at Boston Friday night — with or without eggs.

As the Hawks breezed to their third straight decision over a Western opponent yesterday afternoon at Kiel, an 130-96 verdict over Detroit, slick-shooting Bob Pettit scored 40 points and hauled down 20 rebounds, but the talk in the dressing room was by and about the backliners.

Two Goals by Green.

Five-foot-ten Dugie Martin, still up in the clouds after his big "night" a couple of days earlier, was credited with seven rebounds and quipped, "What's the matter with some of you guys? I'm going to have to have some help on those boards."

Jack McMahon, a hot early scorer with long set shots, figured this must have been the third or fourth straight game in which he didn't play much or any part of the fourth quarter. Al Ferrari, a front or backline player, was nursing a dislocated finger and Sihugo Green was celebrating his first field goal in a Hawk uniform.

Ferrari's finger, jammed in the second period, will not prevent him from playing on the trip, said Dr. Stan London, team physician. X-rays last night showed no break. Green, playing 10 minutes but still not accustomed to Hawk play patterns and routines, sank two buckets that drew as many cheers from a 7328 crowd as most of Pettit's 40 points.

Win Wilfong, still another backliner, chipped in with a 26-minute stint and it was hard to understand — from all the dressing-room talk about the "little guys"—that the frontliners scored 99 of the 130 points.

Pettit, hitting 40 or more for the fifth time this season, sank 14 of 21 field goal attempts. Much to his own consternation, he missed six of 13 free-throw tries in the first half but made five for five in the second.

Hagan Pours in 28.

Cliff Hagan, virtually tied for third in the N.B.A. scoring with a 23.7 average, worked hard for 28 points, Clyde Lovellette had 15 points and 11 rebounds and Charley Share 11 points and seven rebounds. It was because Martin, a foot and an inch shorter than Capt. Share, also had seven rebounds that he teased about board play.

Macauley, realizing that stronger opposition is ahead, said, "This is the kind of game in which you wish you could save some of the hoops for the future. Any time you're hitting 23 out of 39 in the first half, you have the other team on the run.

"I thought Hub Reed played a real good game. He set up plays for us by getting the ball into the pivot man something like five or six straight times. I was glad he got to play 20 minutes. He's always strong on the board, too."

That first-half shooting percentage of the Hawks was .590 and for the game their total was 50 field goals in 92 shots —a classy .543. Not even Boston can beat that kind of shooting.

Hawks Keep Dukes in Squeeze

Hawk Notes

The Hawks already assured of a playoff spot, now need a combination of only six more victories or Detroit defeats to clinch their third straight Western Division pennant. It probably will be the earliest "clinching" in National Basketball Association history.

Boston's record is 37-13, the Hawks' 36-13, but the Celtic's lead is 8½ games compared to the St. Louis 17-game bulge.

Bob Pettit, who 21 times has scored 30 points or more this season, has averaged 33.3 in the last seven games, six of which the Hawks have won. . . . Cliff Hagan has gone 10 straight games with 20 or more.

Referee Mendy Rudolph was stunned and suffered a chipped tooth when knocked down by Win Wilfong on a driving layup attempt early in the fourth quarter. Referee Norm Drucker also got in the way of the same streaking player but managed to step aside at the last second.

Chuck Noble, with nine buckets, eight from outside, was high for Detroit, which sorely misses 1957-58 scoring champion George Yardley.

Harry Gallatin, former Piston now coaching Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, was a spectator and heard the post-mortem talk in the Detroit dressing room in which Coach Red Rocha and his players agreed "the Hawks did everything right. Every man was exactly where he was supposed to be most of the time."

The Dukes of Dixieland entertained before the game, the nineteenth victory for the Hawks in 22 Kiel games. . . . They'll be home again next Sunday afternoon against Philadelphia. —H.F.

Daughter Breaks Leg; Delsing Misses Playoffs

A seriously broken leg suffered by his seven-year old daughter, Kimberly, has caused Jim Delsing to fly to St. Louis and miss the baseball playoffs in the Dominican Republic winter league.

Mrs. Delsing said the girl fell over a railing about 15 feet to a marble floor in the lobby of a Santiago (Dominican Republic) hotel where the family was staying. A chair partially broke the fall.

"Kimberly was placed in extension for four or five days," Mrs. Delsing said, "and when they started talking about performing surgery we decided to bring her to St. Louis."

Because of a cast that extended from the armpits down, the girl had to travel in a litter, making transportation difficult. Mr. and Mrs. Delsing and their three children flew from Trujillo to Miami where they had to wait two days for a flight that could take them to St. Louis. The Miami-St. Louis trip took nine hours.

Kimberly is in DePaul hospital.

Delsing's team, the Aguilas, clinched a playoff spot last week, with the playoffs scheduled to start last Friday. Delsing, on the Washington roster, played with Charleston last season.

Bill Would Permit Phillies to Move

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 2 (UPI) — Gov. Robert B. Meyner signed a bill today designed to make it possible for the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team to move to Delaware Township in Camden county.

Zack Wheat Named To Hall of Fame

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Outfielder Zack Wheat, generally regarded as the outstanding hitter in Brooklyn Dodgers' history, became the latest entry into Baseball's Hall of Fame today as the eleventh player ever to be voted in by a special "Old-Timers Committee."

The 70-year-old Wheat, onetime idol of all Flatbush fans, said he was "tremendously honored and delighted" at his Sunrise Beach, Mo., home when informed of his election by a unanimous vote.

Wheat compiled a lifetime average of .317, batting over .300 14 times, while starring in Brooklyn's outfield from 1909 through 1926. He wound up his major league career with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1927.

The popular lefthanded hitter led the National League in hitting with a .335 figure in 1918 and then compiled identical marks of .375 in 1923 and 1924, only to lose out to Rogers Hornsby.

"The idea of being in the Hall of Fame still hasn't sunk in," said Wheat. "I wonder if I would have been any good with the lively ball today."

Wheat undoubtedly would have been a star in any era. Here are some of the departments in which he tops all Dodger players past and present:

Most number of hits, 2804; most singles, 2038; most doubles, 464; most triples, 171; most total bases, 4003, and most games played, 2318.

The committee which elected Wheat meets every other year and is empowered to name two men who have been out of the game for at least 30 years. Wheat was the only man elected yesterday.

Previous baseball figures elected by the old-timers committee, headed by J. G. Taylor Sping of St. Louis, were Bill Klem, Tommy Connolly, Ed Barrow, Harry Wirght, Chief Bender, Bobby Wallace, Ray Schalk, Home Run Baker, Joe McCarthy and Wahoo Sam Crawford.

In his prime, Wheat weighed 176 pounds and was five feet, 10 inches. Among his other accomplishments, "Old Zack," as he was known to the Flatbush faithful, never was ejected from a ball game by an umpire during his 18-year career in the majors.

Zack Wheat Still Winning Games

ZACK WHEAT, happy over the news that he has just been elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame, is about to take a trick in a card game with his wife. They are shown in their home near Versailles, Mo., where he rents cottages to vacationers at the Lake of the Ozarks. Wheat, onetime star outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, had a lifetime batting average of .317.

Heisses One, Two In Meet

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 2 (UPI)—Carol Heiss, so supreme in figure skating that she fears only a stumble over a text book, will lead all the newly-crowned United States senior titlists except David Jenkins into the North American championships next weekend at Toronto.

Miss Heiss, women's world champion the past three years, easily won her third straight National title yesterday at War Memorial Auditorium. Carol, 19, a New York University sophomore from Ozone Park, N.Y., inadvertently revealed her only worry after defeating her sister Nancy, 17.

"It was thrilling to win, but what really concerned me was my examinations," Carol said after her intricate jump spins and reverse axels in the free skating earned her the first-place votes of each of the five judges. "I just got word that I received B-pluses in two of my examinations. Now I'm waiting for word on my other two exams."

Carol took an unbeatable lead in Saturday's compulsory division and won the senior women's crown with five ordinals. Nancy Heiss was second with 12. Barbara Ann Roles, 17, of Paramount, Calif., was third with 15 and Lynn Finnegan, 16, of Boston was last in the field of four with 18.

All four girls will take part in the North American championships, which start Friday.

Jenkins, 23, a medical student from Colorado Springs, Colo., won the senior men's crown Saturday. He also received a perfect score of five ordinals, drawing a first-place vote from each of the five judges, and automatically was selected for the United States team which will perform at Toronto. But Jenkins was forced to decline because of his heavy pre-medical study schedule at Western Reserve. He'll defend his world title at Colorado Springs, Feb. 24-28.

'Rigney's a Liar; I've Never Thrown Spitter'—Maglie

NIAGARA, FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 2 (UPI)—An angry Sal (The Barber) Maglie probably would like nothing better than to have San Francisco Giants' Manager Bill Rigney step up to the plate against him right now.

Rigney had named Maglie, Marv Grissom, Elroy Face and Lew Burdette as the four National League twirlers tossing outlawed pitch in a story for the Sunday newspaper supplement, "Parade."

"He knows damn well I never threw the spitter," Maglie angrily remarked at his Niagara Falls home.

"I'll bet he won't stand by that statement, the big showboat," he added. "We were always good friends, and I always thought a lot of him. I'm surprised Bill Rigney would come out with a statement like that. . . ."

Young Kickers Steal Show in Four C.Y.C. Championship Finals

By Dent McSkimming

It seemed, as C.Y.C. soccer teams played for the various age group championships, the smaller the players the better the soccer. There was only a small crowd at Public Schools Stadium to see the four championship finals but those who braved the 20-degree cold were rewarded with some interesting games.

St. Engelbert won permanent possession of the three-time trophy emblematic of the Senior division title, beating St. Philip Neri, 3-0; Epiphany took the Bantam title with a 1-0 triumph over Holy Rosary; Our Lady of Good Counsel gave that parish its first C.Y.C. championship by defeating St. Louise, 2-1, in the final, and Immaculate Heart of Mary won the Crusader class by stopping the defending champion St. Engelbert, 1-0.

Holy Rosary won the Junior championship a week ago, so only the Juvenile final remains to be played to complete the C.Y.C.'s extensive program. This competition which started last October has provided good entertainment for spectators and robust exercise for the thousands of boys, but an important by-product is the development of a lot of potential soccer stars.

Fine Play by Crusaders.

Some of the most promising seen in the Stadium program were in the 11-13 years age group called the Crusader division. Here, a long shot by Left Halfback Brian Novak won the game for Immaculate Heart, but Brian had to share after-game congratulations with teammates Bob Ziegler, the goalie, Wally Werner, inside left, Ron Munnemann and others.

This team, smaller in pounds and inches than St. Engelbert, stood off a prolonged second-half siege that seemed sure of success. Goalie Ziegler, an eighth-grader who will move up to the higher age bracket next season, was the outstanding figure of the game. It took just such an exceptional effort to hold scoreless the St. Engelbert forwards led by prolific scorer Guy Busch. He and Mike Kavanaugh and Rich Manna were over the ball in the penalty area a dozen times in the second half but Ziegler and his mates just wouldn't break. St. Engelbert's Crusaders did everything well except score.

St. Louise had something of the same experience. It had all the play in the second half after Good Counsel took a 2-0 lead in the first 20-minute period. Jim Belcher and John Foley scored those early points and Chuck Cantillion tallied for St. Louise in the second half. Foley, in addition to scoring what proved to be the winning goal, controlled the ball better than any other forward on either team and looked like a boy with a good soccer future.

Victory Kick by Janson.

Jim Janson's shot that gave Epiphany its triumph over Holy Rosary in the Bantam opener of the show was a long free kick that sailed over Goalie Dennis Kelly's outstretched hands for the only tally of the game.

Because the elements of a feud between St. Engelbert and St. Philip players were brewing, the Senior final was not as well played as it might have been. Referees Ollie Klosterman and Jim Brady were busy cautioning players all the way.

The ill feeling even spilled over into a post-game incident. Halfback Tom Donovan of St. Engelbert, who had figured in half a dozen body contact incidents during the game, became inolved in a punching match with Mickey White of St. Philip after the final whistle. There was no apparent damage.

Two of St. Engelbert's goals resulted from free kicks awarded for fouls. The first led to a score by Joe Gerdes, early in the game, the third, from a free kick well placed by Tom O'Brien, was scored with the head by Bill O'Brien. George Endler squeezed a goal in between the two. All three points were well made. Closest to a score for Neri was a hard shot by Bill Schumacher that hit the goal crossbar.

Buchholz Defeats Crawford

HONOLULU, Feb. 2 (AP)—The United States Davis Cup tennis champions put on a sparkling exhibition at Bloch Arena, Pearl Harbor, last night before an appreciative crowd of some 1200 service men and their dependents.

Earl Buchholz downed Chris Crawford, 6-2, and Alex Olmedo topped Barry MacKay 6-4, in one-set singles matches. Olmedo and MacKay teamed to grab a hard-fought 11-9 victory in a doubles set.

The American squad, which has been in Australia since early November, will arrive in Los Angeles this evening on Pan American flight 806.

Redbirds Buy Infielder From Indians

The Cardinals today had more infield insurance in the person of Billy Harrell, former utility man for the Cleveland Indians.

General Manager Bing Devine announced yesterday he had obtained the big right-hander in a straight cash deal.

Harrell, 30-year-old Negro, hit .218 and had 12 stolen bases in the 100 games he played with the Indians last year.

A native of Norristown, Pa., Harrell had his best season in 1953 when he was named the most valuable player in the Eastern League. He hit .330 for Reading that season.

Bears on Way Out?

Blair Gullion died a troubled man, fearful that Washington University might drop intercollegiate athletics or find sports squeezed off the campus scene.

Broeg

Persons close to the old coach knew about his distress over developments the last two years or so of a strict amateur athletic program he installed 12 years ago at the request of Arthur H. Compton, former Washington U. chancellor.

Dr. London, team physician for the professional basketball Hawks, was the star of Gullion's first team here in 1947, his assistant in 1948 and probably the last Hilltop performer in any sport to hold the equivalent of an athletic scholarship. The grant was awarded London, a Springfield (Ill.) boy, in 1943. He put in a year here and another in the Navy V-12 program at DePauw University before returning to Washington U. in 1945.

Grieved over the death of his friend and teacher—Stan also played here for Bob Kinnan and Ray Blake—he expressed gratitude for a long telephone call with Gullion before the coach led his Bears to Michigan for the final game of his career last week.

"I had called Blair to inquire about the possibility of realistic subsidization, athletic scholarships that would make Washington not a national power, but assure a respectable athletic unit in keeping with the quality of other university functions," Dr. London said, explaining:

"I found him fearful Washington might not be able to field a football team next fall, extremely concerned that athletics might be on their way out at the university."

Faculty Opposition?

Dr. London emphasized that Gullion had not become disenchanted with the purpose of the university's athletic program, but rather with administrative indifference, and what he interpreted to be opposition from some of the faculty.

"Opposition from alumni unhappy because the Bears weren't big-time didn't bother Blair," said the former Myrtle and Maroon athlete, "but he was disturbed because he felt that, for instance, a group in the science and mathematics departments favored abolishment of athletics."

Dr. London said he believed that discouragement, as much as apparent overwork combining the duties of administrator, teacher and coach, had prompted Gullion to relinquish his athletic directorship last March.

"As director he seemed to feel he couldn't get a clear-cut statement of policy on Washington's athletic future," said Dr. London, "and as a coach he understandably became discouraged when basketball players in day classes began to run into night examinations that conflicted with dates of intercollegiate games."

Gullion's greatest concern was that increased tuition costs and higher entrance requirements had combined to restrict even further athletic manpower already limited by no financial assistance except through academic scholarships, Dr. London said.

Sales Resistance

"Tuition has gone up to $900 a year," it was explained, "but Blair was disturbed more by what he called increased recruiting resistance in the city and area because of academic standards higher than ever before.

"And coming up is a new and stiffer requirement, one by which high school graduates will have to pass a college board entrance examination."

Dr. London quoted the late coach as having told him:

"With tuition and academic standards so high, parents not only are reluctant to send boys to a college where they might wash out, but even high school advisers are disinclined to recommend that the average student go here—for the same reason."

Although Washington has not given financial assistance except to the high-average prep student able to qualify for an academic scholarship, Dr. London said Gullion had pointed out that the amateur program had been "nurtured" by two wars.

"He told me that the G.I. Bill of Rights conveniently had subsidized students after both World War II and the Korean War," said the brilliant young man who played three years of varsity basketball and baseball while in medical school—and still was able to earn membership in the national honorary society, Alpha Omega Alpha.

"The Korean veterans are just about all gone, and now Blair Gullion is gone, too," said Dr. London. "His friends can only hope that the university he served so well will not let intercollegiate athletics be dropped — or forced out.

N. Texas State Is Kiel Foe

By Bob Ruhl

Opportunity knocks tonight for St. Louis University's Billikens, who will try for their twelfth straight basketball victory and a school record. They will meet North Texas State in a Missouri Valley Conference game at 8:30 o'clock at Kiel Auditorium.

If Billiken Coach John Benington paces the floor nervously before game time, it won't be showmanship. The Eagles, holders of a dismal 4-11 record this season, aren't quite the yes-men their record indicates.

Shoved aside by some rather unimpressive teams in early season, the Texans played present Valley leader Cincinnati into a corner through regulation time before bowing in overtime, 64-56. Coach Pete Shands's team has the capability of doing the spectacular.

St. Louis U., on the other hand, has been playing mature basketball for a long spell, combining a taut defense with a balanced attack. Shaking off the effects of losses to Cincinnati and Kentucky early in the season, the Billikens have rounded into a precision machine.

With enthusiasm and determination they cut down nationally ranked St. John's Thursday night and came back strong to wilt Houston Saturday night, 71-47.

North Texas State, of Denton, Tex., will start four veterans and 6-7 Jim Mudd, a junior college All-America and a transfer from Moberly Junior College. Mudd has been a strong competitor averaging 18 points for 15 games and a tough hombre on the backboards.

Another starter is expected to be Darrell Reitzel, also a former Moberly player who took over on the backline for Ken Hinkle, last year's Eagle scoring leader. Reitzel had averaged nearly 16 points for eight games. Rod Byrd, 5-8, is the other guard. Ray Toole, 6-3, and Bill McLaughlin, 6-4, are the forwards.

The Eagles have lost to Houston, 88-58, and Drake, 74-66, in their last two outings. Shrands, coaching and his twenty-first in his thirty-third year of with the Eagles, has an overall record of 312-335. St. Louis downed the visitors twice last year in their first two meetings. The Texans have beaten only Tulsa in league competition.

The Billiken freshmen, shooting for their ninth straight victory, play Ford Leonard Wood at 6:30 o'clock.

The St. Louis U. varsity, 4-1 in the Valley and 13-2 for the season, probably will see their second-place conference tie with Bradley broken this week. The Braves play Wichita in Peoria tonight and Drake on the road Saturday, while North Texas State is the Bills' only Valley opponent this week. The Eagles are 1-5 in the conference, just ahead of last-place Drake (1-6).

Washington University goes back in action Thursday night when the Bears meet DePauw University at Greencastle, Ind. The Bears return to the field house Saturday night to play Indiana State Teachers College.

League-leading Cincinnati (7-0) will oppose Tulsa in the Bearcats only Valley game this week. Houston and Drake meet tonight to round out the conference schedule.

The University of Missouri, hoping for better basketball fortune after the semester break, can dim Colorado's hopes of staying close to Kansas State in the Big Eight race. The two teams meet at Columbia tomorrow night. The Wildcats, 5-0 in the conference and 15-1 overall, can increase their lead to a game and a half over Colorado when they play Nebraska tonight.

Colorado and K-State meet at Boulder Saturday night. Kansas and Oklahoma, both 3-2, still figure in the championship race but must meet Wednesday night at Lawrence.

Illinois, 3-3 in the Big Ten, has a chance to help Michigan State toward the conference championship if it can beat Michigan tonight. Losses by the Wolverines and Indiana and a victory by Michigan State over Wisconsin in games tonight, would put the Spartans, now 5-1, virtually out of reach. The Illini are at Northwestern Saturday night.

Willie Hoppe, Billiards King For 46 Years, Dies at 71

Hoppe, 71, ruled the billiards world during the "golden era" of sports. He won 51 world championships during 47 glory-packed years.

His doctor said he apparently was the victim of a gastric hemorrhage; he had been in bad health for years and was hospitalized since Sept. 18 following a heart attack.

Albert Hoppe of Miami, his brother, said the colorful billiards ace seemed in good spirits Saturday, but took a turn for the worse that night. One of his last visitors was Sidney Mayer of Chicago, a road paving firm executive and a friend of years.

Mayer said Hoppe's hands, which brought him his first world's title at the age of 18, were shaky and unsteady.

"He told me he didn't think he would be able to handle a cue stick again," Mayer said. "He said he wanted me to have his cues."

Hoppe's brother confirmed that the prized cue sticks would be given to Mayer in keeping with the bedside wish.

Burial at Philadelphia.

The body will be sent to Philadelphia for burial at White Marsh Memorial Park. Services will be held either Wednesday or Thursday at St. Johns Roman Catholic Church.

WILLIE HOPPE

In addition to his brother, survivors include a son, William F. Jr., of Sonora, Calif., and a daughter, Alice, also in California.

Hoppe won his first world's title in 1906, dethroning Maurice Vignaux, known as the "Lion of France," at Paris. He won his last in 1952, when he captured the three-cushion world crown at San Francisco.

In between, he had one of the longest and most colorful careers in sports history, outlasting — by comparison — 14 heavyweight boxing champions, from Tommy Burns to Rocky Marciano.

His audiences included presidents, kings and ranking members of the world society who marveled at his quick skill and keen eye. He once played a command performance at the White House, in 1911, for President William Howard Taft.

Oddly, however, Hoppe always insisted his first real love was not billiards, but baseball.

"I really wanted to be a professional baseball player," Hoppe told newsmen last summer. "My father wanted me to be a billiard player."

Hoppe's father once owned a small hotel in upstate New York and had young Willie playing billiards before he could reach the table. Willie stood on a soapbox to practice his shots.

Retired in 1952.

He retired in 1952 on doctor's orders, moving to a quiet apartment in Bal Harbour where he lived alone and liked to take long walks. He maintained an interest in sports through newspapers and television.

He looked back with sorrow on the slow death of his favorite sport, but friends said he was not despondent in later years.

In a recent interview, Hoppe said his role as a billiards player was "in the past."

"It was a good life—I thank God for giving it to me—and I miss the game, of course. But this is a good life, too," he said. "I'm content."

Jon Mars Second in U.S. Meet

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 2 (UPI)—Kenny Bartholomew, a middle-aged father of five girls, today had his thirteenth national outdoor speed skating championship safely in tow.

Bartholomew, 38, of Minneapolis, grabbed his latest crown yesterday by winning the mile and five-mile events to wind up far ahead in the final point standings of both Bob Synder of Detroit and Ron Carlson of Minneapolis.

It was a Detroit woman, however, who really stole the show. Jane Omelenchuk successfully defended her senior women's title and, in doing so, cracked two national speed records.

Mrs. Omelenchuk whipped through the 880 in the record time of 1:24.8, snapping the old mark of 1:25.9 set by a Milwaukee woman in Jan. 1940 when the championships were held in Escanaba, Mich. Mrs. Omelenchuk also whizzed through the mile in 3:04.5, cracking the old record of 3:06.1 set by the same Milwaukee woman—Maddy Horn—this time at Oconomoc, Wis., in 1937.

Jon Mars, competing in the intermediate boys division, was the only St. Louisan to place in the standings. He was second with 11 points. Eddie Rudolph of Northbrook, Ill., winning in the division with 21. Mars won the 440-yard race, was second in the three-quarter mile race and fourth in the two-mile.

Sandy Danielson of Minneapolis, won her fourth straight national outdoor title by grabbing the junior girl's championship. In previous years, Miss Danielson had won in the juvenile and midget divisions.

Renee Garvin of Minneapolis, Mary Meyers of St. Paul and Cathy Sullivan continued to dominate their classes in the junior girls' division. Miss Garvin won this year. Misses Meyers and Sullivan had won in previous years and this time wound up second and third.

Tom McPartlin of St. Paul set a third national mark when he skated the junior boys' mile in 2:52.1, bettering the old record of 2:56.7 set in 1955 by Dave Arands of Cedar Rapids, Ia. Despite McPartlin's record pace for the mile, the junior boys' title went to Bob Busse of Madison, Wis.

Muchnick to Promote Title Boxing Match

By W. J. McGoogan

Sam Muchnick, wrestling promoter, has applied to the Missouri Athletic Commission for a license as a boxing promoter in order to handle the welterweight championship bout at The Arena, March 6, between Virgil Akins, St. Louis, and Don Jordan, Los Angeles.

The contest, which will be televised nationally, originally was arranged by the International Boxing Club but that organization's activities have been curtailed by a recent decision of the federal courts limiting its activities to the promotion of two title bouts a year.

Seat prices will range from a low of $2.50 to a top of $20, the same scale as for the Akins-Vince Martinez bout. Intermediate prices will be $5, $10 and $15, taxes included in all prices.

Muchnick said he had been approached by the I.B.C. to promote the contest here although he has never held a boxing promoter's license.

While he was associated with Tom Packs, veteran wrestling figure, Packs handled numerous boxing contests and Muchnick was associated in the presentation.

Muchnick said that the St. Louis area would be blacked out for the Akins-Jordan scrap and that the I.B.C. would have the contract for the national television.

Akins, who won the 147-pound title from Vince Martinez on June 6, last, with a knockout in the fourth round, lost the crown to Jordan on a decision in 15 rounds on Dec. 5, 1958, in Los Angeles. It was the first attempted defense by Akins in the less than six months he held the title.

Before meeting Jordan he fought Charley (Tombstone) Smith and knocked him out in the tenth round in Chicago then lost a 10-round decision to Del Flanagan in St. Paul.

Akins has begun work for the return match with Jordan and in the four weeks before the contest will step up his efforts.

He expressed confidence in his ability to beat Jordan, a view not shared by numerous boxing men who feel that the Losangeles boxer has the stuff to defeat Akins again.

Friends of Akins declare that Jordan caught him on an off night, that Akins did not appear at his best and they believe that Virgil will knock out Jordan when they meet at The Arena.

Various details of the program remain to be worked out and Muchnick plans a press conference at which time he expects to get his license from Charley Pian, Missouri Athletic Commissioner, and outline his program.

Akins long since signed the contract for the second match with jordan but Don's handlers held up signing hoping to defend against Art Aragon in California before meeting Akins.

Aragon was involved in a bout with Charley Sawyer in Hollywood Stadium, Los Angeles, Saturday night. Aragon won on a knockout in the fourth round. The performance of the two was so unsatisfactory that the California Commission called for a hearing and held up their purses.

Borrowed Clubs Help Furgol Win

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 2 (UPI) — Marty Furgol, a 41-year-old golfer from Lemont, Ill., headed for Phoenix and more competition today, packing a new formula for winning tournaments after capturing the $20,000 San Diego Open yesterday.

Marty's formula: 1) get a caddy named Mr. Riggs and confer with him frequently; 2) borrow a set of woods from Bill Nary; 3) borrow a set of irons from Bob Goalby; 4) use your own wedge, putter and sand iron; 5) and eliminate the loop from your back swing.

With these ingredients well blended, Furgol won his first tournament in five years and he picked up the $2800 first place check in besting one of the finest fields of the winter tour.

"Old golfers never die, they improve with age," Furgol told the crowd of 10,000 surrounding the final green after his victory.

"But I must say the three-wood I hit to the 18th green was the best shot of my life. If I had missed that we would have ended up in a six-way tie for first place."

Furgol fired rounds of 70-71-64-69 to win the tourney by one stroke with a 72-hole total of 274—14-under-par for the Mission Valley Country club.

Goalby, the Belleville (Ill.) pro, totaled 279 to earn $510. He had rounds of 73, 69, 71 and 66.

It was a five-way tie for second place at 275 among ... Souchak, Grossinger, N. Y.; Bill Casper, Apple Valley, Calif.; Dave Ragan, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Joe Campbell, Knoxville, Tenn., and Bo Wininger, Odessa, Tex.

U.S. Team Victor in Sled Race

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 2 (AP)—Art Tyler of Weston, Mass., and Tom Butler of Vista, Calif., won the two-man bobsled derby, while two other Americans narrowly escaped injury when a broken bolt sent them hurtling out of control down the mile-long course.

Stan Benham of Lake Placid N.Y., and Charles Randolph of Saranac Lake, N.Y., survived the brakeless ride down the partly bumpy track, narrowly managing to keep from crashing off the course.

When the bolt snapped, the metal weight attached near the driver's seat slammed against the steering device, partially blocking it. The weight is a bar about five inches long, weighing about two pounds.

Tyler and his brakeman, a Marine lieutenant, won the derby by less than two seconds on a basis of aggregate time for four runs and assumed the role of favorites for next week's world championships on the same course.

After leading the 27 entries from six nations in the first two heats, Tyler and Butler were timed in 1 minute 23.34 and 1:24.40 for yesterday's runs, giving them an aggregate of 5:33.17.

West Germany's aces, Hans Roesch and Walter Haller, were second with runs of 1:23.83 and 1:23.63 for a total of 5:34.15. Right behind, in 5:34.18, were Italy's Angelo Frigerio and Renato Mocellini, who were timed in 1:22.81 and 1:24.62.

Crowder Is Possible Colorado Coach

BOULDER, Colo., Feb. 2 (AP) — Eddie Crowder, assistant coach at Oklahoma and former backfield star for the Sooners, was reported today to be under serious consideration for the head football coaching job at Colorado.

A source that declined to be identified said at least two of the five members of a special committee appointed to screen applicants favor hiring Crowder.

Dallas Ward, coach at Colorado for 11 seasons, was fired by the board of regents last month. Both Ward and Crowder are possible candidates for the vacant coaching position at Arizona University.

This summer, the Club will sponsor 5 Khoury League baseball teams, including a 17-year-old Junior squad which will play an extended road schedule. Last year, the team traveled over 3000 miles for exhibitions in 17 cities.

Gieslers Win, Hit 19 of 20 Free Throws

Giesler-Jorgen, Cocos and Pastoris won Independent Basketball Association games yesterday at Vashon Center.

The Gieslers, outscored from the field, hit 19 of 20 free throws and slipped by the Scotts, 71-67, to tie idle Fix Mix for third place. It was the eighth straight loss for the Scotts.

The undefeated Pastoris won their eighth straight, 92-68 over 525 Club, with five of the winners scoring in double figures. The losers connected on 20 of 23 free throws.

The Cocos held second place with an 88-81 win over the Masters. The three highest individual scores of the day were made in this game, 27 by Rich Eichhorst and 26 by Sonny Siebert of the winners and 25 by Bob Moran of the Masters.

Braves Want Second Sacker Richardson From Yankees, Report

2 Other Clubs Seek Infielder

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves are trying to acquire Second Baseman Bobby Richardson from the New York Yankees as a replacement for Red Schoendienst, United Press International learned today.

Neither team would confirm it is conducting trade negotiations, but Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney revealed that a deal might be on the fire at last night's annual dinner of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"Last year Casey Stengel (Yankee manager) followed me around," Haney said. "Now I'm following him around. I see where they have a new assistant general manager, so maybe we can make a deal."

Schoendienst is undergoing treatment in a St. Louis hospital for tuberculosis. He isn't expected to return to the Braves until next year—if at all—so the National League champions have turned to their World Series conquerors for help.

Richardson batted only .247 in 73 games last year, but Milwaukee may have to go high in its bidding for the little infielder, for the Cleveland Indians and Washington Senators also are dickering for his services.

Last night's dinner concluded a busy weekend for baseball brass, who spent a good deal of time discussing possible trades when they weren't meeting in special business sessions. However, the only deal consummated was a seven-player trade between the Cincinnati Redlegs and Pittsburgh Pirates. The Redlegs received Slugger Frank Thomas and three other Pittsburgh players for Catcher Smoky Burgess, Pitcher Harvey Haddix and Third Baseman Don Hoak.

Stengel Steals Show.

At one point during his witty speech, the Yankee manager turned to honored guest, Francis Cardinal Spellman, and declared:

"They offer 100-grand to 150-grand to some young kids starting out in baseball today. Just think, your eminence, if they offered you that to start out."

Other key Stengel comments:

Regarding the Yankees: "They're great . . . but some day some one is going to catch 'em."

Regarding General Managers: "They're changing them every day but with the ballplayers they give them short notice. 'You were all right' they tell the players 'but conditions are such we have to do without you'."

Regarding baseball writers: "They can't get Stengelese all summer, but they knew whatinhell I was talking about a few days ago. (An obvious reference to Stengel's attack on Yankee players last week).

Turley Gets Award.

Bob Turley, the Yankee's star pitcher, received the Sid Mercer Memorial award as 1958's "Player of the Year;" and Will Harridge, outgoing president of the American League, was presented with a gold watch.

News in other baseball camps: The Baltimore Orioles released a belated 10-month financial statement which showed a profit of $95,169 . . . It covered the period from Jan. 1 to Oct. 31, 1958 . . . The Orioles also announced they would work with seven minor league clubs next season . . .

James A. Campbell has been elected as vice president of the Detroit Baseball Co. . . . Pitchers Jack Meyer, Bob Conley and Eddie Keegan and Outfielder Don Landrum have signed with the Philadelphia Phillies . . . Pitcher Stan Williams and First Baseman Steve Bilko have signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers . . .

Miss Smith Wins Title In Playoff

The 22-year-old Miss Smith came up even with Miss Rawls at 220 strokes with 71, one over men's par, on Miami Springs Country Club's 6310-yard course.

In a sudden-death playoff, Miss Smith nicked the rough on her drive, but recovered nicely and took a par 4 on a two-foot putt. Miss Rawls overshot the cup on her fourth stroke in attempting a six-foot putt.

A gallery of 2500 watched the Miami Springs climax of the medal tourney which started Wednesday at Boca Raton and had its middle session Friday at Tequest Country Club.

Runnerup over the regular distance with Smith and Rawls was Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., who shot 74 for a 222. Putts that stopped on the cup's rim at several holes prevented her from a possible win.

Miss Smith and Haden Davis of Miami Springs shared honors with Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., in a pro-am sponsored by the Metropolitan Amateur Golf Association. They had 63s.

Mrs. MacIntosh Wins

BOSTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Mrs. Sheila Macintosh of England upset Britain's team captain, Janet Morgan, 15-11, 15-12, 11-15, 15-11, yesterday to win the Massachusetts state women's squash championship.

Three I Loop To Begin Play On April 28

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Three-I League voted for a 126-game schedule, opening April 28 and closing Sept. 7.

While officials of the eight clubs approved both ends of the chart, they couldn't reach agreement on all the stretches in between, so a complete schedule wasn't adopted.

Adoption will come in a mail vote after Hal Totten of Cedar Rapids, league president, revises the card to embrace last-minute requests for changes.

The league also scheduled an All-Star game July 15. The top players selected will meet the club that leads the league after games of July 5. The game will be played in the city of the first-place club.

It was decided to award a trophy to the city which has the largest opening day attendance on a per capita basis.

Voted down was a proposal to make games of continuous doubleheaders seven innings each, instead of one nine and one seven. Both contests will still be scheduled for nine innings when one is played in the afternoon and one at night.

The only doubleheaders to be included on the original schedule will be played on holidays — Memorial day, July Fourth and Labor day.

HOXIE VOTERS BEAT SEGREGATION MOVE

© New York Times News Service

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 2—In a record turnout, voters of the northeast Arkansas town of Hoxie voted Saturday not to remove from office two school board members who were on the board when integration came to Hoxie in 1955.

Petitions for the election were filed by Herbert Brewer, an outspoken segregationist who is on the school board. Eanos Nichols, another board member, was among the 299 signers.

If Floyd and Roberts had been ousted, the Lawrence county board of education would have chosen successors to fill their terms.

Petitions seeking the recall of five school board members of Little Rock were circulated last fall but were discarded when the five members resigned. In Van Buren, another city marked by strife over school integration, a petition was filed asking for the recall of school board members but it lacked enough signatures.

Hoxie integrated its public schools in July 1955, the third Arkansas community to do so. The transition was accompanied by protests and demonstrations by pro-segregation groups. A federal court later enjoined these groups from interfering with the integration program.

Twelve Negroes are enrolled with about 850 white students in Hoxie's public schools. Hoxie, a town of about 1800, is on the edge of the east Arkansas cotton territory.

ACCUSES U.S. GOVERNMENT OF ANTI-SMALL TOWN POLICY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Is the Federal Government unfair to small communities? Representative Burr Harrison (Dem.), Virginia, cites one case. The Small Business Administration refused to make a loan helping a business move from New York City to Winchester, Va., because New York is on the Labor Department surplus labor list.

Protested Representative Harrison: "To suggest that the movement of a small business from New York to Winchester would cause a substantial hardship to New York City would be ludicrous if it did not reflect a pathetic aberration in bureauatic vision."

WISCONSIN ALLIS-CHALMERS STRIKE OF UAW SPREADING

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Seven thousand United Auto Workers at the main West Allis works of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. went on strike today.

The walkout spread to Allis Chalmers plants across the country. Strikes were reported at plants in Pittsburgh, Cedar Rapids, Ia., Springfield, Ill. and La Crosse, Wis.

Negotiators worked right up to the deadline to try to avert the strike. Negotiations broke down over the question of adopting the union's proposal for a master contract for all plants, or working out separate pacts, as requested by the company.

5000 BAKERS IN NEW YORK STRIKING FOR PAY INCREASE

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Some 5000 bakers in 700 independent plants here went on strike today after contract negotiations broke down. The major bakery chains were not affected.

Russell E. Duvernoy, president of the Gotham Bakers Association, estimated that 25,000 restaurants, 15,000 grocery stores and delicatessens, and hospitals and welfare institutions were without supplies.

SENATE VOTES TO CONTINUE RACKET INQUIRY ONE YEAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The Senate approved a fund of $750,000 today to run its rackets investigation another year. Chairman John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, said he hoped one more year will see the job completed.

The Senate also approved a $220,000 budget for permanent investigating subcommittee of McClellan's Committee on Government operations.

The Senate Armed Services Committee asked for and received $190,000 for its work.

DOMINICAN PRESS ASSAILS BATISTA, BUT HE'LL REMAIN

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Feb. 2 (AP) — A leading newspaper and the Dominican Radio have made it clear that Fulgencio Batista is unwelcome here. But the government, through a spokesman, said today it will stand by the right of political asylum which Batista claims.

Batista has been here a month, following his fall as Cuban dictator. The government-controlled newspaper El Caribe headed its article "Batista Should Get Out."

The radio, La Voz Dominicana, quoted the article and then said the station's founder, Arismendi Trujillo—brother of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo—wanted to add his views. The broadcast continued:

"The vigorous campaign waged by Voz Dominicana against the atrocities committed by Red chieftain Fidel Castro must not be misinterpreted; it does not mean that we are forgetting the abuses and ingratitude of the regime under Batista, that unscrupulous, evil man. . . ."

The feud between Trujillo and Batista is an old one, aggravated by an attempt years ago by Rolando Masferrer, a Batista lieutenant, to lead an expedition aimed at toppling the Dominican government. Masferrer is now in the United States.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Associates Investment Co. Monday reduced commercial paper rates from ⅛ to ¼ of 1 per cent. The drop returns rates paid investors by the firm to the levels prevailing before Jan. 20.

The increase at that time was not followed by most major sales finance companies.

Pacific Finance Corp. said it would drop rates Tuesday to the level posted by Associates Investment. Pacific Finance boosted rates last month, following the lead of Associates.

The new rates are for paper of 5 to 29 days 2½ per cent, 30-89 days 2¾ per cent, 90-179 days 3 per cent and 180-270 days 3¼ per cent.

ISRAELI EDITORS DEMAND ACTION IN U.A.R. BORDER ROW

© New York Times News Service

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Feb. 2—Demands for military action if violence breaks out again on the Syrian border were made yesterday by many Israeli newspapers.

Editorials charged that the United Nations Security Council had shirked its responsibility in its consideration Friday of Israel's latest complaint against the United Arab Republic.

The Council adjourned without action after debating Israel's charges that Syrian troops had murdered an Israeli shepherd Jan. 23 while he was tending his flock on the Israeli side of the border. The representatives of several western powers, including the United States, urged the U.A.R. and Israel to instruct their border units not to fire except in self defense.

A Foreign Ministry source, in an "unofficial" appraisal, said the council meeting had been "useful," though not "forceful enough."

The Foreign Ministry's reaction was not shared by the newspapers. Several warned that the individual incidents were building up to a point where retaliation could not be avoided.

PICKS UP PICKUP TRUCK

ASHLAND, Ky., Feb. 2 (AP)—Odd, thought motorist W. S. Patton, how closely a pickup truck had been following his automobile.

Then he got out and learned why. His car was towing the driverless truck. Patton said he apparently hooked bumpers with the truck before pulling away from a parking place.

Fulbright

for the Department of Justice.

In the mid-1930s he went back to Arkansas and, from 1939 to 1941, served as president of the university. He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1942 and achieved almost instant fame as sponsor of a resolution favoring creation of an international organization to preserve the peace, a precursor to the United Nations.

He was elected to the Senate in 1944. Two years later his bill providing for use of credits acquired by the United States through sale of surplus property abroad be used for the exchange of students and professors, became law. This created what are now called the "Fulbright scholarships."

The chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee brings him to the pinnacle of Senate power. In the past there have been doubts that he had the energy required to handle one of the powerful Senate positions. The weeks immediately ahead will put these doubts to the big test.

Good Golfer and Dancer.

By United Press International.

Fullbright is one of the Senate's best golfers.

He is a fun-loving sort, a frequent party-goer and excellent dancer with his Philadelphia born wife, Elizabeth, mother of their two daughters.

Despite his soft-spoken manner, Fulbright has been known to supplement his gentle wit with a sharp tongue and to stray far from orthodoxy and convention when the mood hits him.

As chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, Fulbright played a big role in financial legislation. He led a major study of the stock market in 1955, and headed a sensational investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1950.

During the latter inquiry, Fulbright fell out with President Truman. In 1946, when the G.O.P. won control of Conpress, Fulbright suggested Truman resign and allow a Republican to take over. Fulbright suggested the same for President Eisenhower in 1954, when Democrats won control of Congress.

Dulles

many and possibly some other issues.

3. What measures the Western powers should take if a new Berlin blockade is set up. Russia has announced plans to turn over its Berlin occupation powers to the East German Reds in May.

Dulles's Comment.

The State Department announced Dulles's trip Saturday while he was in New York. When he flew back to Washington yesterday he was asked at the airport why he decided to undertake the mission to London, Paris and Bonn and what he hopes to accomplish.

"The situation is a highly complicated one," Dulles said. "There are many contingencies that have to be planned for.

"It seemed as though under the circumstances it would be desirable to use the valuable asset that we have in the intimate personal relationships that have been developed between the leading governmental personalities of the United Kingdom, France, West Germany and the U.S.A."

Personal talks, he added, can accomplish much more than diplomatic notes.

Before the Dulles trip was announced, Fulbright said the Administration apparently has stalled on dead center in dealing with the Russian demand to make West Berlin a free city.

Mansfield said today he and his colleagues will back Fulbright to the hilt in an effort to bring what Mansfield called more flexibility to the Administration handling of international problems.

"I think Senator Fulbright will make many contributions toward reinvigorating our foreign policy position. Secretary Dulles is going to have to come up with some fresh ideas and better formulated policies to satisfy him and the rest of us Democrats."

Regards as Its Opportunity.

Mansfield said he hopes a close relationship can be established between Fulbright and Dulles and other State Department officials. From this vantage point, Mansfield said, the new chairman could inject some of his own ideas into the stream of Administration thinking on international problems.

"These new ideas," Mansfield said, "could lead the Administration into taking some steps it has been loath to take in the past. Out of an exchange of ideas could come some new stances in foreign policy."

Fulbright said over the week in response to a question that he stands by his statement in a Senate speech last August that Administration policies are "inadaquate, outmoded and misdirected."

Fulbright will succeed this week to the chairmanship vacated Friday by 91-year-old Senator Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island. Green gave failing eyesight and hearing as his reasons for stepping down.

Africa Changes

5,000,000 are of European origin and 2,500,000 are of Asian origin or racially mixed. The rest are Africans.

Generalizing in answer to a question such as, "what are the Africans like?", is, of course, highly speculative. After a month of intimate contact with the African people, both rural and urban, south of the Equator, however, I seem to discern three basic African characteristics.

They have a great passion for simple human dignity and justice, perhaps because they have enjoyed so little of either. They have an all-out eagerness to learn—anything and everything. They have a talent for friendship which defies description.

The Africans help each other through difficult times in a way completely foreign to most people of European origin, but they also help Europeans when given a chance, in ways that are difficult to understand under the conditions of colonial Africa.

In the Leopoldville riots, when the Belgians were disorganized and panicked, individual Africans kept their heads, helped me gather facts and fed me.

Finally, sensing with a sure intuition my own disappointment at the behavior of the Belgians, two young Africans took it upon themselves to assure me that the Belgians also were human beings like ourselves and would recover their senses in time. This was at a moment when Belgian civilians as well as police officers armed witth submachine guns were hunting unarmed Africans like lions in the streets.

After Collision of Light Planes

Wreckage of two light planes is jammed in yard of home at Buena Park, Calif., after the planes exploded and plunged to earth in flames following collision yesterday. Collision came as the planes were maneuvering in the traffic pattern backed up from airport at nearby Fullerton. Both pilots were killed.

Groundhog's Day

Groundhog puts in an appearance today under circumstances making it indifferent to the six more weeks of wintry weather supposedly being forecast by its shadow. The animal, 2 years old and named Pumpkin, is emerging from coat being shared by its owner, Shirley Seiler, kennel superintendent at the Humane Society Shelter. As her house pet, it is reported to be frisky, fastidious and largely unaware of weather, either winter or summer.

Platform was erected as concession to correspondents who must press close to windows to keep up with events in the crowded conference building. Commission was holding its forty-ninth meeting at time picture was taken last week, with Communist delegates rejecting a United Nations demand for an accounting of 2147 Korean war prisoners still listed as missing.

A Supernatural Success on TV

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.

"ALCOA PRESENTS" is a new series based, according to its director and narrator John Newland, on investigated case histories of possession, clairvoyance, and precognition. "Actually, all these stories did happen to real people," declared Mr. Newland, a man of imposing grandeur and elegance, whom I would not dream of contradicting. "They are all based on the indisputable and irrefutable."

JOHN NEWLAND

Well, "indisputable and irrefutable" are pretty big words but the series is sure as hell a thoroughly fascinating and new idea for a TV season that has been mostly concerned with Western shoot-em-ups. Of course, I should warn you I'm a sucker for precognition and all that jazz, the more psychic the better, so I am a little prejudiced. The first of these stories was called "One Step Beyond" and it was a tale of possession.

A young pair is on their honeymoon, the bride being a real sugar-mouthed southern belle, who falls asleep on her husband's shoulder and wakes up talking pure Yankee. "Take your hands off me," she snarls at her husband and lopes off into the night. "She looked so different," mutters her husband to the psychiatrist, who is brought in the case. And she sure did look different. She has a whole new personality and the name of a dead girl who had supposedly committed suicide.

"I didn't kill myself!" the girl screams. "I was murdered! I was murdered!" Looked at in cold type that way, that snatch of dialogue sounds strictly ridiculous but actually, if you dig the supernatural, that is an entirely rational outcry of one possessed. Possessed is what the girl was, possessed by a murdered girl who wanted vengeance on the guy what done her in and, Mr. Newland assured us with a straight face, got it.

It was a very solid production with sound acting and direction and highly sensible writing which is all you can decently ask.

The other day I had lunch with Mr. Newland and asked him what he sought to do in this series and how seriously we should take it. "We want to probe, entertain and expose a bit. Originally the concept was that the stories be absolutely true, but this proved to be difficult. Now the stories are just "based" on fact. We plan to use no stars. By using unfamiliar faces we hope to gain acceptance. I think the stories are quite adult, judging by many other things I've seen on television."

What, I asked, did he hope to expose?

"We hope to expose psychical phenomena, things people have heard about but really don't know much about, things like levitational phenomena, or extra-sensory perception."

Did Mr. Newland believe in these things?

"Why, of course. I believe them and so do the other three people connected with the show. I never have been able to understand the skeptic. Tell him a story such as the one about the granite blocks found in the Andes. Granite has certain characteristics that enable scientists to pinpoint where it was mined. High in the Andes are those huge blocks of granite that could have been mined only near the river Nile in Africa. How did they get in the Andes, a whole continent and an ocean away?

"The skeptic can only say, 'Well,' and shrug. I believe that contemporary man thinks he knows everything. He forgets other centuries knew other things, different things. Logic is not enough. We must go beyond logic. Look at electricity. No one knows how it works, why it works, or even what it is. How does it get transported from one place to another? If sound can do it, why not granite blocks?"

If you are still skeptical, Mr. Newland would remind you that we have all had psychical phenomena happen to us at one time or another. For instance, you haven't seen someone in years. Suddenly you start thinking about him and within a day or so you run into him on the street.

There are thousands of such psychical phenomena out of actual records which should keep the show running for years and that should keep the supernatural buffs (of which I'm one) very happy. At any rate, it's a change from the Westerns. Any day now, I expect we'll get the psychic Western. We've had all the other kinds.

Social Problems

DEAR MRS. POST: I wish you would write something in your column about the hostesses who put their men guests "on the spot" by asking them to take unescorted young women home from a party. This has happened to me on quite a few occasions and I am getting fed up with it. It has always been my luck, too, to be asked to take a girl home who lives on the other side of town. I am not alone in this complaint as several of my fraternity brothers have run into this same problem. Is there any way any one can gracefully refuse to comply with this request?

Answer: Surely your hostess will understand and forgive you, if you explain that the young woman she has asked you to take home lives on the other side of town and that you have to be up very early in the morning. A hostess who very often saddles young men with taking young women home will find it more and more difficult to get attractive young men to come to her parties.

DEAR MRS. POST: My attendants are arriving at the last minute, no parties for them ahead of time are possible. When would be the best time to give them their gifts? Could they be given at the wedding reception?

Answer: When you are together before you leave for the church would be the usual time to give them under the circumstances you describe.

GEORGE JESSEL, officiating at a banquet, announced proudly, "And now, one of the greatest heroes of them all, Admiral Nimitz, master of all our great ships at sea. Just two words please, Admiral Nimitz."

The Admiral confined his answer to the exact two words requested. They were: "Name's King."

BACK FROM a bridge tournament, Mrs. Mayes asked her new maid, "Did you clean out that refrigerator as I asked you to?".

"I sure did, ma'am," said the maid, "and everything was mighty tasty."

Youth Parade---Scoring With Scarves

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Give scarves the green light in your winter fashion parade. These style-catching streamers change your wardrobe from humdrum to handsome. The "bow catcher," worn by actress Gloria Winters, has been slit so one end pulls through the fabric to form a bow. Designed by Billi Cheatwood, the twirl-about can be centered, angled or turned to the back.

Climate and coiffures don't always agree. So, when weather forces you to go "undercover," do so with a fashionable flair. Miss Cheatwood, recently returned from a style tour of Europe, suggests this Givenchy triangle boasting a hair sketch. When placed on the head, it looks as if your tresses are showing through and cascading down your shoulders in braids.

A dress gets a complete change of pace when scarf is worn jabot style. The designer sewed a small ring to one end of the fabric, then twirled it around the neck, and pulled all three ends through the metal loop. Gloria, who plays Penny in the "Sky King" TV series, flares out the wing tips at the neck and catches the third end at the belt line.

Some New Products For Home

By Lawrence Galton

"FREE HEAT": Devices called "free heaters" and "heat reclaimers" got fanfare two years ago. The idea: In oil burner systems, much heat is wasted in smokestack and, by inserting a special device between furnace smoke outlet and stack, additional heat can be recovered, used in basement, or piped to some cold room or to an addition. One problem with many devices: soot deposits quickly knocked down efficiency. Now you may find a new development worth looking into. It has an automatic desooter said to prevent soot build-up, can be added to any oil-fired heating unit. Warmed air from it can be ducted up to 35 feet away or with a booster fan, can go almost anywhere in the house.

MAKE IT REVOLVE: You may find many uses for a lazy susan bearing you can build into shelves, coffee and TV tables, table tops, games, tool and parts racks, etc. You can set your own tray, platform, etc., on it. Beyond revolving and making things easy to reach for convenience, it also may make some otherwise wasted space useful. Made of steel, with interlocked sections and ball bearings, it comes in three sizes: 3-inch for revolving fixtures up to 18-inch diameter; 6-inch for up to 30-inch diameter; and 12-inch for up to 60-inch diameter.

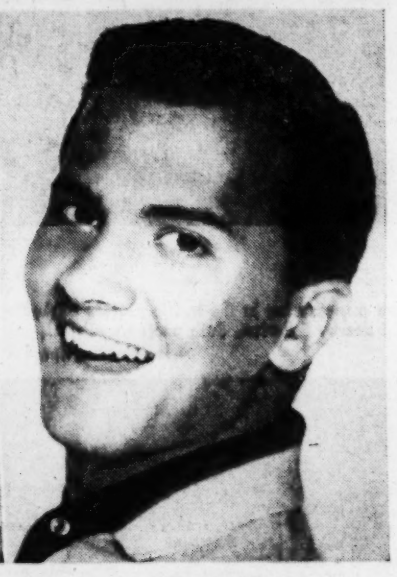

FOR LIVING ROOM: Now they're making upholstered furniture with a new system of seating suspension. A small torsion device of metal and rubber, similar to that used in some cars, replaces bulky standard suspensions, such as woven jute webbing and supporting base springs. It's said to provide uniformly distributed, flexible support for greater seating comfort, eliminating pocketing, sagging and hammocking effects. Also featured: A new type of cushioning, combining a central core of foam rubber with a top layer of Dacron or down, which, claims the maker, gives you the sensation of sitting in rather than on the furniture, and is extremely tough, longer wearing, readily cleanable.

If you'd like further information on any of the above items, write Lawrence Galton in care of the Post-Dispatch, identifying item, giving date of appearance and inclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope.

ELVIS PRESLEY

PAT BOONE

There's been a revolution in popular music since the rise of Elvis Presley. Today the teen-ager is king—chief listener, buyer, maker of stars. The switch from jazz and swing to rock 'n' roll baffles adult music leaders—but they're making more money than ever by catering to teen tastes.

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2 (AP).

AMONG the five best-selling records in the nation today are: "Sixteen Candles" by the Crests.

"Stagger Lee" by Lloyd Price.

"Donna" by Ritchie Valens.

Ever hear them? The chances are no, if you are of voting age and spend little time near radios and juke boxes. But if you're a teen-ager, you doubtless dig these discs the most.

This is offered as evidence of how the folkways of America have changed. There was a time when a song hit was on everyone's lips. The young and the old would be singing "Yes, We Have No Bananas" or "Who's Afraid of the Big, Bad Wolf" or "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition."

That situation no longer exists. The popular music field is now dominated—some say monopolized—by a single age group, the teen-agers.

"The kids are running the show," adds Randy Wood, who built Dot Records into an industry.

If even the leaders of the record business can't figure out what is happening, what chance is there for us adult laymen? We listen to the hit records in astonishment. What comes out is foreign to generations that were reared on jazz and swing.

We hear the raucous honking of saxophones and the steady twanging of guitars. The voices seem unmusical; they sing-shout the unschooled words of lament for young love. The tones appear little removed from the mountain country of the south.

A whole new crop of performers and song writers has taken over. It is virtually impossible for the veteran pop singers—the Frankie Laines, Dinah Shores, Jo Staffords—to get a hit record.

Typical of the new stars is lean, tousle-haired Jimmy Rodgers, a Washington state boy who lived on candy bars and soft drinks in New York City while trying to break in as a singer. Then he recorded "Honeycomb," a million seller. Now Jimmy's earning $200,000 a year.

"It's tough for any girl singer these days," says Wood, mentor of Pat Boone's career. "Teen-age girls buy most of the single records and they seem to want a secret love affair with their favorite singer. Because of this, the publicity about Pat's family life has hurt his single sales, though he's getting a broader audience all the time."

Likewise, the longtime writers of great American songs scarcely get a look-in on the current pop market. The tunes of Irving Berlin, Cole Porter and Richard Rodgers are neglected for such numbers as "Whole Lotta Lovin'" and "I Got Stung."

Whence came this power of teen-agers to impose their musical tastes on the entire population?

Says a psychologist: "Every generation has the urge to discover and enshrine its own heroes and entertainments. This is especially true of today's teenagers, who were born into and reared in the wartime era of lax family controls. They are seeking a break with the past."

The number and purchasing power of teen-agers is impressive enough. Eugene Gilbert, of the Gilbert Youth Research Co., says 17,000,000 American teen-agers earn $9,500,000,000 a year. They listen to the radio an average two hours daily and spend a good part of their average $10 weekly income to buy the records they hear.

Rock 'n' Roll Question Session

Q. What is the teen-age music called?

A. Rock 'n' roll, rhythm and blues, hillbilly or rockabilly.

Q. Is it new?

A. No. A wedding of jazz and mountain music, it was issued for years under the category of "race records."

Q. Who sings it?

A. Elvis Presley was the trailblazer, followed by Rickey Nelson, the Everly Brothers, Jimmy Rodgers and dozens of others, most of them armed with guitar.

Q. Is it good music?

A. Most musicians, parents and jazz lovers say it is terrible. Many say the lyrics are suggestive or downright dirty. Teen-agers couldn't care less about such opinions.

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

HERE is a bidding bridge problem for you to consider. How would you handle it? The suggested answer is presented below along with the defense of today's hand.

1. You are South and hold these cards:

♠KJ105
♥Q104
♦AQ6
♣AJ7

The bidding has gone:

South	West	North	East
1N.T.	Pass	2N.T.	Pass

What call do you make?

2. You are defending the East cards of today's five-club contract and West opens the three of diamonds to dummy's queen. Study only the North and East cards and the bidding, then plan your defense.

East-West vulnerable.

	♠K83 ♥AQ ♦97 ♣QJ10964

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	1♦	Pass
2♣	Pass	5♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

2. East defeats the five-club contract by making a suit-preference signal which enables him to give West a ruff. West's opening lead of the diamond three is obviously a singleton and East sees that the best chance to save game is to gain a diamond ruff for West. This can be done if West happens to hold the ace and another trump.

East wants West to shift to a spade, not a heart, when he gets in with the trump ace, and he assures this by playing the jack of diamonds under dummy's queen on the opening lead. Declarer leads a club to West's ace, and West can see from the bidding that his partner's jack was not a singleton. Thus it must be a suit-preference signal — the play of an unnecessary high card to call for the return of the higher-ranking of the two remaining side suits.

So West leads a spade and East takes the ace and gives his partner a diamond ruff for down one.

ANSWERS TO QUIZ

1. South bids three spades. He expects to reach game, and he has nothing to lose by suggesting the possibility of playing it at spades rather than no-trump. North will bid four spades with something like four trumps and a weak doubleton, else he will return to three no-trump.

Is Any Film Star Worth $1,000,000?

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP).

IS ANY FILM STAR worth $500,000 to $1,000,000 a picture, plus a share of its profits?

In a rare bit of public breast-beating, producer Sam Goldwyn recently declared exorbitant salary demands by actors were "the chief danger" facing the movie industry.

OTTO PREMINGER

"It's the wrong thing to cry in public about stars asking for too much money. In a free competitive society, anyone is privileged to ask anything he wants for his services. But if you don't want to pay them, you don't have to.

"If I find an actor asks too much, I simply don't employ him. I find somebody else.

"Is any actor worth a million dollars a picture? You can't generalize. He might be worth more than a million dollars—if his services are truly unique—or he might be worth less than nothing. The public really decides that question at the box office."

Preminger said producers themselves were largely to blame for the present high salary demands of actors.

"This all started by bribery," he declared crisply. "It resulted from producers persuading actors to play in scripts the actors really didn't want any part of. The only way the producers could get them was to pay them more and more money.

"Actually, of course, there are no fixed salaries for stars today. What a star asks for depends on how much he wants to do a part. The less he wants it the more he'll probably ask.

"But although he can collect a huge amount for appearing in a flop, his standing is impaired until he makes another hit—and so is his ability to ask for a huge salary.

"An actor can price himself out of the market—or ruin himself in the long run—if he consistently aims at the big dollar rather than the good script and the right role. The story is still the most important thing—to the actor, the director, the producer, and the public."

As a producer, Preminger sometimes is a bit on the daring side when it comes to casting. One gamble he feels sure will pay off is the hiring of Boston lawyer Joseph Welch, star of the Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954, to play the judge in his latest film, "Anatomy of a Murder."

"In show business everything is a gamble," he remarked. "That's what makes it exciting; that's why I'm in it. But I get most of my enjoyment in the making of a picture—not what happens to it. Therefore, I don't get too elated by success—or too depressed by failure. I look at my life as a whole."

Preminger feels the motion picture industry is undergoing a long-range change that will ultimately improve it.

"I don't think television has hurt motion pictures," he said. "We have had only a temporary setback. Television will face the problem of becoming a second-rate advertising medium rather than a first-rate entertainment medium.

"Pay television will come, and when it comes it will be a good thing. Meanwhile the showing of old pictures on TV has made it necessary for us to compete against what we did before. This merely forces us to be better than we were, and growth is good for anybody."

The Wild Freedom of Mountain Men

Early Western Hunters Lived in a World Far Removed From the One That Bred Them

Does the modern, televised, fictionized image of the mountain man begin to do him justice—or does it glamorize him unduly? Was his mission to make clear the way of civilization? You may be surprised by some of the answers in this colorful account of the brief era when these individualists pursued their dream of freedom. The writer, William Brandon, who has spent much time in the West, has used this background as a basis for short stories, magazine articles and books, including "The Man and the Mountain." This is the latest installment in "The Best From American Heritage."

By William Brandon

—Metropolitan Museum of Art.

"Fur Traders Descending the Missouri," from a painting by George Caleb Bingham.

FREEDOM IS A WORD that has had many meanings. In all its disguises it has been relentlessly pursued, but perhaps it has been longest hunted under its most artless aspect — the simple notion of individual liberty and unrestraint. Jean Jacques Rousseau reduced this ancient and naive dream of individual freedom to concise statement in 1750, mistakenly choosing primitive man, the noble savage dancing in the forest primeval, as his example. But a half century later a phenomenon began to emerge in western America that in many respects brought the dream remarkably to life. This was the free trapper, the Rocky Mountain man.

The mountain man first appeared with the Lewis and Clark report of beaver swarming in the streams of the western mountains. He lived a brief uproarious generation and vanished in the early 1840s when the market for beaver dwindled and vanished, and the beaver nearly disappeared with it, almost trapped out.

Due to the remoteness of his hunting grounds, the Shining Mountains of the Far West, the mountain man was the first inhabitant of America to find himself at ease with the familiar concept of great land distances that Europeans still remark as one of our national attributes. He was seldom a pioneer consciously clearing a way for others to follow—he was only hunting beaver.

He lived on his own in a neolithic world far removed from the Steel Age civilization that had bred him. He brought along only a few of its tools: traps, rifle, knife, awl, powder and lead. He traveled with small, loosely organized groups of his own kind, a handful of men swallowed in an infinity of dark forests and strange winds. His joy was the sensual animal pleasure of life lived for its moments, one by one. He hunted with glowing eyes and spilled blood on pine needles unstirred for centuries.

He owned a mule or horse or two and an Indian girl. He dressed in skins she worked up for him, and she had warm water ready for his feet when he came in to his camp from wading the icy beaver streams. In the summer, when trading caravans came from St. Louis, he packed the spoils of his year's plunder to the great trappers' rendezvous in the mountains, bartered it for a whoop and a holler and a howling hangover, and set out on the next long hunt.

He floated on the rolling rivers in boats of skin or bark or rafts of logs. He probed out trails that are railroads and highways today, and learned the way from the plains of Kansas to California and from the deserts of New Mexico and Utah to the fern-grown rain forests of Oregon.

Probably the mountain men surpassed the Indians in at least a number of the necessary skills of reading sign, hunting, living off a wild and ominous land, fighting and hiding and running like agile beasts, lying concealed in brush and rocks throughout a thirsty day if necessary, starving, stealing horses, going dirty, enduring sun and cold and cracking alkali. In some of these things they must have surpassed the Indians to survive.

They were a variegated, highly individualistic bunch, much more so than any vocational group in the confines of civilization.

There were men from what are called good homes among them and scrapings from the muddy waterfronts of the big rivers from New Orleans to the Yellowstone; intelligent men and mental defectives from backwoods slums, heroes and victims and villains and clowns and all the shades between.

They had in common only a constant insecurity and a boundless freedom, both of such dimensions as to be appalling to those sheltered by a civilized world. In their brief time, and it is noteworthy that it was without intention on their part — they were only hunting beaver—the mountain men created a vector of force that was an important factor in extending the sovereignty of the United States over the whole enormous western half of the continent.

—Colorado State Historical Society.

Typical trapper, from a painting by Waldo Love.

To some, the lack of restraint and the challenge resulted in the realization of lives of monumental stature, lives which stamped their mark on the changing world, and afforded to an extraordinary degree that inner recognition of a reason for living.

Such were Jedediah Strong Smith, the triumvirate of Jim Bridger, Kit Carson and Thomas Fitzpatrick, and a number of others.

Jed Smith was a rather mystical, probably inspired young man, the greatest explorer among all the far-ranging mountain men. It seems that as a youth he dreamed of going forth and cracking the vast shell of the unknown new world of the West, and when he grew up he went and did it.

Kit Carson is still a dime novel hero, as he was during his lifetime, but his own biographer disclaims any notion that Kit may have been an orthodox great man. A great man may be a famous general or politician but scarcely someone dressed in buckskins and dirt who says "thar" and "mought be" and grunts with satisfaction over the strenuous business of ripping off an enemy's scalp. Achilles could slit dead Hector's ankles and lace through thongs and drag him to his chariot, while the women of Troy screamed in anguish from the walls, but that is different. Kit Carson had a profound influence on shaping the new West, and he had, according to most contemporary accounts, an exceptional integrity and greatness of soul, being apparently equally remarkable for modesty and bravery, kindliness and honesty.

Maybe all this makes him a great man, maybe not. What is more interesting, or at least more worthy of speculation, is the thought that Kit Carson and others like him may well have attained, during their development, a high point of freedom in the career of humankind.

But the human character is an individual thing, and in the hour of the mountaineers' leathery blue-blazing reality there were many for whom the lack of restraint led only to lives that were orgies of unrestraint. They were accustomed to coming upon dismembered bodies of their companions—the head put up on a stake (with the hat on) and shot full of arrows—so they might go among wounded Indians after a battle and butcher them in grotesque fashion also. Or they might indulge the vacuum of restraint by simply yelling.

They yelled when they fought Indians and they yelled when they fought grizzlies and they yelled when they dashed to meet strangers; they sang and shouted around a nightly feast, just to fill up the infinite starry space with noise. They yelled when they stampeded and stole horses and when they chased and stole women. They killed anything that moved on the slightest provocation, including each other, and sometimes for no reason at all, as when Jim Higgins of Ewing Young's company felt an urge while in his cups to shoot and kill Big Jim Lawrence, and did so.

A much quoted passage of Ruxton, the British author and traveler who knew the mountain men, runs: "Not a hole or corner in the vast wilderness of the 'Far West' but has been ransacked by these hardy men . . . the beaver hunter has set his traps in every creek and stream." But this is preceded by a passage that has not been so much quoted: "Constantly exposed to perils of all kinds, they become callous to any feeling of danger, and destroy human as well as animal life with as little scruple and as freely as they expose their own. Of laws, human or divine, they neither know nor care to know. . . . They may have good qualities, but they are those of animal; and people fond of giving hard names call them revengeful, bloodthirsty, drunkards (when the wherewithal is to be had), gamblers, regardless of the laws of meum and tuum. . . . However, there are exceptions, and I have met honest mountain men."

A free trapper who owned to the most unrestrained reputation in the mountains was one William Sherley Williams, known as Old Bill. He lived more than 40 years withdrawn from civilization. The last 23 or 24 were spent in the Rocky Mountains. As a young man he had been for a time a preacher in backwoods Missouri; in his old age he was famous even among the mountain men for his rugged individualism.

Old Bill carried free self-determination a step farther than most of his colleagues. Generally the trappers liked to move and camp together in small parties. This meant added protection against Indians, help in case of injury or accident, more hunters to bring in meat, and the human satisfaction of companionship. But Old Bill went much alone, especially as he grew older, so much so that one of his many titles came to be Old Solitaire. He frequently spent the winters living with Indians, most often with the Utes, in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, but through the long hunting season he walked by himself.

He was secretive about his trapping grounds. If Bill Williams was the envy of the shaggy, independent mountain men because among them he was the most independent, the shaggiest, the dirtiest, and could go on the biggest sprees, he was also envied for the rich loads of furs he brought to rendezvous or Bent's Fort. But only he knew where he had trapped them, and so an air of mystery was added. Stories were told of his mountain knowledge and trail wisdom, his witchery at trapping, his supernatural skill in hunting, his uncanny instinct for danger, his boldness and ferocity in a fight, and the scalps he had taken, and the wounds he had received; his pranks and hell-roaring Taos drunks; and his solitudes, and it was this last that impressed the mountain men more solemnly than all the rest.

Stories were told of his unbelievable strength and endurance. Stories were told that pictured him as rabid and treacherous, or as compassionate, generous, warmhearted and true.

Ruxton made of Old Bill a character typed so strikingly that he has lived ever since in western fiction—the old man of the mountains, the past-master frontiersman who has seen more things with his faded eyes than can be dreamed of in tenderfoot philosophies, the eccentric oldtimer, full of hard liquor and ancient reputation, who saves the wagon train in between comical jets of tobacco juice.

"Do'ee hyar now," Ruxton has him say, as a constant expression. "Do'ee hyar now, boys? Thar's Injuns knocking round, and Blackfoot at that; but thar's plenty of beaver too, and this child means trapping anyhow."

But Old Bill Williams was more enigmatic than comic, and as a toiling, godless, worn Ishamelite, he was essentially more pathetic than either.

When he was 61 years old he betrayed his friends, the Utes, while on an extended Taos binge, and led a detachment of soldiers against them. In the ensuing fight his arm was shattered by a bullet "most horribly." (He kept on fighting until the battle was over.) A few months later he joined John Charles Fremont's fourth expedition as guide. The expedition ended in disaster in a Rocky Mountain winter, nearly a third of the men died of cold or starvation, and Old Bill, after desperate efforts to save the expedition, was brought into Taos unable to walk, nearly sightless, frozen, according to one report, as high as his hips, and so emaciated as to be unrecognizable. And accused, incidentally, of cannibalism. Only a few weeks later he returned to the mountains after the expedition's baggage. He and his companion, another survivor of the expedition, disappeared and were never heard of again. It is presumed they were killed by Indians.

How to Keep Warm on Cold Days

By Patricia McCormack

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (UPI).

NO NEED to be chilled about winter cold.

Just pay attention to some of the Army's bundling tricks. It boils down to making a vacuum jug out of yourself. The secret is layers of clothing, not weight.

The layers provide dead air space between you and the cold. This keeps the heat from escaping and insulates you.

Several layers of medium weight clothing will keep you warmer than one heavy garment, even if the single garment is as thick as the combined layers.

Don't get too hot. If you feel you're heating up and about to perspire, open clothing at neck and wrists to let cool air in—and some of the heat out.

Remind the children to whisk the snow off their clothing because body heat eventually will melt the snow, making the clothing damp. For warmth, clothing must be kept dry on the outside, too.

Don't bundle up too tightly. If you do, you'll squeeze out the layers of insulating air, upsetting the "vacuum jug" principle.

Pass these hand and foot notes on to hubby and children, since they're out-of-doors more than you are, as a rule:

It's feet first when first you start to get cold. Wear layers of wool socks, in graduate sizes, with the larger fitted over the smaller. When it's very cold, keep feet moving. Stamp them up and down, scrunch up your toes and wiggle them.

Wear layers of gloves, all loose-fitting. Loose knit wool gloves, under an outer shell that's not too tight, will keep your hands warmer than one heavy pair.

Safety Note

Japanese Troupe Scores TV Hit

By James Bacon

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2 (AP)

A TROUPE of Japanese performers last night brought Tokyo's Ginza to Main Street U. S. A. and gave television one of the year's finest variety hours.

The Japanese players even did something that few American stars have ever done. Among the heaviest studio audience applause of the evening was a roisterous hand for a commercial.

Shirley MacLaine and French star Louis Jourdan also appeared with the Japanese performers, acting as hostess and host for the NBC color show.

One of the show stoppers was an indescribable—by American standards — act called, "The Rice Paddies." Steve Parker, husband of Miss MacLaine, packaged the Japanese show and said it took almost a year to sell the network on "The Rice Paddies" alone.

"I couldn't describe them," said Parker, "except to say they were a howl. But when I told the network all they do on the stage is knead and pound rice dough, I got strange looks."

Another comedy favorite, more familiar to American viewers, were the Nagata Kings, who did a baseball pantomime that was something out of Chaplin.

Izumi Yukimura sang "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" and then dueted with Jourdan on a rock 'n' roll belter "Great Balls of Fire." Izumi's performance on the latter number was Elvis Presley at his best.

Martha Carr's OPINION

A Smoke-Filled Marriage

Dear Martha:

I HAVE BEEN MARRIED two years. My husband was a bachelor in his late forties when we married. He is a good provider and a wonderful husband. I have a child by a previous marriage. My problem is that my husband smokes cigars one right after the other. When he isn't smoking he is chewing tobacco. His friends joke about it but most people make fun of him. Our house, our clothes, our car smell of cigars. When I go out, people laugh and ask me what brand of cigars I smoke. If I say anything to him he gets mad. I don't want to break up our home but for the life of me I can't stand much more. And the expense is terrific.

DESPERATE.

Many women could understand why you'd be doing a slow burn, but don't let your marriage go up in smoke. Instead, buy some of the many products now on the market which dissipate odors. Even if you do have to share his affection with a box of cigars, be grateful for him as a "good provider and wonderful husband." On the other hand you do have a right to live in a neat home, and you might ask him to be a little more fastidious in his habits. But don't nag until he can't enjoy his home. A smoke-filled house is far better than a bickering one.

Dear Martha:

WHAT'S WRONG with talking about one's self? Nowadays, it's the only safe topic with the merry-go-round coffee breaks becoming so popular. When I talk about myself at least I can't be accused of being a gossip or a snoop. There are far too many of these people already, and you aren't going to interest them in the weather or the latest novel since they are too busy analyzing people who want to mind their own business.

SAFE AT LEAST.

It may be safe—but it's also boring. Modesty is one of our sadly underrated virtues these days, so if you want to stymie your amateur analyst friends, keep quiet and let them try to figure you out. In these talky times, you'll be a welcome rarity.

IN ANSWER TO L. M.: Since you mention hospital work as a possibility, how about practical nursing? The St. Louis Public Schools offer an approved course which could lead you into hospital work or private duty. The course is open to Missouri residents between the ages of 18 and 50, of good health, and with two years of high school or their equivalent. Call or write Mrs. Katherine Spross, R. N., co-ordinator of the Practical Nurse Program, John O'Fallon Technical High School, 5101 Northrup avenue, PRospect 6-4357 or PRospect 6-2215.

Are you looking for new friends? Why not join one of the hobby clubs in St. Louis or perhaps a Golden Age group? You'll find many congenial acquaintances and new activities. Martha Carr can send you lists which will give you the time and meeting place and person to call for further information. Write today for Martha Carr's Hobby Club and Senior Citizen Club lists. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Senator Green's Wise Move

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 2.

I THINK Senator Theodore F. Green's retirement as head of the Foreign Relations Committee was a very wise move. He has been able to carry responsibility longer than most people, but it is rare that one does not feel handicaps before one reaches the nineties.

Senator Green is to be congratulated for having been able to accept heavy responsibilities for such a long time. He has dealt with these responsibilities ably and well. His great value now, of course, is his long experience and background, the knowledge he has of the past, and the fact that he can back the young people who want to go forward. One lesson a great many young people can learn from Senator Green is self-imposed discipline. He probably has kept himself in good condition by the rigorous mental and physical routine he has imposed on himself. This kind of self-discipline will do a great deal to keep a man or a woman able to perform the tasks required of them.

Senator Green will remain on the committee, and I feel sure Senator Fulbright will be strengthened by his presence there. We are fortunate to have a Senator with an international outlook such as Senator Fulbright's to take Senator Green's place. We can both congratulate him and congratulate the committee.

I WENT to Hyde Park on Friday morning for the annual ceremonies at my husband's grave which take place on his birthday. Three children came to represent the National Foundation—one polio child, and two who represented the new areas which the foundation will cover through research and care. I am very happy that the foundation is not only carrying on the responsibility of continuing the March of Dimes to help the victims of polio, but also has undertaken to do new research in fields to help the public—the children, in particular.

The President's wreath was brought as usual by the commandant of West Point, with his aide and four cadets. Gen. and Mrs. Davidson, his aide and the cadets, after a tour of the house and library, all came to lunch with my son, John, and his wife and myself. Wreaths were also laid by the Legion post and the Home club in Hyde Park, and the prayers were said by the Rev. Gordon Kidd of St. James Episcopal Church.

IN THE EVENING I spoke at the high school, on the subject of education at home and abroad, before an audience of the P.-T.A. representatives of our various schools in this area.

My grandson, Elliott Roosevelt Jr., and his wife came up on Wednesday evening and left Hyde Park Sunday morning for New England.

The quiet of the country gives one time to do some of the neglected work which the daily routine in the city never seems to permit one to achieve. But I was back in New York on Sunday afternoon, when I had the pleasure of receiving Mrs. Hansa Mehta of India at tea. She worked with me on the Human Rights commission and has long been a force in educational work in India.

Unwanted Radio Signals from Space

By Dr. I. M. Levitt

Director, Franklin Institute Planetarium, Philadelphia

IN TONIGHT'S SKY the "baby" Vanguard is circling the earth and transmitting radio signals back to the earth Vanguard was launched March 17. It has been telemetering back information ever since.

At this moment scientists say the one thing they do NOT want is more information on the temperature of Vanguard. Yet its radio is alive and continues to transmit.

Not only have we had nine months of information cascading back but, with Vanguard's high altitude, it will continue cluttering up a radio frequency for 200 years more.

This points up a serious problem first brought to attention by Andrew G. Haley, president of the International Astronautical Federation.

Haley pointed out that the continuous transmitting of the sputniks on the 20 and 40 megacycle band was a violation of treaties signed by every country, including Russia.

He showed the use of these frequencies was illegal because they had been assigned to stations on earth. The continuous transmission on this frequency affected the operation of the legal transmitters.

Haley said the assignment of the frequencies is valid for the "airspace" over a nation. Some space law experts may argue these vehicles are not in a country's airspace but in "outer space" and thus not subject to regulations.

But Haley feels that if these frequencies are not subject to control then we had better make provisions for controlling them. For years he has tried to alert governments to the consequences of ignoring regulations and permitting indiscriminate choice of frequencies.

He pointed out the radio spectrum is limited and our civilization is making more and more demands on this spectrum. While the sputniks were in the sky the 20 and 40 megacycle band were useless for certain periods of time. They have since been silenced. But as we have seen, the 108 megacycle band is cluttered up and will remain so for two centuries.

DR. I. M. LEVITT

If the scientist had his way, he would turn off Vanguard's transmitter. But how? Weapons are not yet available for knocking the satellite out of the sky.

But unless the situation is cleared up, we may someday find ourselves unable to transmit signals on earth at all. This is not merely an abstract problem. It affects us now—on earth.

Dr. Wehrner von Braun speaking on the cluttering up of the radio spectrum, suggested to this writer that all satellites be designed to transmit only on command from the earth.

A year ago this would have been unthinkable. Our payloads were too small. However, the state of the art in this country has advanced and today equipment can be installed in satellites so continuous radio transmission is unnecessary.

Next April there will be a meeting of the Consultative Committee on International Radio in Los Angeles. Circulated will be a proposal noting that "observations of radio emissions of the first earth satellites have already yielded valuable information about the ionosphere, as well as about the problem of space travel." The committee will recommend "clear channels be set aside for the use of satellite and space ship emissions." Thus under the leadership of Haley, our foremost authority on space law, some plan may emerge. One is long overdue.

Vignettes of History

The dramatic capture and search of Major John Andre, popular young British officer, thwarted the plot of the traitor Benedict Arnold to turn over to British General Clinton the plans of the defense at West Point—the strength in men and armaments, the lay of the land, and vulnerable areas. Andre was captured and searched by three Westchester patriots near Tarrytown, New York, on September 23, 1780, and the defense details were found in his stockings. In civilian dress when captured, Andre was tried, condemned, and hanged as a spy. (These vignettes do not necessarily pertain to the daily puzzles.)

CLUE: This city is a port of entry. It grew around Fort Brooke, built in 1823 by an American force. During the Spanish-American War, Theodore Roosevelt trained his Rough Riders here.

ANSWER ____ TAMPA

HOW TO PLAY:

In the Sample Puzzle, as in each of the 66 Official Puzzles, there are exactly enough letters contained within the square to spell correctly the name of a certain place in the United States. The object of the game is to untangle the letters and, using the clue as a guide, determine and spell out the name. IT IS NOT NECESSARY TO WRITE THE NAME OF THE STATE. The correct name of the city or town is all that is required.

Fix-It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

AS A GENERAL RULE, it's good to have a certain amount of moisture vapor in the air inside your home during cold weather. Experts say that most of us feel best when the moisture content or humidity of the air is around 40 per cent or so. When the house air becomes too dry it requires more heat to make us feel comfortable. It also dries out the mucous membrane in our noses and throats which is not good. If the air inside a house is too dry it can damage furniture and other possessions.

When house air is too dry we can add moisture to it with a device called a "humidifier." These are rather simple devices which can be set by the homeowner to provide the desired house air.

Some of these are made to work in conjunction with the warm air furnace. If you have a warm air furnace that is fairly new the chances are that it has its own humidifier. If you have one and the air inside your house is dry, it's possible that the humidifier has been turned off or was never connected to the water pipes. A humidifier must have a source of water.

Other types of humidifiers work independently of the heating system and can be set at any part of the house. The wonderful thing about water vapor is that no matter where it is created, it will immediately distribute itself throughout the entire house so that the water content of the house air will always be just about at the same level.

Mystery of Big Checks, No Funds to Cover Them

By Bob Barnes

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (AP).

WHY? That's the question in a case that could be called "the mystery of the bottomless checking accounts."

The first arrest was made weeks ago, and police are still trying to find answers to these questions: How could a highly profitable suburban bank — without anyone doing anything about it—pay out close to a million dollars on checks not backed up by deposits?

How did hundreds of these checks get "lost?" Who profited? And above all, why did a highly respected bank officer apparently cover bad checks time after time for people who weren't even good friends?

Police think the man with the key to these mysteries is mild-mannered, unassuming John Petersen, 48-year-old former vice president and cashier of what until recently was the Sun Valley National Bank in the San Fernando valley community of Pacoima.

Officers believe that it was because of Petersen that a number of the bank's customers enjoyed what every depositor dreams of — an unlimited checking account.

Petersen isn't talking. He pleaded innocent to a charge of making a false bank record entry.

AUTHORITIES say it started when Petersen agreed to hold one check drawn for more than the account contained, and when a subsequent deposit still was inadequate, continued to shield the client.

"It simply snowballed," says Norman W. Neukom, chief trial attorney for the United States attorney's office.

Investigators say they found 3690 checks stashed here and there—in Petersen's desk, safe deposit boxes, lockers and drawers upstairs and down. Their total: $928,611. Some were more than four years old.

They say Petersen paid off on countless worthless checks, then "misplaced" them around the bank so they would not be charged against inadequate accounts.

Twelve others are charged with aiding and abetting misapplication of bank funds and conspiracy to do so. Three are bank officers, including the former president, Maurice Ratner, 53. The others are mostly businessmen patrons.

Some say they hadn't the slightest idea what was going on. Others say a simple matter of timing in deposits and checkwriting is involved. Some are mum.

Assistant United States Attorney Thomas R. Sheridan considers Petersen "a victim of circumstances." He says "when others learned that he was being a 'good guy' to friends they demanded he hold checks for them, too, and before long he was enmeshed in an avalanche of uncovered checks."

But the picture is full of holes. Some defendants claim they never saw any money from surplus checks which flowed through their bank accounts. They say they were victimized.

And there's the matter of where the bank's internal audit system failed in not detecting the shortages.

"It's one of the most preposterous cases I've seen in 25 years with this office," says Neukom. "It's beyond comprehension that a person would cover checks for people who seem to have meant nothing to him."

Petersen's business association with the three other bank executives is his only known close link with other defendants, even though authorities think a friendly act initiated the shortages.

Petersen is married, with sons 18 and 8. His only comment, made after his arraignment: "I don't have any of the money. I'd like to know where it is."

Officials say he had $7880 in checks outstanding when the shortage was discovered after an audit last November. His account at the time contained $6.74.

Friends and neighbors speak well of him. He joined the bank in 1952, six months after it opened. He has a clean record. He was repainting his mortgaged $18,000 home when arrested.

Since the shortage came to light the bank has been taken over by the Security-First National Bank, which is now operating it.

TYPICAL OF the reaction of some charged is that of Charles B. Tribble, partner in a grocery chain for which 1254 checks totaling $296,067 were drawn against an account of $131.

"It was like having somebody knock you in the head," he says. "It wouldn't make sense for a bank to let a small business like ours be overdrawn more than $200,000 — that's just too much money for us. We had put in over $20,000 in several deposits a few days preceding that; I don't know what became of it."

TV Notes and Gossip

KEENAN WYNN . . . signed for new TV series, "Trouble Shooters," to start next fall.

ARCHIBALD MacLEISH, leading American poet and author of more than 20 books, has written his first television drama, "The Secret of Freedom," to be presented on NBC-TV some time within the next few weeks. The drama deals with democracy's world-wide rivalry with Communism. NBC-TV says filming will start next month, with outstanding actors of the theater and motion pictures in leading roles.

THE GEORGE BURNS SHOW on NBC-TV will be dropped after April 14. His spot probably will be taken over by "The Californians," which in turn will be replaced by a David Niven anthology series.

WITH NBC-TV'S "Ellery Queen" moving from Hollywood to New York, its star, George Nader, will be replaced. Mike Wallace was offered the role but turned it down. Right now Gig Young is a leading contender for the part.

"DENNIS THE MENACE" is coming to television. The new situation comedy, being filmed by Screen Gems, will be based on the characters and situations in Hank Ketcham's cartoon series. The role of Dennis will be played by 6-year-old Jay North. His TV parent will be Herbert Anderson and Gloria Henry. "Dennis" will make its debut on CBS-TV next fall.

JACK PAAR on his late night show on KSD-TV tonight will present an interview with Fidel Castro filmed in Havana last week. Tomorrow night he'll present a "human interest documentary" which he and columnist Jim Bishop filmed in Cuba.

Curing Buffalo Hides

By Ramon Coffman

A FUR TRADER named Daniel Harmon made a journey through the western plains of Canada 159 years ago. He spent much time among the Indians, and wrote a book which gives us facts about the natives before their ways were changed by the coming of white settlement. In one part of the book we read:

"They kill buffaloes with bow and arrows. They generally cut up the body into 11 pieces.

"In dressing the skin, they take off all the meat, then stretch the skin on a frame and let it dry. They next scrape off all the hair, and smoke the skin, after which they soak it in water for about a day.

"Then they wring it as dry as possible. A woman takes hold of each end, and they hold it over a fire until it is perfectly dry. After this, it is smoked over a fire built with rotten wood, and becomes fit for use."

Hides were stretched over the poles of a tepee (also spelled "tipi"). The covering made the tent fairly snug, but buffalo robes were needed to warm those inside during winter.

The hollow horns of buffaloes were used as drinking cups, or were cut and shaped into long spoons. Glue was prepared by boiling the hoofs, and the sinews were dried so they could serve as strings for bows. In addition, the sinews were employed as thread when garments were sewed together.

Buffalo robes, with the fur left on were used as blankets. The hide was turned into moccasins, also into other articles of clothing.

Often the flesh of a buffalo was sliced into thin pieces, and the pieces were dried and smoked. The slices remained good to eat for several months.

For HISTORY section of your scrapbook.
